Traffic Accidents Cost $16 Million in State up to March 31

Minnesota traffic accidents cost the people of this state $16 million during the first quarter of 1957.

The statement was included in a summary report from the Minnesota highway department which showed that 134 persons met death on streets and highways during the first three months of the year, 57 more than during the same period last year.

Basis for the cost estimate was a figure established by the National Safety Council. This figure of $120,000 per traffic death was based on the costs of one fatality, 35 accidents in which persons were injured, and 240 where there was no injury but reportable property damage, the approximate ratio of one type to the others.

"No one attempts to put a monetary value on human life," declared Harry A. Sieben, Minnesota's director of highway safety. "We spare no expense when our loved ones are ill.

"But there is a calculable cost of motor vehicle accidents which includes property damage, loss of wages, medical, hospital and death costs, insurance and many others. That is where the $120,000 figure came from.

"For Minnesota last year that cost was over $75½ million for the first three months of this year, the total has reached $16 million."

"We must have the help of every citizen in 'backing the attack on traffic accidents,'" the state director said. "It is up to every person to join with every civic and service organization to support and put into life-saving action every possible means of combating this civil war we wage against our friends and neighbors."

Stiffer Drunken Driving Penalty

Jail Term Is Mandatory for Second Conviction

Penalties for drunk driving were made more severe by a recent act of the Minnesota legislature and will be imposed on all convictions for offenses committed on or after April 4. G. A. Hatfield, director of the state's driver license section, announced.

Chapter 297, Minnesota Laws 1957, amending Section 169.12 of the traffic code now provides for a mandatory imprisonment for not less than 10 days for the second conviction for drunk driving within three years of any previous conviction. First conviction may result in either a fine or imprisonment; the new statute does not provide an option for a second conviction of driving while under the influence.

"As a result of other changes in our law," Hatfield added, "in all cases where there was a conviction for drunk driving no license of any sort can be issued for 30 days."

It provides that the department may no longer issue any license during this period of revocation; thus the drunk driver will be removed from the highways for at least 30 days or more, Hatfield said.

"The mandatory jail sentence and the 30 day minimum suspension should be a boon to the department's driver improvement program," he added, "as the knowledge of these penalties should deter the person who has been drinking from operating a motor vehicle. Since enforcement agencies report that drinking is a factor in more than half of the traffic accidents stricter laws are needed to remove this hazard."

Set Mental Health Workshop May 1st

Program to Be Planned at Minneapolis Session

Over 3,000 Minnesotans, representing 29 state service and professional groups, have been invited to attend the first program planning workshop held in Minnesota on the subject of mental health. Invitations were mailed last week.

With the theme of "You And Mental Health In Your Community," the workshop will be held on Wednesday, May 1, at the Minneapolis Women's Club.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Association for Mental Health, the six-hour program of lectures, films and panel discussions comes in the middle of Mental Health week, during which national attention will be focused on this crippling illness.

Dr. Dale C. Cameron, medical director of the state department of public welfare, will open the morning session with a talk on community mental health programs. An outstanding documentary film—"Anger At Work"—will follow Dr. Cameron's lecture.

During the luncheon meeting, Dr. Francis Camlin, psychologist of the Austin, Minn., public schools, will speak on community understanding of mental health. The ensuing period has been set aside for discussion of this talk by small groups.

A panel discussion on mental health as it affects various age groups will lead off the afternoon session. Moderated by Max Williamson, executive director of the Minnesota Association for Mental Health, the panel will take up the mental problems of children, adolescents, middle aged, and aging people. A question and answer period will follow.

The timely subject and quality of the program are expected to draw an excellent crowd, according to Mrs. J. Webb Hedin, Minneapolis, workshop chairman.

Old Fashioned Ideas

My share of the work of the world may be limited, but the fact that it is work makes it precious. Darwin could work only half an hour at a time; yet in many diligent half-hours he laid anew the foundations of philosophy. Green, the historian, tells us that the world is moved not only by the mighty shoves of the heroes, but also by the aggregate of the tiny pushes of each honest worker.

—Helen Keller

Soil Bank Alarmists

Some of our alarmists are now sure the country is going to pot because of the Soil Bank program. We can see no cause for concern, however, over the developments to date.

In some instances large farms have been taken out of production. Some of the owners are up in years and are using the plan as a means of retiring. A few young farmers are quitting for the time being and will seek employment in private industry.

But the number of those who are leaving the farms in our area is not great. That some would quit farming was to be expected, and it was predicted.

We should keep in mind that the purpose of the soil bank program is to take land out of production as a means of reducing crop surpluses. Only as this is accomplished is there basis for a hope that the plan will succeed. As these lands are needed in later years they will be returned to production.

Withdrawal of larger land holdings makes up to some extent for the many operators who are not in a position to take acres out of production. As the purposes of the program are accomplished these operators may hope to benefit by bigger returns on their production.

As we gain experience with the program we no doubt will discover defects in the plan. Changes will have to be made from time to time to meet changing conditions.

Fortunately both political parties claim credit for the sponsorship of the idea so we all should be able to agree that the purpose of the plan is good. It is too early at this time, certainly, to write it off as a failure.

Drawing to a Close

Another legislative season is drawing to a close and, as is usual in the home stretch, there is a long list of business to be disposed of in the few remaining days and nights. Included in this list are some of the most important bills, among them the measures providing for taxation and appropriations.

While no one knows exactly what the final disposition of some of these problems will be, we do know now what the final answer in some instances will not be. We know now, for instance, that Governor Freeman's tax package is not going to be adopted, and that much of his program involving increased spending is going to be curtailed. The overall prospect at this time is brighter than it was a few weeks ago.

In most of these end-of-the-session arguments, fortunately, the spenders are at a disadvantage. They seek changes in the law to accomplish their purposes. If the changes are not authorized then in most instances things remain as they are.

This means that the time factor in the closing days of the session favors those who prefer what we have to what is proposed. If time runs out they will have won the decision.

Few, if any, of the Governor's proposed changes in the tax structure are likely to be adopted. Actually they were not constructive. They provided for moving a few pieces around on the board, but basically our tax problem would remain the same. And in two years it would all have to be done over again.

For the next two years we are going to be able to muddle through without serious financial difficulties because of several windfall receipts. At the end of two years however, there is likely to be a critical shortage of revenue. That is the time when our tax structure will require a thorough going-over.

Many competent observers say that we are now spending ourselves into a general sales tax. We agree with this. And when the sales tax comes it will not come as a replacement tax but as a producer of needed additional revenue.

An Act of Desperation?

It would be surprising if the recent action of the Russian government stopping payment of interest on its bonds, would not lead to serious internal repercussions. These bonds are not owned by banks or insurance companies, or private financial organizations. They are held by Russian workers, purchased under a compulsory payroll deduction plan.

The bond purchases were encouraged by two capitalistic incentives, the payment of interest and participation in national lotteries. Lottery prizes included such things as lake cottages and the right to their private ownership. It would seem that the repudiation of a promise to reward the buyer with a return of interest is not going to be pleasing to the masses of the people.

Sale of these bonds has provided an important source of revenue for the government, as the huge total of outstanding obligations indicates. The decision to stop interest payments and to freeze the repayment of the principal over a long period of years must indicate that the government is in desperate condition financially.

More "Progress" on the Way

We marvel at modern techniques in food processing and preservation but apparently we "ain't seen nothin' yet." The Wall Street Journal reports that in the foreseeable future we will have "steaks and bacon that will keep six months on a kitchen shelf, dried sea food restored to fresh-caught flavor in minutes and canned vegetables that taste like fresh produce."

The changes will come gradually, it is said, and no doubt we will take them in stride. We will add this to the long list of things we will not worry about.

Postal Service Mess

We don't know which side won the argument over the appropriations for the post-office department payroll but the fact that Congress finally decided to make money available indicates that it had to do the backing down. And we hope Congress will have to yield too in the argument over postage rates.

Postmaster General Summerfield has pleaded for reasonable rate increases that would shift the cost of postal service to those who use the service. Politically-minded members of Congress, however, always enthusiastic spenders, seem to think they are benefiting the public, and their personal interests, by providing the service at less than cost.

We don't like to have our postage cost increased either, but we would rather pay a fair price for the service we use rather than pick up our share of the deficit as a taxpayer.

You sit there with 300 horses at your beck and call, complete control at your finger tips, and the surety of powerful new brakes at your toe touch.
You smooth your way over hills that seem to lose their tops.
You ride relaxed and composed—in creature comfort and supreme command.
But the Century—like all 1957 Buicks—speaks also of fresh, new styling—the look you like, the longer you look. And of new luxury—inside and out. New stretch-out roominess—new solid torque-tube steadiness of travel. New buoyancy of ride, and a glorious new ease of handling.
Come let this magnificent new Buick do its own talking. You'll find it sweet listening—right down to the price-talk.
*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Area Forester Warns of Danger of Fires

Dick Willems of Warroad, area forester with the state department of conservation, today appealed to residents of the wooded areas of Pennington, Marshall and Beltrami counties to exercise all possible caution in order to prevent fires from getting out of control in the area.

The law he said, requires that all who do burning when the ground is not snow covered or unless a fireguard has been freshly made or plowed down to mineral soil entirely around the area wherein the fire is set and of sufficient width to withhold the spread of flame, must first obtain a burning permit from their local township fire warden or from the forest ranger.

However, such permits may be refused by the township warden or ranger when it is deemed too dangerous to burn. The department asks that great care be used in setting and having fires and suggests that if burning is to be done it should be done on a cooperative basis with other neighbors so that there is plenty of help on hand if needed and that burning should be done in evening when wind is down.

Willems stated, "Our Department will have a roving patrol on duty during burning season to check on violation and to give advice to those who have burning to do. Following are the names and address of the township fire wardens for their respective township in Eastern Marshall County who are located in the areas where fires are most likely to start. We will appreciate the cooperation of the public in keeping fires down to a minimum."

Lloyd Hanson, Grygla, Espelie; Francis Haak, Grygla, Valley; Oscar Hagen, Grygla, Veldt; Robert Simmons, Gatzke, Linsell; Martin Holte Grygla, Eckvoll; Arthur Stien, Gatzke, Moose River; Herbert Dill, Holt, East Valley (Mud Lake Refuge); Harvey Wagner, Middle River; Clarence Tromsness, Middle River; Carl Holthusen, Grygla, Steenerson; Walfred Johnson and Andrew Hendrickson Grygla, Minnie; Saave Johnson and Oliver Howland, Grygla, Hamre; Ben M. Anderson, Grygla, Spruce Grove; Arne C. Wick, Grygla, Benville; Erling Glithvedt, Grygla, Northwood.

A list of names of township fire wardens in Pennington county was published in Monday's edition of the Times.

Parks Director Foresees Record Tourist Season

"If the weatherman cooperates we can expect the biggest tourist year in our history" is the prediction for 1957 by U. W. Hella, director, division of state parks. "At the rate requests for reservations are coming in we can expect 1957 attendance figures o far surpass those of 1956."

The division of State Parks continues to carry on the program of rehabilitation and expansion made possible by the "sticker" act passed by the legislature in 1953. Construction and improvements in the major parks, which must wait for warmer weather for completion, may cause some inconvenience and discomfort to early season visitors it is anticipated by park officials. An example is the installation of sewage systems in Itasca, Gooseberry, Lake Bemidji, Jay Cooke, Lake Carlos and Wm. O'Brien state parks.

"Everything possible is being done to rush improvements before Decoration Day" Hella said. "However, in a few cases where work is not completed we ask the early visitors to be patient and bear with us."

AND THEN... IT'S EASTER!

Yesterday, these four were their Mothers' despair. Their faces were grimy, their playclothes spattered with mud. They were even ready to put up their fists and fight when the rivalry between spacemen and cowboys became a little too keen.

Today, they are immaculate. They sing like young angels. They even look like angels... because today is Easter! And these boys are proclaiming the glorious message that Christ Is Risen.

Easter is the time of promise, beauty, awe at the miracle of birth and rebirth. Easter is the time to let the joy of living seep into you. It is the time to tell yourself that you believe... and, if there's been any doubt about it, to start believing again.

Spend part of your Easter in Church. Spend the rest of it looking, with new eyes, at the wonderland God has created around you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

STAGE FRIGHT PITCHER

By F. L. Rowley

FROM the shelter of the Eagles' dugout Bob Miller nervously scanned the crowded stands. The knowledge that most of these fans had come to see their new pitcher in action made him weak. This was his first game in the big league—he had to make a showing or it might be his last.

"Let's get going, Skinny!" cut in a gruff voice. "Warming up won't help you any, but it's one of the rules. Oh well, we can't win 'em all."

Bob sprang from the dugout as if a whip had flicked him. He didn't look back to see who was needling him—he knew. It was the Eagles' big catcher, Bull Mason. Bob found himself wondering what he had done to incur Bull's dislike.

"Sure hope your sad little curve is working today, Skinny," said Bull as he tossed a ball in Bob's direction. "These Hawks will knock your 'nothing-ball' clear out of sight. You won't find any friends at the plate this afternoon."

"Or behind it!" spat Bob.

When the game started he was mad clean through. He steamed each pitch into Bull as if he was trying to knock the burly catcher's head off. After retiring the side on fifteen pitches he stalked toward the dugout. The Eagles' manager, Artie Drew, was waiting for him.

"And just what do you think you're doing, Mr. Fireball?" screamed Artie. "Do you realize that this is the first inning, that it's early in the season, and that you have only one right arm?"

"Too fast?" Bob asked meekly.

Artie walked away and Bull covered a wide grin with both hands. Bob clenched his fists and turned his back on the big guy. He only hoped he could control his temper for eight more innings.

Bull kept after him until the seventh. Bob's curve was breaking cleanly now, but there was never so much as a grunt of encouragement from the big catcher. The fact that the Eagles had given him a five run cushion helped little; if he were to blow up the responsibility for losing the game would be his. Those eyes in the stands continued to stare, vulture-like, waiting for him to weaken.

Bull waddled out to the mound, grumbling as usual. "That last one wasn't too hot, Skinny," he warned. "Get with it! Owens is up next. Last time you fanned him with a lucky pitch. Keep 'em low and on the inside—if you know how!"

Bull came up behind him. "Want me to signal for a relief man, Skinny?"

Bob spun around. "Because of one bad pitch? Get back behind the plate and hang onto them—if you can!"

There was a glint in Bull's eye as he obeyed.

Bob was thoroughly aroused. He had never thrown so hard in his life. A few minutes later he realized that he had won his first game in the big league. As he reached the dugout a huge hand tugged at his sleeve.

"Still mad at me?" asked Bull with a grin.

"Forget it," said Bob. "We won didn't we? If you don't like me that's your business."

Bull looked around to make sure no one else was listening, then confided: "When I saw you looking at the stands before the game I knew you had stage fright."

"Stage fright?"

"Sure. I was scared stiff too on my first day in the majors. There's only one cure for it: get good and mad. Judging from the way my hand feels you were as mad as a guy can get without busting. You and me should win a lot of games, Skinny."

He was holding out his hand and Bob grasped it.

STOP FOR WHITE CANE

Consideration for the blind was asked today in a reminder from the Minnesota highway department that the traffic code provides that "a motor vehicle shall be brought to a stop and the right of way given to a blind person carrying a white cane with the arm extended." Repeated complaints from the blind to the department tell of persons who have had the cane knocked from their hands by careless drivers who drive past these pedestrians. The department noted that failure to yield the right of way is a misdemeanor, and that the use of a white cane by any person other than blind is also a misdemeanor.

THE WORLD OUTDOORS

ALMOST since time began the world has been inhabited by fishermen. Even before man appeared on the scene fish were a valuable menu item for numerous species of birds and animals. Man himself became a fisherman of necessity, in his ever-incessant search for food.

The patience of a modern angler would probably in no way compare to that of the first fisherman. He caught fish with his hands, waiting patiently beside some pool or stream until a lazy, unsuspecting fish swam close enough to be grabbed firmly or scooped quickly onto the dry land.

Later, some quick-thinking fisherman thought of the idea of using a spear. A poor marksman, who got tired of losing spear after spear, probably added the idea of attaching a vine to the spear so that it could be rescued—and in this fashion perhaps was the harpoon suggested.

The Egyptians are believed to be the first to take to line fishing, most likely using strong vines to which some object was attached as bait to lure the fish. As there were no hooks in those days, the angler waited until the fish had completely swallowed the bait, then pulled in both vine and fish. The Egyptians later invented crude hooks of bone and as years went by fishermen made their hooks of ivory, bronze, iron and finally, steel. Even with strong hooks, fish still managed to get away, so someone in our more modern age came up with the idea of putting a reverse barb on the hook to prevent the fish from slipping off. It helped, but strangely enough, we're still hearing tall stories about the big one that got away.

For some unexplainable reason, the fish that got away is always the biggest in the pond and every fisherman hopes someday to catch.

ideas from other editors

From The Mason County News, New Haven, W. Va.: In past times, a widely accepted theory held that wages came out of profits—and this belief, for obvious reasons, was a source of conflict between the owners of business and the workers. The theory is still held valid in some countries.

But a new and very different theory was conceived and acted upon in this country. John Chamberlain explains it succinctly in an article in The Freeman: "The American theory was that wages were paid out of production; that if you increased production, selling more and more items at less and less per item, the wages and the profits would rise together."

Henry Ford was the first to put this theory into practice on a big scale. Out of it came that unique and revolutionary thing — the American system of mass production, which has been accurately regarded as an economic miracle the world around.

But the principle of doing more business at a smaller profit per transaction was not, luckily, confined to production. Had it been, the results would have been limited. Retail business, with the chains doing the pioneering and other kinds of merchandisers joining the trend, followed the same idea. In mass distribution, as in mass production, a big volume of sales is made at a very small unit profit—and the result is a satisfactory total profit along with lower prices to the consumer.

Mass production and distribution have brought us unequalled material well-being.

* * *

From the South Pasadena Review, South Pasadena, Calif: A famous American industrialist once recommended going into debt as a means of getting ahead. Taken too literally, that would mean that people who were always in the hole should be great successes in life. The real meaning, it seems to us, is that debt can be a means to greater earnings while also serving to spur one to work harder to get out of debt. But never borrow from friends or relatives. It is often the cause of misunderstanding and bitterness. If you have need of a loan, drop into your bank and talk to one of the officials. You may be sure that banks are quite anxious to lend money for legitimate purposes with reasonable assurance of repayment. Before trying to borrow money from anyone, however, you might ask yourself if you would make such a loan to someone else if you had the money to spare. If not, you'd better forget it.

2,000 Students Coming Friday for Festival

Lincoln School Host to Young Musicians Friday and Saturday

Thief River Falls will be invaded Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, by more than 2,000 young high school musicians, who will assemble in the Lincoln high school auditorium and gymnasium for the annual state area music festival, it was announced today by Paul Anderson of this city, who is serving as festival manager.

The event is sponsored by the Minnesota Public School Music league, and is designed to stimulate interest in music among young people, and to raise the standards of performance.

All groups and soloists taking part in the festival have previously won "A" ratings in district festivals held at Crookston, Fosston, Ada and Greenbush before the Easter recess. Groups representing Lincoln high school will include the band, mixed chorus, girls' glee club, boys' glee club, vocal triple trio, woodwind quartet, brass ensemble and numerous vocal and instrumental soloists.

Anderson stated that Friday's program, opening at 9 a.m., will be devoted to vocal and instrumental solos and small ensembles, while on Saturday bands, choruses, glee clubs and orchestras will be heard.

The schools are divided into five classifications for the festival in accordance with their enrollments in Grades 10, 11 and 12.

Special Page in Times Dedicated to Home-Owners

Feature Resumed in This Issue Has Special Appeal for Do-It-yourself'ers

Starting with today's edition the Times will again have a special page dedicated to features of interest to home-owners and that hardy clan of Do-It-Yourselfers in the Thief River Falls area.

The page will contain suggestions on remodeling, redecorating, painting, landscaping, gardening—and of course new homes for those who are about to experience the thrill of a lifetime in buying or building a new home. Home plans will be presented each Monday, details of which will be made available to Times readers.

Since the farm plays such an important part in this area's economy that aspect of Operation Home Improvement won't be neglected, either. Articles on making the farm home more pleasant and comfortable in summer and winter will be found on our home-owners' page.

The Times' Home-Improvement page is part of a nationwide movement in fixing-cleaning-and-painting up homes to improve the appearance of the community.

Newfolden Man, 73, Dies at Car Wheel

Nicolai L. Stavee Is Death Victim Saturday

A 73-year-old Newfolden man, Nicolai Ludvig Stavee, was the victim of a heart attack as he was driving his automobile on highway 32 about a mile north of Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon.

Ray Hogenson reported a car with a "sick man" in it in the ditch by the curve north of the city about 1:50 p.m. and city police were dispatched to investigate, along with a local doctor and an ambulance, according to the police report.

Stavee was dead on arrival at Northwestern hospital, where he was taken by the ambulance.

Stavee's death was not charged as a highway accident fatality, according to the police, since he was believed to have run into the ditch after suffering the attack.

Trade Show at Arena Apr. 26-7

Signalizing the advent of Spring, 24 Thief River Falls business firms are joining forces to stage their annual automobile and trade show in the arena Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

In addition to two dozen or more shiny new 1957 models of automobiles, the show also will include the latest in home appliances and sporting goods. The arena will be open each day from 1 to 5:30 and from 7 to 10 p.m.

An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged for adults, with children admitted free if accompanied by their parents.

To stimulate attendance at the show, a $50 U. S. savings bond and two $25 bonds will be awarded as door prizes in a drawing. Ten names will be drawn after each show, and it will be necessary to be present to qualify for the final drawing, in which 30 names will be competing. It is not necessary to be present at the final drawing to be eligible for a prize.

Also scheduled for Saturday evening, April 27, is the outstanding Lee Grabel magic show to be presented in the municipal Auditorium at 8 o'clock. A matinee performance will be given at 4 p.m. at reduced prices.

Pos[illegible] Again Makin[illegible]turday Mail Deliveries

Thief River Falls postoffice last week-end resumed its usual Saturday schedule of mail deliveries in the city and on the rural routes, and windows were open from 8:30 until noon, in response to orders received from Washington Friday after Congress had voted $41,000,000 to relieve the fund shortage in the department, Postmaster R. J. Dryden stated that until further orders are received, windows at the postoffice will continue to be open daily except Saturday from 8:30 to 5, instead of from 8 to 5:30 as was formerly the case.

Entries Being Taken for Teen-age Road-E-O

Local teenagers and those from the surounding area will have a chance to compete for some valuable prizes at the Jay-Cee spring Road-E-O on Saturday, May 11th in Thief River Falls. The high scoring contestants locally will be given an expense paid trip to compete in the Jay-Cee state Road-E-O.

There the written examinations and performance obstacle driving tests are repeated, only more difficult this time. The state winner is then given an all expense paid trip to Washington, D. C. where the contestants will compete for $4,500 in scholarships and also trophies.

Throughout this nation, Hawaii, Alaska and Canada, teenagers have overwhelmingly endorsed the Jay-Cee Road-E-O, for it is here that the teenager has a chance to prove himself as a safe driver. Through the Road-E-O, the teenager can alleviate much public criticism directed at young drivers; it gives the young people a chance to improve their driving habits and attitudes; and it serves to stimulate late interest in bigger and better high school driver education programs.

It is open to all teenagers under 20 who have a license or permit, have a clean record of no moving traffic violation in the past six months, and do not drive commercially.

Entry blanks can be obtained at Lincoln high school, the Thief River Falls police station, or by writing Jay-Cee Teen-age road-E-O, Box 53, Thief River Falls. They must be submitted by May 8th.

59-Hi Drive-in Opened Sunday

Schedule Is Resumed for the Summer Season

Another sign of spring appeared on the scene yesterday when the "Closed for the Season" sign at the 59-Hi drive-in theater was replaced with "Now Showing—".

The 59-Hi was opened for the first time last July and remained open until October during a mild autumn.

St. John's Lutheran church held Easter services at the drive-in Sunday morning and the first show of the 1957 drive-in season is "The Long-Long Trailer" starring Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz.

Allan Paulson, co-manager of the theater, said the opening here is a week to two weeks ahead of the average drive-in theater opening date in northern Minnesota.

Secy. Benson Lowers Price Prop on Wheat

Support Price to Be $1.78 on 1958 Crop, Minimum Allowed

Secretary of Agriculture Benson Friday set the price support for the 1958 crop of wheat at $1.78 a bushel—the minimum allowed by federal farm law.

He also set a national wheat acreage allotment for 1958 of 55 million acres, the same set for this year and also the minimum allowed by law.

The $1.78 price support represents 75 per cent of parity, the "floor" set by the flexible price support law. Supports this year are $2 a bushel, representing 80 per cent of parity.

Farmers in the 36 so-called commercial wheat-producing states must approve the acreage allotments and accompanying marketing quotas in a referendum June 20.

If restrictions are approved—as they have been in every recent year—the $1.78 support will be offered. If fewer than two-thirds of those voting favor quotas, the support offered would be $1.18, or 50 per cent of parity.

Benson said the department estimates the 55-million-acre 1958 allotment will produce about 800 million bushels of winter and spring wheat. This figure is added to estimated stocks on hand July 1, 1958, of 875 million bushels, and estimated imports of 5 million bushels to reach a total 1958 supply figure of 1,680,000,000 bushels.

This represents a considerable cut below the estimated wheat supply for 1957, which is projected at 1,825,000,000 bushels. But it still would be well above the 1,170,000,000 bushels estimated as needed for domestic and export use and a 20 per cent "normal" carryover in the 1958-1959 marketing year.

Secretary Benson's decision to cut price supports on 1958-crop wheat by 22 cents a bushel was termed "unreasonable and unfair" by M. W. Thatcher, Upper Midwest grain co-operative leader.

Thatcher, vocal opponent of Secretary Benson and the administration's flexible price support program, is general manager of the Farmers Union Grain Terminal association.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson left Thursday for Canby, Minn. to attend the funeral of Mr. Nelson's brother, Edward J. Nelson.

Four Groups Join in Tribute to Athletes Wednesday Evening

Upwards of 70 Lincoln high school athletes will receive recognition at the annual Prowler lettermen's banquet to be held in the Trinity church dining hall Wednesday evening, April 24, at 6:30, it was announced today by Dennis Rolle, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Norman Peterson and Milo Gulbranson, ticket co-chairmen, emphasized the fact that women as well as men are welcome to attend, and added that tickets may be obtained thru Tuesday at local drug stores or at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Russ Embury, program chairman, stated that Doug Tegtmeier, KTRF sports announcer, will serve as toastmaster, and will introduce the guest speaker, Jim Adelson, who serves as sports announcer for Station KXJB-TV of Valley City, N. D.

The program will open with the invocation by the Rev. Otto Dale, pastor of Trinity church, and musical selections will be supplied by the Lincoln boys' quartet, directed by Bryant Ulseth.

Tegtmeier will introduce coaches from other communities in this area, who will be guests at the banquet; and Ralph Skjod, Lincoln athletic director, will present coaches of the various Prowler teams who in turn will present the players.

2 Children Die in Auto Mishap

Accident Occurred Last Thursday Night at East County Line

An accident on County Aid Road 21 in eastern Pennington county last Thursday evening cost the lives of two Indian children, when the car in which they were riding with four adults and two other children overturned in a water-filled ditch.

The children, Rosalie and Joyce Burke, 3½ and 1-year-old respectively, suffocated or were drowned after the car turned over in the ditch about eight miles east and 7½ miles south of Goodridge, or just a half mile west of the Red Lake Indian reservation in Hickory twp.

Their father, Melford Burke, of the Red Lake reservation, was the driver of the car. Authorities said it was raining and that the road was very slippery when the 1940 Ford coupe left the road and turned on its side in the ditch about 11:30 p. m. Thursday.

An inquest into the accident will be held this week, according to L. W. Bullen, county attorney.

Crime Bureau Aids In Trying to Solve Recent Break-ins

Cliff's Food Market and Eagles Club Rooms Were Entered Last Week-end

State Crime Bureau agents are helping local police and sheriff investigate the two latest of a series of break-ins of local organizations' clubrooms and a grocery store here, according to Police Chief Elton Cummings.

The most recent break-in happened Saturday night when Cliff's Food Market on First st. was entered and an attempt made to remove a fireproof file from the establishment. It is believed people returning home to apartments over the market may have scared the would-be robbers away after they had moved the file as far as the door.

Entry was made to the building by breaking a front window and opening the door from the inside, Cummings said.

Friday night the Eagles club rooms were entered but police had little to go on because the break-in was not reported until about 1 p.m. Saturday and the janitor had already cleaned up glass from a window broken in the break-in before police arrived on the scene. Loot, if any, taken was not known at the time.

A week ago Sunday night the VFW clubrooms here were broken into by yeggs who took about $64 in cash, and left very little for police to go on in their investigation.

Filings Open for School District Election May 21

Voters of District to Elect One Additional Member under New Plan

Filing of candidates opens today for three positions on the board of education of the Thief River Falls school district, No. 18, to be filled at the annual election Tuesday, May 21, it was announced today by Arnold Pearson, clerk of the board.

Expiring are the terms of R. S. Eidevik of this city and Lloyd Howick of rural Thief River Falls, the other four members also being city residents.

To give the rural areas of the greatly enlarged Thief River Falls school district more representation on the board, voters at last year's election approved a plan to add a seventh member to the board, effective with the 1957 election, the understanding being that the additional member would be chosen from outside the city.

The filing period will continue until ten days in advance of the May 21 election.

Plummer School Calls Election on Two Issues May 7

To Vote on Questions in Relation to Financing School Building Program

The board of education of Independent School District 18 of Plummer has set Tuesday, May 7, as the time for a special election at which the voters will vote on two questions concerning the proposed school building plan.

The first question on the ballot will seek permission to use the $16,000 in surplus funds for school building construction, namely a vocational agriculture shop and one elementary classroom.

The second question will ask permission to sell $28,000 in bonds to cover the cost of a vocational agriculture shop and one elementary classroom. As this $28,000 will not be needed until the final payment of the entire building program about one year from now, it is almost certain that these bonds will have to be sold, said Supt. George E. Field. By one year from now enough tax and aid monies should be in to pay off the last $28,000 of the building program. However, permission to sell these bonds is needed before construction contracts can be signed for the agriculture shop and the elementary classroom.

The Board of Education voted unanimously to urge school district voters to vote yes on both questions. They feel that the rooms are urgently needed and that it is more economical to build at once all classrooms needed.

The polls will be open from 1:00 P. M. to 10:00 P. M. in the agriculture room of the school building.

Members of the Board of Education are Carl Swanson, Chairman; Olaf Skatvold, Clerk; Arthur Frolland, Treasurer; Burton Carlson, Gust Craft, and Dave Ostby.

Northwestern Hospital Has Big Baby Population

A marked increase in northwestern Minnesota population is indicated by the number of babies shown in this picture taken at Northwestern Hospital last Thursday. At the time the photo was taken there were 13 babies in the nursery and had the Times fotog been earlier there would have been 15 as two were taken home earlier that day. (It really wouldn't have made any difference as space wasn't available in the picture anyhow.

Two sets of twins were born at the hospital within 30 minutes April 12, to Mr. and Mrs. Ardell Lundgren, St. Hilaire, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bakken, Grygla. Harold Peterson, hospital administrator, says, to date, 37 have been born there in April.

The baby records are kept in a fiscal-year basis, starting each May 1, and Peterson said if the trend keeps up the rest of this month a substantial gain will have been shown for the present fiscal year over the same period in 1955-56.

Shown here with the 13 wee new Minnesotans are Mrs. L. McEldoon, supervisor, Mrs. Ted Mills, and Miss Chrzanowski, student practical nurse.

Minnesota Youth Temperance Week Is Proclaimed

For the fourth year, Youth Temperance Education Week has been proclaimed by the governor of Minnesota. In signing the proclamation this year, Governor Orville Freeman said, "I urge all citizens to give particular attention and support to the strengthening in youth of those moral qualities of temperance and responsibility, which are so important to the future of our civilization."

Dr. Dean Schweikhard, state commissioner of education, in promotion of the observance of this week through the schools, wrote the superintendents, "Far from being a restriction of rights or liberties, Youth Temperance Week helps to open the way for enlargement and advancement of life's opportunities. It should fit appropriately with the other aspects of the school's endeavor."

Orthopedic Clinic Is Scheduled in Thief River Falls May 7 & 8

This spring's orthopedic field field clinic for children of this area who have or may be developing crippling disabilities is set for Tuesday and Wednesday, May 7 and 8, at Epworth hall, 116 N. Horace, in Thief River Falls. Counties to be served are Kittson, Red Lake, Marshall, Roseau and Pennington.

Appointments are necessary, it is announced by the crippled children services of the Minnesota department of welfare, which sponsors spring and fall clinics throughout the state. In order to arrange for a definite hour, parents are asked to contact their county public health nurse, their local school nurse or Mrs. Neil McKechnie, 208½ LaBree N., Thief River Falls.

Appointments in advance make it easier to see that every young patient has time for individual attention and that nobody has to wait too long, it is explained. If it is the child's first visit to a clinic, the parents are advised to bring a referral from their family physician.

An orthopedist and a pediatrician will examine boys and girls, from infants to young people 21 years of age, who have crippling bone and muscle conditions.

The Thief River Falls Women's club is the local sponsoring organization. Mrs. Harold Buck is chairman, and Mrs. Harold W. Peterson is co-chairman.

Groups cooperating with the state welfare department crippled children services include: Gillette state hospital, state division for vocational rehabilitation, state Christmas Seal organization, Northwestern Pediatric society, Minnesota-Dakota-Manitoba Orthopedic society, Minnesota State Medical association and local medical societies.

"Please Say, 'Hi' to Mary"

The little old lady approached the salesman timidly, and whispered, "Pardon me, but would you please say 'Hi' to Mary? She's standing right behind you. The puzzled salesman said a cheery "Hi!" and the solemn little face beamed immediately. Her grandmother later explained that a few minutes earlier as she had spoken to Mary's cherubic little sister, Deedie, and people were always doing that so Mary was "terribly jealous." Deedie was at the "cute age" and Mary was finding it hard to accept Deedie's taking over the favored position which she had formerly held.

Adults, particularly strangers, do, repeatedly, select toddlers or the very pretty child—for special attention — unintentionally building up resentments and jealousies. Even in adult life it is difficult to pass from a position of prominence to one of being taken for granted.

One morning three year old Nancy greeted the nursery school nurse, pointing proudly to a note pinned to her coat. Her understanding mother had written: "No message, Miss Quigley. Nancy just wanted a note because Billy had one." The same nursery school reported an epidemic of wet pants in one room because the children had discovered that they got to carry them (the wet pants) home in a sack, and they all wanted sacks to carry.

Children need to be liked and to be like others. Sensitive parents, compensate for differences in attractiveness or skills and find ways to make all ages worth while in some way. They do not eliminate challenge or even frustration, but they do try to regulate it somewhat so that no child carries an extra heavy burden either of too much or too little attention. Little children thrive on a reasonable amount of attention—if they do not get it legitimately they will spit out their cereal, wet their pants, or, squeeze the cat.

It is a wise grandmother who will take the initiative to gain impartiality for little sisters. Usually, she finds that favoritism is unintentional and folks are happy, indeed, to say "Hi" to Mary.

The Line is Busy

A modern definition of a telephone might well be "two teen agers with a wire between." So-called jokes picture someone saying to the new bride's mother at a wedding, "You are not losing a daughter; you are gaining a telephone." Or there is the story of the physician who worried about college expenses for his teen age son, only to learn later that he could pay them from the fees collected from patients who could now get through to him at home. To parents, these are not jokes!

The confusing part is that parents must both encourage and discourage telephone habits. The boy or girl learns useful lessons practicing social relationships and organizing work and play by telephone. Many calls are necessary; others are desirable; others are routine or even undesirable. Attitudes toward shared utilities must be learned, and the telephone is so placed that parental supervision is natural—and the parent must supervise—even at the risk of earning one of the teen agers' nicknames for the watchful parent—"the vulture" or "the warden."

In most homes the chief problem lies in setting limits and enforcing them. Abuses are less likely where children have been taught from an early age to regard the telephone as a privilege to be shared by all. An extension telephone in a child's room may be a family convenience, but it creates rather than solves if children lack understandings: party lines, long distance calls, the reasons for time limits, dial and operator differences, rush hours, emergency calls, people who earn their living with telephones, basic telephone etiquette; the difference in appropriate usage of home, business, and pay telephones.

Once understandings are assured impartial enforcement of reasonable limits must follow. The child who has seen telephones used wisely by his family for the first ten years of his life is immunized against its current abuses among the younger set. It may take some vigorous reminders once teen age telephonitis sets in, but if the foundation has been laid, the job is easier. Otherwise—over and over—that tell-tale intermittent buzz which means "The line is busy."

WASHINGTON Quiz

Q—Can you tell me upon what authority or line of reasoning a witness before a legally constituted Congressional Committee can refuse to answer questions by pleading protection of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th articles of the constitution? Also do not these committees have the power to investigate?

A—We can only answer this question by inference. The First Article gives Congress, only legislative powers. With this legislative power also comes the power to investigate with legislative intent, that is to investigate sufficiently to find cause or reason to enact legislation. There is a decided difference of opinion as to how far a committee of Congress may go in such an investigation. Some eminent legal authorities hold that this power does not go to the extent of a committee setting itself up as a Federal grand jury in criminal actions. The Second Article vests all power to enforce the laws in the executive department of the government by declaring that: "he (president) shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed." The Third Article fixes all judicial power in one Supreme Court" and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish." The Fourth Article contains regulations for search and seizure "of persons, houses, papers and affects" and upon "probably cause supported by oath or affirmation." The Fifth Article says that "no person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on presentment of an indictment of a Grand Jury . . . nor shall he be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself.

Q—Are there more women than men in the United States and what percentage of each are married?

A—The 1950 census gives males over 14 years old as 55,311,617; and females over 14, as 57,042,417. Unmarried men totalled 14,518,079; unmarried women, 11,454,266; widowed or divorced men, 3,393,-921; widowed or divorced women, 8,064,315.

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—The 1957 state legislature, due to close its business this week, is likely to go home without having provided the tax relief so much discussed during the opening days of the session.

Taxation, particularly the plans laid before the legislature by Governor Freeman, got into a jam last week and likely couldn't get untangled before the closing hours. There were many ramifications connected with the situation, bringing about charges and counter charges as to who should be held responsible.

Depended On Interim Study

The governor had banked on the report of his interim tax study commission for backing he sought in getting through his own plans. This report called for elimination of the personal property tax, designed as an aid to business and industry, but suggested retention of other taxes that had been scheduled for repeal.

One of the governor's pet projects was establishment of a withholding system of collecting income taxes. Planned to go into effect next July, it would have required income taxpayers to pay their current obligations and start a withholding system on a weekly or monthly basis. The plan would have meant the paying of three years' taxes in two.

It passed the house, but was defeated in the senate.

No Relation To Tax Relief

The senate contended the withholding system would only harass honest taxpayers without catching tax evaders. The governor held it would bring in $3½ million annually from persons not now paying taxes. The senate, after defeating withholding, went to work on three bills designed to give the state tax commission authority to bring in evaders, which it felt would do everything the governor wanted in the way of catching non-payers.

Angered over the senate's rejection of withholding, the governor accused the senate of wrecking his tax reform program. The senate, however, replied that the withholding tax bill was a separate measure and had no relation to the omnibus tax bill, in which was contained the items designed to relieve personal property and associated taxes.

Nevertheless, the governor's adherants in the house promptly junked the omnibus bill, which they said would provide $23¼ million in tax relief. Legislative observers, however, found this bill increasing taxes by $35,-000,000, even though it lopped off the income tax head tax, a new system for figuring individual income taxpayers' surtaxes, raising credit allowances for dependents and eliminating the mill levy for the general revenue fund.

As the wearying days wore by, liberals in the house accused the senate of responsibility for the situation. The senators replied that the house, not they, had scrapped the governor's program when they scuttled the omnibus tax bill, an action which they attributed to political "spite."

Look To Sales Tax

The situation was regarded by many legislative observers to mean a possibly brand new effort for tax revision and relief in the 1959 session, with a sales tax the hub of the entire program.

Although they have been maintaining an outward opposition to the sales tax, legislative liberals privately have admitted that the sales tax is the last resort and probably will be the principal tax issue in the 1959 session.

Some students in the legislature feel that the appearance of the sales tax as a replacement tax that can go far in easing the load on business, industry and agriculture.

School Aids

Hopes of many school leaders for a sizable increase in state basic aids fell considerably when the senate education committee, after a careful check of anticipated revenues in the income tax school fund for the next two years, found it would have to cut the house proposal for an $87-per-pupil basic aid to $85 for the first year of the biennium and $83 for the second.

This had no relation to the battle over taxes except for the possibility of a greater sum for the next two years and the governor's $27½ million "windfall" hopes in his withholding tax bill been carried out. This, however, would have been only a two-year program because the "windfall" would be used up at the end of the biennium and new taxes called for a keep up the rates.

Highway Bills

In danger during the closing days was the huge highway program of which the federal government would finance 90 per cent. The bill covering this subject was amended to provide reimbursement to utilities for damages resulting from removal of equipment where highways would go through. House liberals fought the proposition, backed by the governor, and threatened to defeat the bill rather than approve reimbursement to utilities for losses.

Caution Farmers on Soil Bank Violations

Farmers should fully understand that a civil penalty may be imposed upon any producer who knowingly and willfully violates provisions of the Soil Bank's acreage reserve program, F. E. Sjolander, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today.

Authority for imposing a civil penalty for certain violations of an acreage reserve agreement is conferred under Section 123 of the Soil Bank Act, the chairman explained. The violation drawing the penalty is for knowingly and willfully grazing or harvesting any crop from any acreage in violation of a Soil Bank agreement or contract.

The amount of the civil penalty is 50 percent of the compensation which would have been payable for compliance with the agreement, and penalty is in addition to any amounts required to be forfeited or refunded under the provisions of the agreement.

Sjolander explained that a civil penalty violation could take place from willfully grazing or harvesting any crop from any acreage designated as the Acreage Reserve, and also from harvesting acreage in excess of the "acreage permitted for harvest." The "acreage permitted for harvest" would be the allotment for the crop covered by the agreement less the acreage designed for the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve.

Local Man Given Suspended Term for Drunk Driving

Gerald Horejsh, 30, city, was given two consecutive 30-day jail sentences by Municipal Judge H. O. Chommie Saturday after he was involved in two minor accidents as the result of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Horejsh had been arrested Wednesday, April 18, after his car left highway 59, 10 miles south of Thief River Falls and the following day he hit a car parked in front of the Land O' Lakes plant on Atlantic av., which resulted in another arrest on the same drunken driving charge. Mrs. Minnesota's Chocolate Cake

Good neighbor that she is, charming Donna Hustad of Alexandria, chosen Mrs. Minnesota at the recent Mrs. America state finals in Minneapolis, shares with us her recipe for Chocolate Fudge Cake.

At the national contest in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, Donna upholds the reputation of Minnesota cookery against skillful homemakers from 47 other states and the District of Columbia in a Baker's Chocolate Dessert Contest. Her cake was a favorite of husband Don long before it was known as

Mrs. Minnesota's Chocolate Fudge Cake

- 5 eggs
- 4-1/2 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate
- 2-1/2 cups sugar
- 1-3/4 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon red food coloring
- Butter*
- Vegetable shortening*
- 1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- 3 cups sifted cake flour
- 1-1/2 teaspoons soda
- 3/8 teaspoon salt

*Put 3 tablespoons butter into measuring cup; add vegetable shortening to make 3/4 cup.

Beat 1 egg and combine with chocolate, 1 cup of the sugar, and 3/4 cup of the milk in a saucepan. Cook and stir over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture thickens. Add food coloring. Cool to room temperature.

Soften shortening. Gradually add remaining 1-1/2 cups sugar and cream together until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Then add remaining eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Sift together flour, soda, and salt. Add alternately with remaining cup of milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Blend in chocolate mixture. Pour into three paper-lined round 9-inch cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 25 to 30 minutes, or until done. Cool layers. Frost with Brown Sugar Fluff Frosting.

To make Brown Sugar Fluff Frosting, combine in top of double boiler 2 egg whites, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 3/4 cup brown sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/3 cup cold water and dash of salt. Beat 1 minute with electric mixer. Cook over boiling water, beating constantly until mixture forms peaks—about 7 minutes. Remove from heat. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until frosting is of spreading consistency. Makes about 6 cups.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Arthur Barnard, Wyandotte, Michigan: I remember about 58 years ago when we were living on the shores of Long Lake, north of Alpena.

My sister, younger brother and I had to go two miles through thick woods to get to school every day. We often met bears and were quite afraid of them. Our teacher suggested that we always carry a club with us.

One morning, each armed with a stout club, we were on the way to school when we encountered a mother bear with two cubs, who came directly toward us. We all stood still and when she got close to me, I hit her on the head with my club. She turned on my sister and then my younger brother hit her on the head and then the bear turned on him, so I hit the animal again.

Well sir, we kept that up for about 10 minutes until the bear finally fell dead.

Some time later Dad moved across the lake, much nearer another school and we did not have so far to go. I can remember that the teacher was paid $30 and she gave me $1 a month for fall and winter to start a fire in the school stove every morning.

Many times I went to school in the heavy snow and sat there alone because there was no teacher.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

A couple of men around town were having a very animated discussion about the parking situation in Thief River Falls a day or so ago and during the talk-fest the subject of parking meters came up.

Both were of the opinion that what this town needs is parking meters. Seems, in their opinion, some folks aren't willing to park in the space available a block or two from where they want to shop or do other business. If they can't park within a half-block of their destination they just don't go there.

We're completely neutral on the parking meter question as it is our habit to park on an unmarked street or on one of the city's parking lots. We simply can't take the time to go move our heap every two hours. A lot of folks who indulge in this pastime, shouldn't.

These public spirited citizens involved in the discussion asked us to try to get a sampling of opinion on parking meters—especially from the rural folks. We said the rural folks woudn't go for 'em—now who's right?

We'll venture one bit of personal opinion. That is that parking meters won't solve any problems. People will keep on complaining as bitterly as ever. You can't please everyone no matter how hard you try!

Which brings us back to the underlying cause of all problems on this earth—people. We don't have a parking problem, we have a problem with people who don't like to play by the rules. The only solution we can see is to put our foot down on such people and make them play the game according to the rules, rather than remaking the rules to suit these people.

As we said before, we don't think folks around these parts will go for parking meters. Regardless of how you feel, now's the time to make yourself heard on the question.

Now—how about daylight saving time? We'd like to see it. So, we think, would practically all the working people in the state except folks engaged in agriculture. Anyway, it's high time something was done to give the working man a break.

Here's how it works—you set your clock an hour ahead so you get up an hour earlier; thus you also get off an hour earlier in the afternoon. The break comes in the form of an extra hour of daylight you have to yourself after knocking off work for the day.

A sampling of public opinion by one of the large Minneapolis dailies showed an overwhelming majority of folks in the state in favor of daylight saving time. We believe this would also apply to the working people in Thief River Falls.

We didn't see it but we hear there was a fellow in such a hurry to get his boat in the water he didn't wait for all the ice to go out but was putt-putting about the ice floes one day last week. How eager can you get?

A small town will always be a small town as long as the folks living there insist on calling it a small town. Think big, be big—The results of positive thinking are at times amazing!

If your cat stays away from home for days at a time lately don't be alarmed . . . Just remember the smelt season is here and the odor of a smelt-cleaning session goes a "fur piece."

So long!

Sunny Weather in Area For Easter

Mercury Mounts to 60 Degree Mark Here Sunday

Cloudy skies over northwestern Minnesota gave way and Easter Sunday dawned bright and clear to make a perfect day for church-going celebrants of the Resurrection.

It was also a good day for local boating enthusiasts who took advantage of the newly-opened river pool to try new boats and motors and work winter kinks out of old outfits.

The high for the past week in Thief River Falls and Pennington county was the mild 60 degrees, highest of the season so far, enjoyed Sunday and the low temperature for the same period was 29 which occurred a week ago today.

Plenty of moisture fell in the area during the past week, 2.17 inches to add to the already plentiful moisture supply which fell here last fall.

The forecast is for partly cloudy and warmer weather today, along with scattered showers or thunderstorms tonight. Tuesday partly cloudy, little temperature change. Highs today 64-70, lows tonight 48-56. Southerly winds, 20-30, diminishing tonight. The Wednesday outlook is for continued mild weather.

E. Prestegaard Is Deputy Sheriff

Pennington county Sheriff Charles Richards reported today his appointment of Eugene Prestegaard, 35, as deputy sheriff, effective April 1. Prestegaard takes over duties formerly performed by Richards, when he was deputy to retired Sheriff Art Rambeck, and will be in the sheriff's office for the most part.

Prestegaard is a lifelong Pennington county resident and graduated from the Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston in 1938. He formerly farmed in Star twp. where he still resides. He is not married.

He is president-elect of the local Eagles lodge.

Social Security Man Here April 23

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium on Tuesday, April 23 at 10:00 a. m. Individuals who have questions regarding social security may contact him on that date.

Ed Johnson Named as Asst. District Engineer, Bemidji

Carl M. Larson, assistant district engineer for the Minnesota highway department's Bemidji district, has been promoted to district engineer of that district. He replaces Henry A. Pabst, who died March 22.

Named to take Larson's place as assistant district engineer at Bemidji was E. W. Johnson of Thief River Falls, who has been relief district maintenance engineer. Entering the department in 1931, Larson has had broad experience as a draftsman, instrument man, project engineer for 12 years, and assistant district engineer at Bemidji for the past year. Before becoming relief engineer a year ago, Johnson was a project engineer for more than 20 years, with headquarters in this city.

Hay, corn, and oats are by no means the only food items on horse menus of the world; Danish horses relish dried peat and beet molasses; dates an camel's milk are everyday equine fare in the Sahara; raisin stems, pumpkins, and birch tree leaves add zip to some stable menus. One U.S. running star likes raw eggs in his mash.

Output of lumber reached its all-time peak in Minnesota in 1905, at roughly two billion board feet.

Choosing a Suit

A well chosen suit is one of the most versatile and practical garments a woman can have in her wardrobe.

Several outstanding points to consider in the choice of a versatile suit for spring or any other season include a flattering color, a simple and becoming design, correct fit, and good quality materials and workmanship.

If the color doesn't harmonize with the rest of the wardrobe, it is always disappointing. The most economical and efficient way to plan a harmonious wardrobe is to choose a conservative basic color like black, brown, or navy for coats, shoes and bags, and select new garments such as suits with this color scheme in mind. In some seasons, brightly colored suits are available, but generally a soft pastel suit is more flattering and appropriate than a brightly colored one.

A consideration of design includes choosing a style for your figure type to create the most flattering effect. For the short, heavy woman, a suit with single breasted jacket and skirt with a slight flare or low pleats is an excellent choice. The tall, thin, angular woman might wisely choose a long jacket with a big collar and a flared or pleated skirt to give added width and graceful motion. The tall, large-boned woman must find a garment in which vertical and horizontal lines are well balanced. For this effect double breasted jackets with big collars and reveres or those with diagonal closings are flattering.

In finding the correct fit of a suit, the old saying, "Easy does it" is a good motto. For comfort and practicability the suit should allow for freedom of motion.

Quality depends on both good materials and reliable workmanship, which can be found even in inexpensive garments. Careful hand and machine stitching, firmly constructed buttonholes and a well fitted lining with a pleat down the center back to prevent pulling at the seams are good clues to the quality of your new suit.

As early as 1890, when special schools for nurses were unknown to Japan, the Japanese Red Cross Society pioneered. Since then, a total of over 45,000 nurses have been trained and today the Red Cross society has 1,500 active graduate nurses serving in 95 Red Cross hospitals.

Sioux Indoor Track Meet Held at G. Forks

Twenty-seven area high schools were represented in the fourth annual Sioux indoor track meet held in the spacious fieldhouse on the North Dakota University campus in Grand Forks on Friday.

The Moorhead Spuds, scoring in eight of the ten events, totaled 26 points to win the team title. Jamestown gained runner-up honors with 24 points, while the defending champion Grand Forks Central squad tallied 19 points for their place.

Barnesville, with Bob Quam scoring 12 points, chalked up 14 points for four place. The Crookston Central Pirates, and who gave every indication that they will be threat to the Prowlers in district competition this season, tallied 9 5/6 points for fifth place.

Coach Quentin Jones' Prowlers, with Boyce Lee getting a second place in the pole vault, Larry Kiehl a second place in the mile run, and Keith D. Johnson a fifth in the shot put, totaled 8 points for sixth place.

Other team point totals were, Devils Lake, 0 1/6; Detroit Lakes, 6; Garrison, 5 5/6; Bemidji, 5 1/3; Bottineau, 5 1/6; Fergus Falls, 4; Hillsboro, 4; Park River, 3 1/6; Grafton, 2; Valley City, 1 1/6; Cavalier, ½; and Devils Lake School for Deaf, 1/6.

Four records were broken during the meet, and these new marks included three in the field events and one in the track events.

Gary Larson of the MSTC high of Moorhead, set a new mark in the shot put with a heave of 47 feet, 7 inches. Byron Evenson of Grand Forks Central leaped 20 feet, 4 inches to establish a new broad jump record, Bemidji's Jim Patton high-jumped over the cross-bar at 6 feet, ¾ inches for a new record. Ned Miller of Bottineau ran the 60-yard dash in .06.3, bettering last the old record of .06.4.5.

The Prowlers will return to track competion on Saturday when they again make the short jaunt to Grand Forks, where they will compete in the annual Sioux Relays being held in the Memorial Stadium. On Monday, April 29th, and this meet should create much interest, the Prowlers will travel to Crookston where, on the Highland Park field, they meet the Crookston Central Pirates in a dual meet.

AIRPORT NEWS

"April showers bring May flowers," so the old saying goes; but it seems to us we had mostly March winds and snow showers, practically all last week.

Before the winds came up last Monday, the 8th, Bob Storehy and Miles Wermager of Karlstad, stopped for gas and were on their way cross-country. Miles was getting in some cross-country duel.

That same morning, Henry Peterson and Nordie Swenson, also from Karlstad, flew in with a Stinson and were on their way to the Cities.

Then came the winds and snow showers that stayed with us for a few days during the middle of the week.

Friday, E. Jriechel of Emerson, Man., landed with his Super Cruiser and left it here for the mechanic to check over. He made the return trip with Thomas Nord of Pembina, No. Dak., who had followed in a T-Craft. These same two fellows landed here last Tuesday nite, while out doing some nite-flying in the Super Cruiser.

Bill Johnson, flying his pipeline patrol, stopped in again for coffee, on Friday.

Earl Nelson and Curt Hising flew over Saturday from Crookston to pick up the Ercoupe that had been left here for the mechanic to work on. Curt returned in the Ercoupe, while Nelson flew the Champ.

Sunday, Warner Christeson of McIntosh stopped in with a Champ. Gene Miller and son of Crookston came in a Champ. Rantanen and Joe Kiel flew to Int. Falls in the Super Cub, and Bob Davidson and Boyd Wilson took the Club Cruisers on Cross-Country. That left the Club Champ for the local pilots and it had a pretty busy day.

Last week I held hearings on the subject of government competition with private business. Percival Brundage, Director of the Bureau of the Budget, assured us that the vigorous program to reduce competition is bringing about substantial elimination of government sponsored commercial activities. — The Department of Defense witnesses stated that 274 commercial operations have already been eliminated and that 113 have either been substantially curtailed or are in the process of curtailment. — Much still remains to be done, but steady progress is being made.

Affects Postal Service

The pattern of growth in our major metropolitan centers was a factor in the recent debate over the Post Office Department's appropriations. — The Department has to estimate its expenditures at least one year before the budget is presented. — The growth of large cities and suburban areas has caused a demand for extended routes and more service which in turn has increased operating costs — Postal receipts go to Treasury Dept. and not to Post Office Dept.

Not First, But Still Early Birds

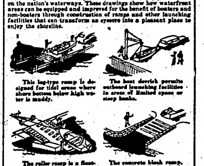
Hilary Stoltmah and Ronald Bushaw just couldn't wait to try Hilary's new boating outfit so Saturday about 4 p. m. they dunked the rig out by Long's bridge. That's a new Scott-Atwater 16 h.p. motor Hilary is operating in the stern of his 14-ft. Crestliner boat, as Ronald enjoys proceedings from the bow.

As early as Hilary and Ronald were, however, they weren't the first boating fans on the river — an unidentified party was observed dodging ice floes with his boat on the river north of the 3rd st. bridge one day last week.

Hot Stove Boating

How To Plan Ahead For Spring

Boating facilities are important to safer more enjoyable hours on the nation's waterways. These drawings show how waterfront areas can be equipped and improved for the benefit of boaters and non-boaters through construction of ramps and other launching facilities that can transform an eyesore into a pleasant place to enjoy the shoreline.



This log-type ramp is designed for tidal areas where shore bottom below high water is muddy.

The boat derrick permits outboard launching facilities in areas of limited space or steep banks.

The roller ramp is a floating ramp featuring rollers that permit easy boat launching and loading.

The concrete block ramp, most popular of the fresh water launching facilities, is an old favorite.

The above drawings are from the free construction plans booklet, "Small Boat Launching Ramps, Docks and Piers," part of the library of instructional material available upon request through the Outboard Boating Club of America, 307 North Michigan, Chicago 1, Ill.

No. Central Plans Non-stop Service Duluth to Chicago

Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner Recommends Acceptance of Proposal

Direct nonstop airline service between Duluth-Superior and Chicago drew nearer to reality today with the recommendation by Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner Barron Fredricks that North Central Airlines be authorized to provide the proposed service.

Fredricks also recommended temporary approval of North Central's poposal for through service between Minneapolis-St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., via Duluth-Superior and Ironwood, Hancock-Houghton and Marquette, Mich.

His decision, announced this morning in Washington, D. C., concurs with the recommendations issued last November by Bureau Counsel Howard A. Boros of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Both Fredricks and Boros also recommended that North Central be authorized two other routes between Duluth-Superior and Chicago: (1) via Madison, Wis., and (2) via Green Bay and Milwaukee.

Final decision in the case, known as the "Duluth-Chicago Service Investigation" which was instituted over a year ago, now rests with the five-man Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D. C.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

It Looks Like A Plot

Several days ago we typed out an item to the effect that Plummer's Jesse DuChamp had signed to play softball this season with Red Thyren's T & S team. That information was given to us by a reliable source, too.

That report had barely been printed when Lyle Roue of the Holsums, the team with which Jesse played last year, hurried on down to Plummer to learn the facts. Jesse said that he hadn't made any definite commitments to any team. In fact, he, Jesse, considered himself a "free agent" and was available to all teams and managers and sponsors.

It could well be that Jesse has forwarded invitations to all managers and sponsors to call on him at Plummer. And that these managers and sponsors should bring their shopping bags, for the DuChamps have a full line of fancy and staple groceries, fresh and smoked meats, and baked goods for sale.

Knowing Jesse as we do, we'll venture the opinion that he will sign with manager or sponsor who brings the biggest shopping bag!

A Reminder

This past week we received a reminder from, guess who? calling our attention to a few deathless words of prose we typed last September in commenting on the approaching bowling season, and with particular stress on the activities in the women's bowling league. The words were to this effect: "We're not afraid of their daggers and consequently we'll predict that the Pharmacy team will not be league champions again this season."

This prediction has come home to roost! The Pharmacy made short shrift of the league race. They won the first half title, and they won the second half title, and those two wins add up to the championship of the Women's Nite Hawk League. Again!

Accustomed to accepting these championship awards, the Pharmacy team members—Bess Lang, Alma Johnk, Marj Tegtmeier, Pat Dabdoub, and Alice Nornes—will, with becoming modesty, receive the 1956-57 league awards at the banquet at the Eagles on Tuesday evening, Apr. 30.

The Year's First Sailor

Our nomination for the year's first sailor, on the river pool here, goes to Tom Fuller. At least we thought we recognized Tommy, with his red stocking cap, as he put his boat and motor through some warm-up drills on Friday afternoon.

The ice floes that were drifting down the river didn't appear to trouble Tom very much as he cut capers through the water. We imagine Tom was preparing his outfit for the Crow lake trout fishing trip, which is an annual affair for his party.

And speaking of Crow, we'll probably be receiving a note from Bob Booren of the Arrowhead Camp, giving us information about the probable ice break-up on Crow.

We heard, from Neil and Tootie McKeehnie, who made a trip up to their cabin on Spring steel island, that the water level of Lake of the Woods is, for this time of year, the lowest that it has ever been. The oldest natives, meaning some of the commercial fishermen, can't recall a spring when the lake has carried so little water.

The End of the Beginning

You can either call it the "night cap" for last season's trap shooting schedule or the "lid-lifter" for this season's program. Referring, of course, to the banquet that will be held at the golf club on Tuesday evening. It's the local trap club's annual dinner.

Of one thing we can be sure, there will be a number of "25's" shot on Tuesday evening. Erling Torgerson, the club secretary and the league's statistician, states that these "dead" birds won't be going into this season's records.

Since they established their up-to-date layout north of town, and it's just a few years ago, the local trapshooting club has developed into one of northwestern Minnesota's most active and progressive organizations. And the marksmanship, according to the figures that Erling has on file, has shown a remarkable improvement. There are quite a few of the boys who are in the "20's," and consistently.

Miscellany

Jackie Poole returned to his employment at Rochester on Sunday after spending a short vacation at his home here. Jack was a member of the Rochester Mustangs hockey club this past season, and according to Bud Brossoit, who was also visiting here on Sunday, played a strong game. Jack expressed interest in going to school, and he was interviewed by North Dakota's Al Renfrew; but the former Prowler all-state center ice player has some scholastic deficiencies. It's problematic whether or not he can qualify. — Lawrence Shorty Perkins, who is raking down the high-average marks in his studies at MSTC, is a member of the Dragon golf squad. Shorty, who is having trouble with his long woods, is playing at number three on the squad. — Dennis (Cotton) Langevin, one of the charter members of the Wheeler's Point Fish and Wildlife club, is in drydock on the third floor of the Northwestern hospital. According to the latest reports, Cotton is recovering nicely from a siege of pneumonia. It's doubtful if he will be allowed to make the Lake of the Woods trip this year.

Obeying Acreage Reserve Rules Is Asked by Houske

Pennington Chairman of ASC Calls Attention to Legal Requirements

Farmers who have included cropland under the Soil Bank's acreage reserve program for wheat should remember that they must comply with all requirements of the program in order to qualify for the wheat payments, Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington Co. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee, said today.

A program provision which farmers are likely to overlook is the one which requires that a farmer comply with all acreage allotments established for his farm if he wants to earn any kind of a Soil Bank payment, the chairman explained.

This means, for instance, that a farmer who expects to earn payments under the wheat acreage reserve program must also comply with the corn allotment for his farm if there is one. Farmers should not overlook the fact that they must also comply with acreage allotments for other 1957 crops to be planted this spring in order to receive a wheat acreage reserve payment.

Where a farmers willfully and knowingly harvests or grazes designated acreage reserve land, the payment is forfeited and in addition he is subject to a civil penalty of 50 per cent of the payment which would have been made for compliance. If the payment has been made when the violation occurs, the amount of the payment must be refunded.

Farmers who take part in the conservation reserve of the Soil Bank must also comply with all acreage allotments for their farms in order to qualify for the conservation reserve payments.

Bulk Handling Has Big Effect on Milk Plants

Bulk milk handling will make a heavy impact on the whole milk marketing system in Minnesota, says E. Fred Koller, agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota.

For one thing, bulk handling may cause many local milk receiving stations and small creameries to close. That is because plants with bulk equipment can increase plant volume, widen their supply area, and, with good roads, haul milk over long distances with less bother and expense than they would have by operating through receiving stations. Small plants would be by-passed the same way.

There are now at least 5,500 Minnesota dairy farmers selling milk in bulk—twice as many as a year ago. Most of the increase so far has been in the Twin Cities area, and most of the fluid milk areas where grade A milk is bottled are rapidly approaching 100 percent conversion.

In the long run, bulk handling brings only a small extra return to the dairy farmer as far as higher price is concerned. In some fluid milk areas, plants have been paying small premiums due to bulk handling. But where farmers sell milk in bulk for manufacturing, the improvement in the final product isn't enough to bring an added return over can handling.

For the larger dairy farm, there may be a net saving in production costs due to bulk handling, Koller points out. But for a herd of 15 cows or less, the farm cost per hundredweight for cooling and holding milk in bulk is generally a little higher than with cans.

A big advantage of bulk handling is that it eliminates lifting cans.

Hauling costs will be lower in areas where there is complete conversion to bulk handling, and if the plants pick up milk every other day. Again, this saving is greater for the larger producer. While an area is converting to bulk milk handling, though, all hauling costs may be higher, due to overlapping of can and bulk routes.

Dairy plants can reduce their receiving costs if they make complete conversion to bulk handling, if there are enough producers selling to each plant.

SAILOR ARVID MELHOUSE ENDS RECRUIT TRAINING

Arvid H. Melhouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Melhouse, Thief River Falls, graduated from recruit training April 6, at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. $45,921 in Bonds Bought to Mar. 31

Pennington County Sales for March Total $6,097

Purchases of Series E and H Savings Bonds in March, 1957, totaled $6,097 in Pennington county, bringing the year-to-date sales to $45,921 or 19.2 per cent of the county quota for 1957, J. M. Roche, county chairman, reported today.

Total purchases in Minnesota were $5,150,464 in March, bringing the three month total for 1957 to $17,048,945 or 19.9 per cent of the 1957 quota for the state.

The famed Lexington Minute Man has been the symbol of Savings Bonds since May 1, 1941. To commemorate this anniversary, Governor Orville L. Freeman will proclaim May to be Minute Man Month in Minnesota. One of the most widely known of all "trade marks," the Minute Man symbolizes the volunteer spirit which in 1775 "fired the shot heard 'round the world" and which by 1957 has made the Savings Bond program the greatest thrift program of all time.

Plan Observance of Mental Health Week at Fergus

Fergus Falls will again join more than 5,000 other communities throughout the country in observing Mental Health Week, April 28 to May 4. The theme for this year's Mental Health Week will be "The Mentally Ill Can Come Back — Help them!" with the emphasis upon mobilizing citizen interest and action in behalf of the mentally ill who have been neglected so long.

The Fergus Falls state hospital will hold open house Sunday, April 28, through Saturday, May 4 from 2 to 4:00 p. m. in observance of Mental Health Week, Dr. W. L. Patterson, superintendent, annouced today. Visitors will be taken on a tour of the wards, various departments, recreational and occupational therapy rooms, and other places of interest. During the coffee break, slides will be shown depicting other aspects of treatment. They will also have the opportunity to discuss the work of the hospital with members of the staff.

On Tuesday, April 30, a service award banquet will be held at the Fergus Falls state hospital, honoring thirty-eight employees and their spouses. These employees all have put in twenty years or more service to the state; their total time representing 1,142.3 years. Morris Hursch, commissioner of the department of public welfare, will be the guest speaker.

Driver Training Program

By Joel McDonald

The drivers' education program in Thief River Falls is divided into two parts:

Part one is the classroom training. Here a student will gain the knowledge of today's traffic problems through movies, slide films, a textbook, class discussion and lecture. The classroom phase is taught during the sophomore year and all students are required to take it. At the completion of the classroom training, each student takes a written test which is required by the state before receiving a driver's permit.

Part two is the behind-the-wheel training. Ford and Chevrolet alternate each year in furnishing the school with a training car. After a student has a driver's permit he may enroll in behind-the-wheel training. Training is offered five hours a day and students are excused from study hall to participate.

Purpose of Driver Training

The main purpose of driver education is to develop good drivers—drivers with sound judgment, efficient performance and co-operative attitudes.

Learning to drive without guidance is a type of trial and error learning. It is a method likely to produce second rate or incorrect driving. In driving it can be highly dangerous. Driver Education courses offer guidance in correct habits, knowledge and driving skills, and the end result is a much safer and more efficient driver.

Need For

The number of highway casualties in recent years has been appalling. Between thirty-five and forty thousand persons are killed annually in traffic accidents. Over one-hundred thousand are permanently disabled.

It seems reasonable to believe that automobile accident rates also can be greatly reduced by well planned, united efforts. There are several possible methods of attacking the problem. The most promising approach of all is thought to be that of giving proper training to every driver before he is granted a driver's license.

High School Driver Education produces good results. Studies made in Pennsylvania compare the driving records of two groups of high school students. One group of 3000 received driver training in high school; the other group of 3000 did not. The trained boys had 45 per cent fewer accidents than untrained boys. The trained girls had 53 per cent fewer accidents than untrained girls.

Many insurance companies recognize the value of high school driver education training by giving a reduced rate for students completing driver's training.

General Objective

To develop in young people a strong sense of personal and social responsibility for common welfare, particularly as affected by the operation of a motor vehicle.

Specific Objectives

1. To develop a knowledge of man's social responsibility in relation to changes of power age.
2. To develop an understanding of historical, social and economic aspects of highway traffic control problems.
3. To develop a realistic philosophy to guide individual and group thinking in working toward a solution of traffic control problems.
4. To develop pride and maintain high standards of performance, particularly in operation of a motor vehicle.
5. To promote safe, efficient and enjoyable use of equipment and enviroment, especially motor vehicles and highways.
6. To prepare young people for socially useful vocations suited to individual ability, particularly those involving use of a motor vehicle.

The behind-the-wheel training is given by Quentin Jones, Dick Edlund and Mr. McDonald. Practice driving includes ten basic lessons, starting with information about car gauges and safety devices. Then the student advances to starting car, starting in low, shifting left and right turns, parking, highway and city driving. It is essential that each lesson is mastered before moving on. The end result is a better driver—one that is less likely to cause a highway accident. Ninety per cent of all accidents are caused by human failure, leaving only ten per cent to be blamed to the highway and motor car. Driver Education can and does reduce the element of human failure.

I would encourage every student who operates or plans to operate a motor vehicle to take Driver Education. Anyone—student or adult—who has completed a Driver Education Course will agree that it has made him a better driver, not only in skills, but in attitude and knowledge.

$104,000,000 Lost in Fires in Nation During March '57

Estimated fire losses in the United States during March amounted to $101,565,000, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has reported.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, NBFU's general manager, this $101,565,000 loss represents an increase of 17.1 per cent over losses of $89,315,000 reported for March, 1956, and an increase of 9.4 per cent from losses of $95,569,000 for February (1957).

Losses for the first three months of 1957 now total $315,406,000, an increase of 16.7 per cent over thet first three months of 1956, when they amounted to $270,328,000.

These estimated losses include an allowance for uninsured and unreported losses.

Chicago Choir to Appear at Warren

North Park College Group to Give Concert April 25

The North Park College Choir of Chicago, Illinois, will appear in concert in the Warren high school auditorium, Warren, at 8 p. m. on Thursday, April 25. The concert is under the auspices of the Red River Valley Covenant churches.

This year's tour schedule includes concerts in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri. The final concert of the season is in Orchestra Hall, Chicago.

This a cappella choir is under the direction of Donald F. Ohlsen, director of the department of music of North Park College. This season's program mirrors a broad segmentation of choral literature—ranging from the Bach motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," through modern works by Kodaly and Britten, to American folk songs and spirituals.

Members of the choir are students of North Park College and Theological Seminary. The school, located on Chicago's northwest side, is operated by the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church of America.

Old Fashioned Ideas

There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy if I may.

—R. L. Stevenson

Winter Will Come Again

Before the departing winter becomes just another dim memory, let's keep in mind that more winters will come and some of the problems that bothered us last winter will be back with us again, unless we do something about them. One of the perennials that has been with us a long time is the inadequacy of our hockey arena.

If we are to continue to be a hockey-minded community then we must provide better facilities for hockey spectators. This need has long been recognized, but the prevailing notion that the present arena cannot be enlarged at a reasonable cost has discouraged action.

A committee working on this problem has now come up with an idea that seems feasible. The rink can be lengthened. There is plenty of room for expansion to the south, providing for an extension of the ice and also excellent seating at both ends. According to Huck Olson the ice is now only five feet narrower than regulation so the width, from a playing standpoint, is not a problem.

This proposal for lengthening the building is interesting too in that provision could be made for curling in back of and under the south end bleachers. Curling has become popular both locally and thruout the northern part of the state. Providing for curling at this location would be a sensible arrangement. There would be economies in management and definite advantages in having the activities concentrated in one area.

Cost estimates indicate that such a development would be well within our means. In this land of short summers we should be willing to provide adequately for the few activities that do so much to keep our long winters interesting.

Lets' Hope It Works

A few days before the soil bank deadline last week, it appeared that the participation would fall far short of the hoped-for objectives. Department of Agriculture officials were gloomily predicting that the sign-up might be less than 50 per cent of the goal. There was a talk of cutting appropriations by three-quarters of a billion dollars.

In a last-minute rush of business, however, this picture improved materially. Accurate figures probably will not be available for some time, but it is now estimated that the acreage taken out of production in Minnesota will come close to the 80 per cent figure. Corn belt participation has been generally better than was expected.

What the net result of this program will be we will not know for several years at least. Those farmers who are not participating in the soil bank will have less competition in the market, and eventually that should be helpful for them. It will take more than one year to cut down some of the surpluses that have been accumulating over a period of several years. It is a very expensive procedure. Let's hope it works.

Economy or Sales Tax

State Senator John Zwach of Brown county told a New Ulm audience that the people of Minnesota have an important choice to make. Either we must have economy or we must have a sales tax.

That expresses the fact about as bluntly as it can be stated.

The legislature is not going to go along with all of Governor Freeman's spending program. The increase in appropriations is nevertheless going to be substantial.

The total is going to be up mainly because the dollars are available. Inflation and windfalls have provided greatly increased and unexpected revenue. We are sure that if the increased appropriations authorized by the present legislature could have been made only by increasing taxes, they would have been much lower.

We are establishing a spending level now that cannot be maintained two years from now without greatly increased taxes.

That is what Senator Zwach had in mind when he reminded the people of his home community that we soon will be in a position where we must either cut spending or adopt a general sales tax.

Our guess is that the choice will not be economy. In time it will come, but not two years from now. The pressure groups behind the various spending programs are too well organized.

The Monday Holiday Plan

(The St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Sen. Charles Potter of Michigan is leading an effort in Congress to have all legal holidays to observed on Monday. This idea, long discussed among business, labor and recreational groups, has quite wide appeal. The advantage of week-end holidays are many, but opposition comes from those who prefer not to tamper with traditional dates.

The Northwestern Miller says editorially that flour mills and bakeries are among businesses which find midweek holidays costly and inconvenient because of special problems involved in shutting down and starting up operations.

It is pointed out by the milling magazine that a much more thorough calendar reform than that proposed by Senator Potter has come before the United Nations several times. This is the so-called world calendar plan. It calls for a year divided into four equal parts in which the dates and days of the week would run in identical sequence every year, without change. Holidays would be added to weekends.

The world calendar has made little real progress toward adoption anywhere. Whether Senator Potter's more modest proposal for holiday changes will win support in Congress is a matter of speculation. The traditional practices are firmly planted.

Those new-fangled heating systems and safety razors are largely to blame for the modern epidemic of what is loosely called juvenile delinquency. When the old-fashioned woodsheds and razorstrops went out of us, j. d. took over.—New Prague Times.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I understand that four-year Korean GI night courses in law do not count for more than three-quarters time training, for purposes of computing monthly GI allowances. Does this three-quarters rule also apply to four-year night courses approved by the American Bar Association?

A—No. Four-year night courses approved by the American Bar Association are the exceptions to the rule. They may count as full-time training, in computing GI allowances.

Q—I have to sell my GI house for reasons of health. If I allow the buyer to take over my GI loan payments, would I still be eligible to have my GI loan restored?

A—In order for your loan rights to be restored, VA must be released from liability on its guaranty. This can be accomplished only if the GI loan is repaid in full. It cannot be accomplished if the buyer takes over your GI payments. The release of a veteran from liability does not change the fact that VA continues to be liable on the guaranty.

Q—I plan to add the total disability income provision to my World War II GI term insurance policy. Will the amount I have to pay be based on my current age?

A—Not necessarily. The amount will be based on the age that determines your regular term insurance premiums the last time you renewed your policy. This may not be your present age.

Q—I am a young man of 21, eligible for War Orphans schooling benefits. May I file my own application, or must my mother file for me?

A—Since you are of age, you may file yourself. In the case of young men or women under 21, applications must be filed by their living parent or guardian.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

As this column appears, the regular session of the Minnesota Legislature will be drawing to a close. Again we have had a demonstration of how inadequate is the short, ninety-day period allowed by our constitution as the time during which our State Legislature can meet every two years.

Amendment Needed

As this is being written, it seems probable that the people of Minnesota may have an opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment to remove the ninety-day limitation on legislative sessions. At the time our constitution was drafted nearly a century ago, ninety days apparently seemed to be adequate for the relatively simple business of state government. But today there is general agreement that the time is much too short for careful legislative action on all of the serious matters on which legislation is required.

Some states have no limitation on the length of their legislative sessions. Some still have even more restrictive sessions than Minnesota. It is suggested that the legislature itself should have the authority to extend its session beyond ninety days. There are many possible solutions, and most of them would be an improvement over the situation that prevails in Minnesota today. For under our constitution as it now stands, there is only one thing that can be done if the Legislature is unable to finish its job within the ninety-day limitation. The Governor may call a special session, which can convene at the time called and continue in session without any limitation.

Constitutional Revision

The ninety-day limitation is only one of the out-moded provisions in our state constitution. The entire constitution needs revision so badly that both political parties support a measure that would permit the voters to decide, at the next election, whether we should have a constitutional convention to propose and draft a new and modernized constitution. This measure has passed the House of Representatives, and awaits action by the Senate.

Certainly this is an issue which the people of Minnesota should have the right to decide. If the constitutional revision measure passes this year, in 1958 the people will vote on whether they want such a constitutional convention. If the vote is in the affirmative, provision will be made for the election of delegates to that convention, and the convention will meet and draft a constitution. And after that is done, the new draft will be submitted to the people for adoption. Full discussion and careful consideration would precede that vote by the people.

The Voters Should Decide

It is a part of our belief in democracy that we believe that the voters should be able to choose the important policy-making officers of government. They should also be able to vote on the rules that determine the powers and functions of those officers. In other words, they should be able to vote on the constitution under which our government operates. If the people believe that we could do a better job of modernizing our constitution by means of a convention than by a series of scores of separate constitutional amendments, they should be able to express that belief at the polls.

Handymen Turn to Paint Brush

Along about this time of year, many homeowners decide that one or more of their rooms could stand a "change of scene," or at the very least, a fresh bright renewal of the present color scheme.

And so simple have manufacturers made the job with their new wand improved ready-mixed paints and new methods of application that most "amateur handymen" can readily wield the paint brush themselves with very satisfactory results and at a considerable saving of money.

If you follow a few basic steps, the job of wall painting can be done correctly and in a surprisingly short period of time.

First the floors should be covered with newspapers or a drop cloth to catch any paint splatters that occur as you paint the walls. Then remove all of the electrical switches and outlet plates. If the switches and plates are to be painted, paint them separately on a newspaper.

Trim around the doors and windows first. For protection, speed and efficiency, use either masking tape or a trim guard. Be sure to wipe off any smears on wall surfaces with a rag to prevent lap marks from showing later on.

Whether you use a roller or a brush, spread your paint on evenly, with sweeping to-and-fro strokes. If you prefer using a brush, use a 4 or 5-inch brush to apply the paint. Start each stroke where the paint is dry and work toward and into wet areas.

Start at an upper corner of the wall and paint an easy arm's length across, parallel to the ceiling. Then work down from ceiling to baseboard. Continue the same method across the wall, working in strips a yard or so wide so you can come back and paint into an area you've just painted.

For base boards, begin in a corner of the room. First apply paint to the center of the board, then work toward the edges. To make your cleanup job easier, protect the floor with a drop cloth, and use masking tape or hold a trim guard or paint shield against the wall at upper edge of the baseboard.

Where walls are broken by windows or doors, start in a small area and work outward to broader areas.

When it comes to ceilings, paint in strips—the width, not the long way of the room. Keep the strips narrow. Take down fixtures and replace as you move.

"ALL ABOARD" FOR UNUSUAL GOINGS-ON

After 37 years at the same site Mr. and Mrs. Andy Jalma decided that at 77 they were no longer able to run their Spring Park grocery store; so church friends moved in and in a couple of days successfully sold out the entire stock. . . A Rock Island conductor decided recently that when he call "All aboard" people really take him at his word; a number of Faribault parents helped sons onto the train bound for national guard camp in Missouri—they were still aboard when the train pulled out, and disembarked at Owatonna, where another contingent boarded; on the way to Albert Lea the conductor discovered several Owatonna parents involuntarily hitch-hiking with camp-bound sons. . . Since 1941 at least one of the five sons of Mrs. Rose Baynes, Le Sueur, has been in Uncle Sam's uniform, and three at the moment are in service. . . It took a motor crane to unload a 2,240-pound cheese at a Pipestone grocery, and there wasn't a rat or a mouse reported in the watching throng.

Iron ore miner using a pneumatic drill in one of Minnesota's few remaining underground mines. He is drilling holes for blasting.

Every iron ore miner supports six other Minnesotans

It's a fact: the mining industry and its 19,000 miners support 114,000 other Minnesotans—wage earners in transportation, trade, construction, education, government, and service industries, and their dependents. Each year this amounts to over $200,000,000 for payrolls, purchases of equipment, materials, services, and supplies. In addition, last year the iron mining industry paid $56,638,885 in Minnesota State and local taxes.

These benefits cannot continue, however, unless Minnesota is able to attract many millions of dollars in investments for new processing plants to upgrade and improve our remaining iron ores. Every Minnesotan has a stake in creating this favorable investment climate, and should take a personal interest in it.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

Financing Improvements for Home Made Easier by Three Basic Plans

It has become increasingly easy in recent months for a homeowner to obtain financing for home improvement purposes. The gigantic national Operation Home Improvement campaign has enthused the nation's leaders and many are eager to help homeowners make satisfying, profitable investments in their homes.

There are three basic types of home improvement loans — the government-insured Title I loan, the uninsured loan plans that many banks and savings and loan associations are offering on their own, and the open-end mortgage advance.

Most Familiar

The most familiar is the Title I plan, in which a local lender advances the money required and the Federal Housing Administration insures repayment. Terms of this government activity were altered by Congress in 1956. The new law allows a maximum of $3500 for home improvement loans and up to five years to repay the loan. The maximum interest is $5 discount (per $100) on the first $2500 and $4 discount on any amount over $2500 up to the $3500 ceiling.

"Discount interest" means that the charges are deducted from the amount of the loan as a discount at the time the money is borrowed.

Title I is one of the least complicated methods of getting money in a hurry. There is little red tape. Usually, the contractor or dealer that the home-owner is dealing with secures the loan for him after the homeowner has filled out a simple credit application form.

Increasingly Available

The uninsured loan plans offered by many lenders in all parts of the country are frequently comparable in all respects to Title I loans. Actually, such loans have become increasingly available because the Title I program has proved that American homeowners, when they are borrowing money for the purpose of updating their homes, are uncommonly good credit risks.

Again, the loan is usually obtained by the dealer or contractor and it is not necessary for the homeowner to contact the lender at all. Since the interest rate is not determined by the government in this case, however, the wise homeowner will make sure that he is getting the best "buy" as far as local interest rates are concerned.

The open-end mortgage loan is a procedure whereby the bank or savings and loan association that holds the original mortgage on the house advances additional money for home improvement purposes, adding the advance to the amount still due on the mortgage.

Equity Important

It is usually necessary, of course, to have built up a substantial equity in order to obtain such an advance. In other words, before the homeowner can borrow money in this manner, a bank usually requires that he have made earlier mortgage payments totaling at least as much as the new advance. Only in rare cases do lenders allow the new total to exceed the original mortgage.

In most cases, the advance is repaid by adding to the amount of the monthly mortgage payments; sometimes, when higher monthly payments would be a hardship, the "life" of the mortgage is extended.

Principal advantage of the open-end mortgage is that in most circumstances greater amounts can be obtained through this procedure than through unsecured loans, such as the Title I loan. It is common, for example, for a home-owner to need as much as $5,000 for home improvement purposes. If he has repaid that much of an existing mortgage, it is possible for him to borrow the $5,000 at the same economical interest rates as the mortgage.

"Refinancing" Procedure

There are several other, less frequently used methods of financing home improvements, among them: new mortgage financing, which is possible only when the home is owned "free and clear." This is simply a matter of obtaining a mortgage on a home that is already built, bought and paid for. The disadvantage is that there is considerable red tape, accompanied by sometimes excessive fees — such as for the required title search.

Refinancing, which is the procedure whereby a homeowner with a small mortgage can apply for a complete new mortgage in a new amount, retire the existing mortgage and have money left over for home improvement purposes. This procedure has the same disadvantages as new mortgage financing.

CHANGE OF SCENE

Consider installing a wood paneled wall at the same time you add cabinets and shelving, to give your rooms a whole new personality as well as greater utility.

ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE
UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Starting The Lawn In Spring

There are three keys to success in starting a new lawn. The first is good soil. The second is good seed and the third is plenty of water.

• • •

Improve your topsoil by adding organic matter and commercial fertilizer. Peat, well rotted manure and compost are good forms of organic matter. A soil test would be useful to determine the amount of fertilizer required. A standard recommendation is one pound of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet of lawn area.

• • •

It's generally best to plant a grass mixture rather than a single variety of grass. A good mixture would contain from 50 to 70 per cent bluegrass and fine leafed fescues. For a sunny lawn, a minimum of 40 per cent bluegrass should be in the mixture. Where the lawn is shady, fescue grasses are recommended. Seeding should be done from April 15 to May 15 or in northern Minnesota till June 1.

• • •

After planting, water should be supplied if there is not sufficient rain. Generally speaking, it requires two inches of water per week to get the lawn established and carried through the season.

Families Act to Make Improvement of Homes Their Major Projects

With national income at an all-time peak, employment steadily maintained at high levels and savings deposits swelling, economic experts predict that 1957 will see a dramatic upswing in the trend toward better living for American families in all walks of life.

Better living for most families begins in the home. Many are giving Operation Home Improvement top place among their progress plans for 1957. Homes will be modernized, expanded, remodeled, redecorated, refurnished. New appliances will contribute new convenience, comfort, pleasure. New projects will be launched, long cherished plans brought to fulfillment, all for the greater enjoyment of family life.

Extra Rooms to be Added

Families everywhere will add extra rooms to their homes, either to keep pace with the needs of their growing families or, more often, to add a new dimension to family living as recreation or hobby rooms.

Almost every home has unused space that could be converted into livable extra rooms. In many homes, an unused attic will provide ample space for one or two extra bedrooms for the children or for use as guest rooms. Another good place to find space is in the basement. It offers real possibilities for an attractive rumpus or hobby room or TV lounge. An open porch or attached garage can become a comfortable den.

It is usually possible to have an extra bathroom in any of these areas. In many homes, plumbing lines are so located that they can be extended to the floor above or below at minimum expense.

Valuable Assistance Available

Local contractors or lumber dealers can give valuable assistance in all stages of these projects. They will be glad to provide helpful information, assist in solving problems that come up and advise about proper materials.

Many old fashioned bathrooms are due to get a complete "face lifting" in 1957 via new fixtures, colored tile walls and floors, stall showers, etc. Some will be completely redesigned for greater convenience. In many homes new bathrooms or first-floor "powder rooms" will be added.

Kitchens also will take an important place in modernizing programs. New step-saving layouts will be effectuated, work-saving appliances installed. Bright new decorative schemes will strike the gay and cheerful keynote so dear to the heart of the modern homemaker.

Comfort rates high as an adjunct to better living, and many improvement projects will be aimed at making the home more comfortable on an all-year-round basis. Present heating systems will be repaired, or new ones installed. Insulation will help to keep the sun's heat outside the house in summer and furnace heat inside in winter, and can soon pay for itself in fuel savings. Air conditioning can range all the way from individual room air-conditioners or attic fans to complete cooling systems which can often be integrated with present heating facilities.

Check Wiring System

With the addition of so many electrical appliances in recent years, many a home has outgrown its wiring system. This may not only call for additional outlets, but in the case of the older house, may indicate the need of a completely new system of greater wattage to cope with the increased power load that must be carried. In either event, an electrical contractor should be called in to survey the situation, make specific recommendations and submit an estimate of costs.

Since the appearance that the home presents plays such an important part in maintaining and boosting family morale, many projects will be aimed at a refreshing "change of scene," inside or outside, or both.

Inside the house, paint or wallpaper (or an effective combination of both) can create a completely new decorative effect at relatively small cost.

A wide array of attractive new flooring materials, applicable to every room in the house, enables the owner to give his home a new look "from the ground up."

Moving outside, such projects as re-painting, new siding and new roofing can work wonders in stepping up the attractiveness of a house, and can even left its re-sale value far beyond the costs involved in making the improvement.

Often a few simple changes in the exterior lines of the house or the elimination or adaptation of outmoded architectural details will create a completely new picture, infinitely pleasing to all members of the family.

Planning Most Important

Whatever form your own Operation Home Improvement may take, the planning stage is most important: if details of construction and decoration are carefully worked out in the beginning, you'll save time and money in the end, and the final results will be more attractive and a more lasting source of satisfaction to the family.

No longer need families save for years to accumulate the funds necessary to make major improvements in their homes. Today it is a simple matter to have such projects financed on convenient terms.

What Home Owners Should Know

Here are the pertinent points every home-owner should know about the government sponsored and insured FHA Title I Loans for home modernization, remodeling and repairs:

1. FHA Title I Loans for home improvements can be obtained from banks, savings and loan associations and mortgage companies. They are insured by the Federal Housing Administration.
2. Loans range from $100 to $3500. You can take up to 5 years to repay loan.
3. Interest rate (fixed by the government) is 5% on the first $2500 and 4% on any amount over $2500 up to the $3500 ceiling. Interest is deducted at the time loan is made.
4. No mortgage is involved. No title examinations. No extra charges or service fees. You fill out a simple application form which is processed bmy the lender. Within a few days your check is ready.

Newest Wallpapers Rich in Possibilities for Decorating

One of the easiest and least expensive ways to create a 1957 model out of a well-loved but slightly older home is to try a few decorating tricks with the new wallpapers. You can make the walls of any room look like something entirely different from what they originally were—just by using wallpaper. And, for very little money.

Today's wallpapers are designed to go anywhere in the house. The designs are simple. There is a fine sense of freedom and openness in the way many freely sketched drawings are widely spaced on light backgrounds. Today's wallpapers take easily to contemporary furnishings or to a combination of contemporary and traditional.

Wallpaper can solve the problem of an unattractive and uneven wall—one with the old-fashioned frame panels, for example. Put up lightweight wallboard over the entire wall, brush on a glue size, and decorate with a colorful wallpaper.

To add a colorful and dramatic note in the living room and to separate it from the dining area, cover a three-paneled screen with picturesque wallpaper.

In the kitchen that includes a dining area, it is easy to create the effect of "another room" in the latter with wallpaper.

Even one small touch of wallpaper, imaginatively used, can turn almost any room from drabness to a fresh new look. And, with such a wide variety of wallpapers to choose from, you can create any mood.

Minnesota has 8,297 miles of railways. Texas leads with more than 15,000 miles, Illinois second with 11,385, Pennsylvania third 9,457; Iowa, Kansas, Ohio also lead Minnesota by narrow margins.

The state's first hunting law went on the statutes just ahead of formal statehood, in March 1858; closed deer and elk season from February 1 to September 1; protected grouse, partridge, prairie chicken, and quail February 15 to July 15.

At latest available count Minnesota had 4,261 School Districts, 4,234 operating schools, 24,881 public school teachers, 584,077 public school pupils.

Gives Tips on Proper Placing of Fertilizer

Just where you put fertilizer at planting time this spring will have a lot to do with how much benefit you get from it, says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

In general, some of the fertilizer needs to be placed close to seed so that plant food will be available to the growing young seedlings. But if the fertilizer actually touches the seed, there may be some loss from fertilizer burn, says Charles Simkins, soils specialist at the University of Minnesota.

That's why there's often poor germination and seedling injury when fertilizer is mixed with seed by "boot placement" fertilizer attachments on drills and corn planters.

Now, you can get equipment that will put fertilizer in the right place and avoid fertilizer burn.

Recent field tests by the University soils researchers have shown that you get best results when you apply fertilizer in bands 2 inches to the side and slightly below the seed.

Proper fertilizer placement is especially important for soybeans and corn seelings. Small grains, though, aren't as sensitive to fertilizer, and often won't be injured if there is some fertilizer placed in direct contact with the seed.

As a general rule, don't apply more than 200 pounds of nitrogen and 40 pounds of potash when you fertilize grain with an attachment on the drill.

Winners Revealed in Cookie Contest

Belle Plaine Woman Wins Free Trip to Washington

Champion butter cookie baker of 1957 for Minnesota is Mrs. Emmett Minton, Belle Plaine, whose "Layer Cookies" won the first prize and a trip to Washington, D. C. for two during cherry blossom time, contest judges announced today.

Second place and a $100 Defense Bond went to Mrs. Lewis Askland, Henning, Minn., with her cookies which she calls "Almond Butternut Strips." Third prize winner was Mrs. Paul F. Newpower, 860 E. Ivy, St. Paul, with "Petite Lemon Tarts." She won a $50 bond.

More than 700 entries were judged in the contest which is sponsored annually by the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association and the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee. The judges looked at some 20,000 cookies which were subitted by women throughout the state. Cookies were graded on appearance, packaging, texture and flavor, with butter used as the primary ingredient.

The governor's wife, Mrs. Orville Freeman, the St. Paul mayor's wife, Mrs. Joseph Dillon and Princess Kay of the Milky Way presented the cookies to the crippled children at Gillette State Hospital, St. Paul Thursday afternoon. While this presentation at Gillette is an annual affair, there were so many cookies this year that various other children's hospitals and institutions also received cookies.

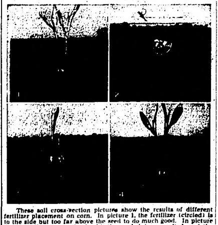
Shows Where to Apply Fertilizer



These soil cross-section pictures show the results of different fertilizer placement on corn. In picture 1, the fertilizer (circled) is to the side but too far above the seed to do much good. In picture 2, the fertilizer was mixed with the seed, injury resulted, and the seed didn't germinate. In picture 3, the fertilizer is incorrectly placed below the seed, the corn is delayed and the yield may be reduced. The fertilizer is correctly placed in picture 4 — about 2 inches to the side and slightly below the seed. In that position, the fertilizer does the most good.

Gardening

Here are a few hints for the garden fans which may make gardens tick this summer.

Plow down or spade down liberal quantities of well rotted barnyard manure at the rate of 3-4 bushels per 100 square feet. This will supply organic matter and improve the water-holding capacity of the soil as well as provide for better aeration.

In addition to the manure, apply a complete fertilizer like 5-10-5, 8-10-6, 5-20-20, or 8-16-16 at the rate of 3 pounds per 100 square feet. Rake this into the upper 2 or 3 inches of soil before planting the seeds.

As soon as the garden soil is dry enough to work without sticking to shoes or tools, the cool-season crops can be planted. Those include spinach, lettuce, radish, kohlrabi, peas, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, head lettuce, potatoes, onion parsnips, rutabaga, asparagus, and rhubarb.

Treat all vegetable seeds with Arasan. A pinch of the powder in each seed packet will be sufficient.

Use certified blue tag seed potatoes for more vigorous, healthy plants that will yield more potatoes.

Don't set out tomato plants too early. Wait until late May after soil and air temperatures are warmer.

Fruits

Inspect fruit trees now for any girdling done by mice or rabbits this past winter. Bridge grafting can be done early to trees over 2 inches in diameter.

Very young trees can be cut off below the girded portion with a reasonable chance of a vigorous sprout growing from above the graft.

Uncover strawberry plants just as the growth starts to push up under the mulch. Keep the straw handy between the rows in case a late frost warning is a forecast.

Tie raspberry canes to a support before growth starts. Use heavy twine and tie the canes tightly to the support.

Plant all fruits as soon as the soil can be worked. Strawberries planted early will produce early runners that will produce fruit buds for next year's crop.

On new plantings of everbearing strawberries, prune off all runner plants the first year. Remove flowers until July 1. After that, allow the flowers to make fruit for a fall crop. On June-bearing varieties remove all of the flowers during the first year, but don't cut off runners.

After setting out new raspberry plants, cut the canes off about 4 inches from the ground line. This will remove vigorous new cane development for next year's crop.

Before planting strawberries, treat the soil with heptachlor, dieldrin, or chlordane, according to directions on the container. This will help control white grubs that often feed on roots of the plants.

Crop Production Guide

Farmers can get some important up-to-date information for the coming planting season from the "1957 Crop Production Guide for Minnesota", a recent University of Minn. Agricultural Extension publication.

The crop production guide is printed as a chart that you can tack up on the wall in the granary or in any other farm building. The chart lists recommended varieties, seeding rate, date of seeding, weed control methods and a fertilizer guide for 13 of the most important field crops grown in the state.

Charles Simkins and Curtis Overdahl, extension soils specialists, and Rodney Briggs, agronomist, prepared the chart. You can get a copy of it from the county agent's office next week. The first batch of these guides have already been picked up but we will have more for distribution next week.

GRASS FIRE TUESDAY

The fire department was summoned Tuesday morning at 11:25 to the river bank near the intersection of Taft st. and Tindolph av., where a grass fire developed. No damage resulted from the blaze.

Co. Board Dismisses Action on 3 School District Petitions

Following a hearing Monday afternoon that attracted the attendance of fifty or more persons from the Goodridge and Mavie areas, the Pennington county board voted to dismiss the proceedings under which School Districts 15 and 46 in Pennington county and District 76 in Marshall county had petitioned to have their districts dissolved and annexed to the Thief River Falls District 18.

H. O. Chommie, attorney for the three districts, who suggested that the proceedings be dismissed, with the concurrence of Stanley Mortenson, attorney for the Goodridge district, No. 8, contended that the hearing was irregular in that notice of hearing referred only to the question of dissolution, and did not include the issue of annexation to the Thief River Falls district.

As a result of the board's action, the question of whether the three districts should be annexed to the Thief River Falls district or to the Goodridge district will be left in the hands of the state department of education.

Chommie pointed out that residents of the three districts had voted by a decisive margin in favor of joining the Thief River Falls district, and expressed the view that their wishes should be respected.

Speaking for the Goodridge district, Supt. David Brown stated that that district needed more area and taxable valuations rather than less, and said that good school facilities are being maintained and that their loss would created a serious problem for Grygla, Fourtown and other communities in that area.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Poppy Event

Grade School Children Join in Poster Contest

The American Legion auxiliary this week began preparations for the annual Poppy Day scheduled for Saturday May 25th Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, poppy chairman, announced today.

Under the supervision of grade school teachers a poppy poster contest is under way in the public and parochial schools of the city.

The auxiliary unit offers $3, $2 and $1 prizes for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners in each class. Posters are to be completed by May 15. The best posters will be displayed in the store windows in the city, and winners entered in district competition.

Mrs. Sagmoen appointed Mrs. George Baken, Mrs. Vernon Quam and Mrs. Kenneth Halldin to the poster committee. The poster contest, she said, has the double value of arousing interest in the poppy among school children as well as providing posters for promoting Poppy Day.

Stewart Tells of Power Plant Needs

At an adjourned session Tuesday evening, the city council heard a preliminary report by Engineer Douglas Stewart on the need of augmenting and replacing electrical equipment of the municipal power plant to keep abreast of the demand on its facilities.

Stewart indicated that a heavy outlay is involved, and the council arranged to meet again this evening to review the problem further and act on the matter.

At Tuesday's meeting, the council voted to accept the bid of Bridgeman Creameries in the amount of $572 for an ice cube machine for the municipal liquor dispensary.

Also approved, subject to bond technicalities being met, was the issuance of club liquor licenses to the Eagles, Elks, VFW and American Legion.

Students Named to Boys & Girls State

Dean Bergland and Ruby Waale, Lincoln high school juniors, have been selected to represent the school respectively at Boys State and Girls State, to be held in St. Paul in June under the sponsorship of the Minnesota department of the American Legion and auxiliary.

Bergland, the son of Mrs. Lorraine Bergland, will attend Boys State June 16 to 22 on the University of Minnesota farm campus, while Ruby, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waale, will attend Girls State June 20 to 27, with headquarters in the 4-H club building on the state fair grounds.

The students, selected on the basis of character, service and leadership, will set up model local, county and state governmental agencies and elect officers, thus training them in the responsibilities of citizenship.

Prowlers Are Dinner Guests Last Evening

Capacity Crowd Is in Attendance at Lettermen's Dinner

As has been the custom during the six years that the banquet has been an annual event, a capacity crowd was in attendance in the Trinity church parlors on Wednesday night as the city's four service groups—Lions club, Rotary club, Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce—paid homage to the Prowler athletes and their coaches in the seventh annual lettermen's banquet.

Following the invocation, given by Reverend Otto Dale of Trinity church, the Lincoln high school boy's quartet, under the direction of Byrant Ulseth, presented a musical program.

At the conclusion of an ample and well-served meal, Doug Tegtmeier, sports director of the local radio station, who presided as master of ceremonies, introduced Ralph Skjod, athletic director of Lincoln high school.

Mr. Skjod in turn introduced the members of the local coaching staff. Football coach Joe Mrkonich presented his assistants, Ralph Skjod, Dick Edlund, and John Matchefts, and then introduced the Prowler varsity football players.

Alan Adams the Prowler basketball coach was introduced, and he presented his assistant, Joe Mrkonich, and the junior high coaches, Dick Edlund and Jack Boyer.

Mr. Skjod then introduced the Prowlers hockey mentors, head coach John Matchefts and assistant Gene Sack. Mr. Matchefts in turn introduced the Prowler varsity hockey players.

Dick Edlund, in tennis; Jack Boyer, in golf; Quentin Jones, in track and crosscountry; and Dale Bolger, in wrestling; as well as grade school coaches, Phil Beadle of Northrop, Lou Johnson of Knox, and Joel McDonald of Washington were introduced.

And then, with a quip, Tegtmeier introduced the evening's featured speaker, Mr. Jim Adelson, the sportscaster of television station KXJB.

Adelson regaled the gathering with an assortment of stories and anecdotes. Some of these tales had their genesis in his early career as a sportscaster, and the others were collected during his travels throughout the northwest.

Mr. Adelson did present several serious and sober thoughts to the group, and these thoughts were directed at the Prowler letter-winners, explaining that an athletic letter-winner can, by setting a fine example in his general conduct, be a factor in making this a better world.

And another point that Mr Adelson stressed was that "in this cold and cruel world, a lesson that must be learned is to accept criticism, and to accept it graciously."

The sponsoring organizations presented the Prowler lettermen with scrapbooks as mementoes of the occasion.

Pre-school Health Roundup to Be May 4

Parents are reminded of the pre-school roundup which will be held on Saturday, May 4, at the Knox school gymnasium from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. under the supervision of Mrs. Merle Lindberg, chairman, Mrs. Randall Noper, and Mrs. Margaret Bace, school nurse. The roundup will be sponsored by the Knox, Northrop, Washington, and St. Bernard's PTA groups.

All children who are 5 years old on or before January 1, 1958 and who will be entering kindergarten in the fall, are invited to attend. All rural kindergarteners and children who will begin school for the first time this fall must attend the roundup.

Invitations are being mailed this week. New residents, together with rural residents and others in the community who may not receive a notice are urged to attend anyway.

If, for any reason, the child is unable to come to the roundup, the parent should call 946 and notify Mrs. Lindberg, or Mrs. Bace, phone 690.

The child's birth certificate must be presented before he can enter school in the fall. This can be obtained at the clerk of court's office in the county where the child was born. A hospital birth certificate is not considered a legal certificate. If possible this should be brought to the pre-school roundup.

Following the roundup, there will not be a pre-school clinic held this year. During the summer months, the children will be examined and given their shots by appointment with their family doctor.

2000 H. S. Musicians in City This Weekend

To Compete in State Area Music Contest Friday and Saturday

Bands representing 24 high schools from a large area, all of which had won "A" ratings in district contests, will be a major part of instrumental and vocal musical groups sharing in the annual state area music festival to be held Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, in the Lincoln high school auditorium and gymnasium in Thief River Falls.

Paul Anderson, secondary director here, is serving as manager of the festival, which will open each day at 9 a.m., and will continue thru the afternoon. More than 2,000 young musicians will be participating.

Scheduled to be heard Friday are piano, vocal and instrumental soloists and vocal and instrumental ensembles, while the larger groups, including bands, choruses, glee clubs and orchestras will be heard Saturday.

Serving as judges of the vocal groups and soloists will be Wendell D. Buckley of Concordia College, Moorhead; Allen Downs of the University of Minnesota, Duluth branch; and Kenneth Jennings of St. Olaf College, Northfield.

Instrumental groups and soloists will be judged by Arnold Oehlsen of Devils Lake, N. D., high school; Ronald Riggs of St. Cloud state teachers college; and Dr. Paul M. Oberg of the University of Minnesota.

The schools competing in the festival will be divided into five classifications, based on the size of the enrollments in Grades 10, 11 and 12.

The Chamber of Commerce will be hosts at a luncheon at the Rex Cafe Saturday noon to visiting school administrators and music directors.

Groups representing Lincoln high school in the festival will include the bands, mixed chorus, girls' glee club, boys' glee club, vocal triple trio, woodwind quartet, brass ensemble and numerous vocal and instrumental soloists.

Grabel to Offer Magician Show in City on Saturday

Lee Grabel, widely known magician, is bringing his famous illusion stage show to the Thief River Falls Auditorium Saturday, April 27, with a low-priced matinee at 4 p.m. and an evening performance at 8 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce.

Grabel's two-hour show will include a dozen entertaining offerings, including the illusion of shooting a girl from a cannon; Don't Drop It, a comedy number; the disappearing pin-up girl; Just an Old-fashioned Tintype; and many others. The glamorous Helene will assist Grabel in the production.

Grabel, a native of Portland, Oregon, now has his base of operations in the San Francisco area in California. As long ago as 1936 he received a Houdini award for his showmanship skill, and recently performed some of his mystifying feats on an 'ABC' television show.

Claude O. Ebling, agricultural agent for the Soo Line and himself a magician of wide reputation, stated this week that he recently saw the Grabel show at Grantsburg, Wisconsin, and that it was a truly wonderful performance. The show, he said, was staged at a fast tempo and was well balanced.

The editors were chosen by present staffs of the two publications and their faculty advisors.

Correction—

A word inadvertently omitted from the article in Monday's Times dealing with the School bond election to be held in Plummer May 7 reversed the intended meaning. Referring to the proposal to sell $28,000 in bonds for a vocational ag shop and one classroom, the article stated that "It is almost certain that these bonds will have to be sold." The information supplied to the Times, however, stated that "It is almost certain that the bonds never will have to be sold."

Hugh Carlson Is Chairman Street Planning Group

C. W. Rodekuhr Named Secretary at Meeting of Committee Monday

At the second meeting of the newly organized Thief River Falls street planning committee Monday evening, Mayor O. D. Belch announced that Hugh Carlson had accepted appointment as committee chairman, and had named C. W. Rodekuhr to serve as secretary.

City Attorney Robert A. Wurst discussed details of the highway bill expected to be enacted into law before the legislature adjourns this week. He stated that the city may expect to share in state funds thru the allocation of 9 per cent of highway user taxes to cities of more than 5,000 population.

City Engineer Douglas Stewart outlined the present status of the storm sewer problem in the city, and the committee asked him to bring the estimated costs of the proposed projects up to date, so that a complete picture of the situation can be obtained.

It was agreed by the group that a long-time program of street improvements should be put into operation by the city council.

The next meeting of the committee was set for Monday evening, May 6.

This brings the total number of break-ins to four for the past two weeks. The only thing stolen in any of the break-ins was $61 in cash taken from the VFW club two weeks ago.

Interest on Newly Bought U. S. Savings Bonds Now 3¼ Pct.

Improved interest rates on new purchases of Series E and H savings bonds were announced by the Treasury Department today, following the signing by President Eisenhower of the law authorizing the rate increases.

Series E and H bonds purchased currently will now yield 3¼ per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, when held to maturity. The former rate was 3 per cent. The increase is effective for all Series E and H bonds purchased on or after February 1, 1957.

Another improvement in the new bonds is higher interest paid to holders who find they have to cash their bonds prior to maturity. Both redemption values for the new E bonds and interest payments on the new H bonds are substantially increased for the earlier years.

For example, the redemption value of a new E bond is increased so as to yield 3 per cent at the end of 3 years, compared with 2¼ per cent heretofore, and to yield 3.20 per cent at the end of 6 years, compared with 2.64 per cent heretofore.

The improved rates apply automatically to all E and H bond purchased on or after February 1, 1957; persons who have bought these bonds since that date need not take further action to assure getting the improved terms. This is true even though the E and H bonds purchased since February 1 may have imprinted on them the former (and now obsolete) tables of redemption values or interest payment scales. The issue date shown on each bond will be controlling in determining the actual redemption value or scale of interest payments, and banks and other paying agents have been furnished tables of the new values.

The new E bonds mature in 8 years and 11 months and the new H bonds in 10 years. Both issues formerly matured in 9 years and 8 months.

The Treasury pointed out that in most cases it will not be advantages for the holders of E and H bonds issued prior to February 1, 1957, to redeem their old bonds and buy new ones. Any bond that is 2½ years old or older and has not reached first maturity will earn more than 3¼ per cent on its current redemption value as it grows to maturity. In the case of bonds bought prior to last February 1 and held less than 2½ years, only a small gain could be realized by redeeming them to buy new bonds—typically not more than a few cents per year in increased interest.

Series E bonds which have reached first maturity since May 1952 and are retained under the optional extension privilege are already yielding a full 3 per cent, compounded semi-annually with the priviledge of redemption at any time. If they were redeemed and new E bonds purchased, the new bonds would have to be held 3 years before they would earn as much as 3 per cent.

Ripplinger Found Guilty of Murder in Second Degree

13 unless sooner disposed of.

The case was given to the jury after closing arguments had been made by Charles E. Boughton, Red Lake county attorney, for the state and by Henry G. Tweten of East Grand Forks for the defense.

The judge notified the jury that only two verdicts were possible, guilty of second degree murder or not guilty. He defined murder in the second degree with a design but without premeditation or deliberation.

A crowded courtroom witnessed the closing scenes of the trial of the state against Ripplinger.

Four children of the couple appeared as witnesses in the case. Three, Thomas, who was wounded by his father at the same time his mother was killed; Michael, 9, who was the only living witness to the killing outside of the defendant; and a daughter, Mrs. Joyce Hastings of Grand Forks, testified for the state.

Joseph Jr. of East Grand Forks was a defense witness.

Identify Youths Who Broke into Unoccupied House

Sheriff Charles Richards announced this week the solution of a break-in at a vacant farmhouse on highway 59, April 13.

Richards said nothing was missing from the farmhouse and that the six juveniles involved in the break-in evidently made the entry to "have a party."

The juveniles are awaiting court action in the case, he said.

Richards also reported another vacant farmhouse on Hwy. 59 burned to the ground April 12. Origin of the fire which destroyed the house owned by Mrs. Clarence Bottem is undetermined at present.

Birdell Lavone Randorf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Randorf of this city and Paul A. Wangsmo, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Wangsmo, Sr. of Arlington, Washington, were united in marriage April 13 at the United States Air Force Chapel, Spangdahlem, Germany. Chaplain Fish officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Yonkers, chapel organist played the nuptial music and accompanied Miss Peggy Pembertson as she sang "The Song of Ruth" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony.

Her long sleeves came to a point over the hand and tiny self covered buttons descended down the front o fher gown. Her chapel length veil extended from a coronet styled headdress and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bride was given in marriage by Max Leonard, principal of the Spangdahlem American family school, in the absence of her parents.

Miss Jean Murphy of Spring Valley, Wis., friend of the couple, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a silver-blue ballerina length gown with tiny gold flecks. She also wore short white gloves and a matching headpiece. Her bouquet was formed of golden yellow renunculas.

Attending the groom was Michael Halpin of Hartford, Conn., a friend of the couple. 1st Lt. Robert Doherty and 1st Lt. James Smith were the ushers. They are both stationed at the Spangdahlem Air Force Base.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the Officers club at the base with 60 guests in attendance. Miss Eileen Carter acted as hostess and Miss Pat Brunning was in charge of the guest book. Miss Rachel Charlson, friend of the bride from Minneapolis, who now teaches in Germany, cut the cake.

For their honeymoon to Switzerland and Austria Mrs. Wangsmo chose a white wool sheath dress with navy blue and red accessories.

Miss Randorf is a graduate of Lincoln high school and of Moorhead state teachers college, and is teaching in Germany. Mr. Wangsmo is a graduate of Arlington high school and from Pacific Lutheran college of Tacoma, Wash. He received his master's degree in elementary administration from Columbia University in New York. He is employed by the United States Air Force and is also teaching in Germany.

Daylight Saving Expected Sunday

Governor to Designate Start of New Time Today

Statewide daylight saving became a certainty for Minnesota Tuesday with senate and house passage of the bill, house file 2087, under the bi-partisan co-sponsorship of Representatives Fred Cina and John A. Hartle.

Thomas R. Hughes, secretary to Gov. Freeman, said the governor will sign the bill as soon as he gets it, probably today.

Freeman, who is charged under the bill with the duty of setting effective dates for beginning and ending fast time in 1957 and 1958, will fix the dates in a day or two.

It can be predicted, however, daylight time will begin Sunday in Minnesota, as it does in Wisconsin and most eastern states.

The senate also put a two-year expiration date, July 1, 1959, on the measure so it can be looked at by the 1959 legislature after two summers' experience with fast time.

4-H Clothing Project Leaders Complete Training Program

A leader training program for leaders of the 4-H clothing project has just been completed in Pennington county, Home Agent Marge Olsen announced today.

The program was conducted by the Singer Sewing Machine Company in cooperation with the county extension service.

Clothing project leaders from 16 of the 17 clubs in Pennington county received two days of training in "Getting the Most Out of Your Sewing Machine." The training meetings were held March 27, April 3, April 10 and April 17.

Mrs. Orvin Anderson, local Singer Sewing instructor, conducted the training meetings at the Thief River Falls Singer Sewing Machine Center.

She taught each leader how to teach younger clothing members how to operate a sewing machine. The four basic steps in learning are: first, learning to sew with needle and thread on the machine. The third and fourth steps are learning to thread the machine and how to wind the bobbin. Posture at the sewing machine is stressed.

The leaders will now hold special project meetings with their beginners in the clothing project, and will teach the 4-H girls these four steps. Since it is much easier to learn in small "doses", the girls will learn one step at a time, and will practice each step before going on to the next one. When the 4-H clothing girl has learned all four steps, she will become a 4-H sewing machinist.

The leaders were trained in four other phases of sewing on the sewing machine which they will use in teaching the other clothing members of their 4-H clubs. Adjustment and care of the sewing machine; machine adjustments for various weights, textures, and thicknesses of fabrics; use of the buttonholer; and getting the most out of your sewing machines, which included the use of attachments, were all part of the training.

Over twenty counties in Minnesota have accepted this program, and as yet, Pennington county is the only county in the Northwest district.

As a result of this training program, 4-H clothing leaders have more knowledge and skill in the care and use of the sewing machines so they can better work with their 4-H clothing members of all ages.

Through better trained leaders, 4-H clothing members will learn more about the care and use of the sewing machine. They will develop more confidence, they will become more aware of quality workmanship, their results will be better and they will be more satisfied with their garments.

Leaders completing the training program were awarded a certificate of merit from the cooperative extension service. Receiving certificates were Mrs. Alvin Swenson, St. Hilaire; Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, Smiley; Mrs. George Swanson, Sanders; Mrs. Jack Radniecki, Deer Park; Mrs. Engval Dahl, New Solum; Mrs. Julius Alby, Double N; Mrs. Hans Harder, Silverton; Mrs. J. C. Lendobeja, Kratka; Mrs. Richard Mosbeck, and Mrs. Axel Naplin, Happy Hearts; Mrs. Gust Gustafson, Wyandriver; Mrs. Lewis Quam, Goodridge; Mrs. Elno Johnson, Steiner; Mrs. Kenneth Sunsdahl, Highlanding; and Mrs. Billy Wayne, Mavie.

Burglars Get Big Haul in Crookston

Thieves outmaneuvered anti-burglar devices in Crookston Sunday night and took nearly $1,000 from the Piggly Wiggly market.

Although the store was lighted the intruders escaped detection by crouching behind a window display as they peeled off the door of the safe, located near the front window.

They took care of a tear gas bomb attached to the safe's inner door by ripping off the door.

ST. JOHN'S WALTHER LEAGUE TO MEET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

St. John's Walther League will meet Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. The topic "A Tip or a Talent" is to be shown. This is a filmstrip in color and with recorded narration and music. A recreational period will follow.

4-H Leaders Complete Clothing Project Training

Seven of the 15 Pennington county 4-H club leaders are shown here as they watch Mrs. Orvin Anderson demonstrate a stitch at the sewing training course taught by Mrs. Anderson at the Singer Sewing Center here, the title of which was "Getting the Most Out of Your Sewing Machine."

The leaders will now hold special clothing project meetings and teach the four steps learned in the course to beginners in the 4-H clothing project.

12 Cases Heard in Municipal Court

Only One Speeding Case Is Included in Number

Only one speeding case was included in the 12 brought before Municipal Judge H. O. Chommie Monday afternoon, according to Mrs. Pat Thompson, clerk of court. Usually speeders make up a far larger percentage of the cases brought into court each Monday.

The single rapid driver was brought in by the highway patrol, along with five other traffic violators. He was Carl W. Carlson, rt. 1, city, and was charged with driving 70 m.p.h. at night. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15 and $4 costs.

Kenneth Lokken, city, drew a $25 fine plus $4 costs on his plea of guilty to driving without a drivers license.

Halward M. Stone, Warren, careless driving, drew a $25 fine plus $4 costs on his guilty plea.

E. J. LaCoursiere, pleaded not guilty to driving 142 lb. over legal axle weight and case was held over to April 29.

Harvey Grandbois, Red Lake Falls, pleaded guilty to having no brakes on his trailer and his $10 fine was suspended, $4 costs paid. On a second charge of driving 1500 lb. over legal axle weight, his guilty plea resulted in Grandbois being fined $15 plus $4 costs.

James D. Erickson, charged with driving without chauffeur's license did not appear and forfeited bond.

Four traffic violators were brought before Judge Chommie by city police. These were:

Henry W. Hoard, city, running red-light, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus $4 costs.

Albin G. Stanzyk, Angus, driving through stop sign, pleaded guilty and drew a $5 fine plus $4 costs.

Gerald Stromberg, pleaded guilty to driving after license suspension and was fined $25 and $4 costs.

James R. Mabey, city, pleaded guilty to the same charge as above, and drew the same penalty.

Baseball Prowlers to Open Play Friday

Coach Ralph Skjod's defending district champion baseball Prowlers will begin play on their attractive 20-game schedule on Friday afternoon when, at 2:00 p.m., they meet coach Julian (Curly) Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies on the Goodridge diamond.

High Court Denies Dr. Axilrod Appeal

U. S. Supreme Court Refuses to Review Case

The United States supreme court Monday denied Dr. A. Arnold Axilrod's appeal for review of his conviction in the slaying two years ago of Mrs. Mary Moonen.

"That's the end of the legal line," said George M. Scott, Hennepin county attorney, who was notified of the denial in a telegram from the clerk of the highest court.

But Sydney Goff, Axilrod's attorney, said it now will be possible to ask for a writ of habeas corpus in federal district court to test the validity of the judgment and sentence.

Whether that step is taken will depend on the outcome of a conference with Axilrod later this week, Goff said.

Axilrod, 51, former Minneapolis dentist, is serving a 5-to-20-year sentence in Stillwater prison.

He was convicted of strangling Mrs. Moonen, 21, one of his patients, when she threatened to expose him as the father of her unborn child.

Chas. Dicken Jr. Inducted in Army

The local selective service board announced this week that Charles Dicken Jr. had been inducted into the U. S. Army April 17, and is now stationed at Camp Chaffee, Arkansas. The board has received instructions to supply two men for induction May 21 and eight men for pre-induction physicals the same day.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Short, and Sweet, we Hope.

That's the description of the Prowlers' baseball schedule, and which opens on Friday afternoon with the locals playing at Goodridge.

In the space of thirty-five days, from April 26th through May 30th, the Prowlers will play a 20-game schedule. That permits a margin of but ten open dates (excluding the Sunday dates) in which the Prowlers can take care of postponed games. Considering the spring weather that is the usual fare up here, it's extremely doubtful if all of these twenty games will be entered into the score-book.

The schedule is printed elsewhere in this issue of the Times, and an attractive slate it is, too. The probabilities are that the most exciting and entertaining games on the schedule will be the two game series against Fertile, the two-game series against Red Lake Falls, and the single game here against Cass Lake, and the single game here against Bemidji. These games should be "musts."

The "experts" have, and perhaps with good reason, installed the Fertile Falcons of district 30 as the regional favorites. Fertile, with a lineup composed for the most part of players that performed with the district champion Fertile American Legion junior team, are a "solid" club. Coach Johnson's squad has splendid pitching, having Mike Roragen and Arlo Brunsberg, able hitting, and strong defensive play. Fertile will play here in a night game on Wednesday, May 29th.

But while the "experts" are favoring Fertile, there is a sprinkling of support for coach Horace May and the Bemidji Lumberjacks. They're defending champions, you know. Graduation made a shambles of last season's club, with such boys as Corky Johnson, Ross Fortier, Joe Mayer, Dale Lauderbaugh, and Chuck Fenske completing their high school competition. But coach May will have righthander Bill Lawrence on hand, and Bill, a member of the baseball playing Lawrence family, will be a "toughie". You can wager that Lawrence will be on the mound when the Jacks play the Prowlers here on Friday night, May 24th.

He Should be a Good One.

It was with interest that we heard the announcement, from Grand Forks, that Marv Helling had been named head football coach for the North Dakota University Sioux.

We are quite well acquainted with Helling, for he coached for several years at Detroit Lakes, and his football teams were on the schedule of the Prowlers.

If the caliber of his high school teams while at Detroit Lakes can be taken as a criterion, it is a certainty that the football fortunes at North Dakota will be on the rise.

Who can forget that Detroit Lakes powerhouse of 1953, a team that was rated as the state's second best in high school competition. That was the Laker club that was sparked by fullback Rich Borstad, and which trounced the Prowlers, 44 to 6, on the local field.

Helling, judged on the play of his high school teams, isn't a "razzle-dazzler," but perfers to play a crunching style of football. He'll make the Sioux work, of that you can be certain.

He's a Jumper.

In all probability, before the current high school track season is concluded, and including the state meet, Bemidji's Jim Patten will have written a number of new marks into the district and regional high jump record books.

In the first meet of the year, in the Sioux indoor at Grand Forks last Friday, Jim topped the bar at 6 feet, ¾ inches, for a new record.

Quent Jones, the Prowlers track coach, says that Patton has tremendous potential, having fine speed and excellent leg spring. Jones advanced the thought, though, that Patton's future, in college, could very well be in the broad jumping event. Jim isn't too tall, being about five ten; and the college performers, who are flirting with the world's mark, are for the most part, sixfooters or better.

With his speed, and his ability to get up in the air, Patten may develop into another John Bennett. Bennett, you will recall, was a five-foot, seven-inch Grand Forks Central athlete who was high jumping around the six-foot mark while in high school. Bennett shifted to the broad jump event, and this past season he was a member of the United States Olympic team.

Oh yes, this high jump mark of Patten's, set on Friday, was made on a recently mended ankle. Just prior to the district and regional basketball tournament, Patten suffered a break in a small bone in his ankle. Jim was sidelined as the Lumberjacks moved through the district, regional, and state tournament play.

It's not too unreasonable to believe that had Patten been hale and hearty, and able to give his rebounding best, that the Lumberjacks would have beaten Minneapolis Roosevelt in that first round state tournament game, which went into overtime and was won by the Teddies.

Herbert Dill of Mud Lake Refuge Speaks to Lions

Herbert Dill, manager of the Mud Lake wildlife refuge, was the speaker at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Elks club rooms.

He discussed the reorganization program being carried out in the U. S. Fish and Wildlife service under the direction of Secretary of the Interior Seaton, and said the personnel of the local refuge had been asked to develop a ten-year long range program for the area.

Dill also stated that nearly 100 moose and upwards of 500 deer are now located in the refuge.

Nearly 28 per cent of U. S. drivers involved in fatalities in 1956 were under 25 years of age.

Big Attendance at Trap Club Dinner Tuesday Evening

Rinkel, Dahlquist and Stan Wilson Elected to Board of Directors

As usual, there was a near 100 percent of the members in attendance at the banquet and meeting held at the golf club-house by the Thief River Trap Shoot club Tuesday evening.

Following the dinner, a brief business session was conducted, and three directors were elected. Elected to three-year terms as directors were Bill Dahlquist, Frank Rinkel, and Stan Wilson. Holdover directors are Ole Ekeren, Tony Dorn, Stan Ranum, and Henry Granum. The board of directors, at a later meeting, will name the executive officers of the club.

The club, in recognition of their winning of the league championship, presented the members of the Wilson Bros. squad with "patches" carrying the club's insignia. The Wilson Bros. squad members are Stan Wilson, Cy Schantzen, Al Tonder, Walt Fisher, Hank Storhaug, Roy Peterson, Sandy Wilson, and Fred Mittelstadt.

The league's high-average shooters were also named, and as they acknowledged their introductions they were given a fine round of applaus. The league's "high guns" were Dr. Jim Disse, Capt. Walt Anderson, Ray Johnson, and Tony Dorn.

It was announced that an "open" shoot will be held on Thursday evening, April 25th. The shoot will perhaps be a "chicken" shoot. It was also announced that at Thursday's shoot, a tentative league schedule will be presented.

Revised Youth Gun Safety Law Signed

The department of conservation announced today that Governor Orville L. Freeman signed into a law a revised youth firearms safety law. A few additional amendments were added after the opening of the session. Because the program was newly created during the 1955 session it was necessary to make several changes based on the operation experience of the last year.

The original firearms safety act set up a statewide system of firearms safety training for youth from 10-16 years of age. Volunteer instructors (there are now more than 5,000 men that have been trained throughout Minnesota) have taken on the responsibility with a volunteer county director to see that the youths of their county and community who wish to receive the seven hour minimum course now required by the state are trained.

Classes are being conducted throughout the state and over 22,000 youths have already completed their training in order to meet the September 1st effective date of the law.

After September 1st it will be unlawful for any youth under 16 years of age to use a firearm for the purpose of taking protected or unprotected wild animals unless he has in his possession a training certificate issued by the state. Exceptions are the youth on his own occupied land or the youth who is being supervised by the parent or guardian.

A 1953 statute prohibits any youth under 14 years of age from having a firearm or air gun in his possession unless supervised. Therefore, the training certificate is not needed until the youth is 14. At the age of 14 the youth can hunt alone provided he has the certificate in his possession.

Major changes in the revised firearms safety act are as follows:

1. The minimum age requirement has been raised from 10 to 12 years, therefore the youth must be 12 years old before he can take the training.

2. In order to hunt small game the youth must procure a small game license at the age of 12 instead of the former age of 16. However, if the youth possesses a training certificate he may use this as a small game license until he is 16 years of age.

3. The county has been given the authority to levy a county training fee up to $1.50 to finance the local operation. The county may also expend up to $1,000 annually fro mtheir general revenue fund and in counties over 100,000 population up to $2,500. (The state fee remains at 50c). The county treasurer has been designed to handle the funds.

4. The state has been given the authority to purchase liability insurance for the protection of the instructors working on the program. They also have been given the authority to purchase and resell the necessary supplies to the counties.

Who Said Women Can't Drive?

Two happy girls, driver Patricia Jones, right and navigator Elisabeth Brich, celebrate their victory over men in the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run. This is the first year that women were allowed to participate in the 4-day 1,388 mile marathon from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, Idaho.

The girls were the first to cross the finish line with their 1957 Dodge and got more miles per gallon than all class winners, excepting an identical car driven by two veteran Economy Run drivers.

More Dairy Foods Consumed in 1956

National Dairy Council Reports for Past Year

Americans drank two more quarts of milk per person in 1956 than the year before and set a new all-time record for cheese consumption.

A new record was also set for cottage cheese consumption. Ice cream was purchased at a rate nearly double the 1935-39 average. Butter consumption in 1956 dropped a tenth of a pound, but this figure was still second highest of the last five years.

These facts were announced this week by the National Dairy Council with the publication of its annual statistical study, "How Americans Use Their Dairy Foods."

On the production side, milk production in 1956 was 748 pounds of milk for each man, woman and child in the United States. The dairy foods consumed last year were processed and manufactured from an average 699 pounds of milk per person. This left a surplus of 49 pounds per person, one pound per person less than in 1955 and 22 pounds per person less than the peak surplus of 71 pounds per person in 1953—an improvement of 31%.

Old Fashioned Ideas

Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself.
—James A. Garfield

Higher Education Headache

Dr. W. McNiel Lowry, program director of the humanities and arts division of the Ford Foundation, told a group of graduate school deans, representing 75 midwestern universities, that the day is not far off when college students will have to pay the salaries of their teachers. It is an idea that has often been expressed, but not often enough.

He made it clear that more realistic tuition charges should not be imposed in such a way as to discourage deserving students of limited means. Students of proven capacity and aptitude would be assisted by scholarships and loans. The cost of their education would be deferred, but it would remain an obligation to be met when earning capacity made it possible.

Now is a good time to take a new look at our responsibility in the field of higher education. That there is a critical need for increased production at our institutions of higher learning is a generally recognized fact. There is a serious shortage of professionally trained men and women. This shortage, to some extent, is a threat to our national security. The need is great.

But we are not impressed with the hue and cry of our educators who insist that to meet this need we must double and treble the enrollment of our colleges and universities. The record of our own university is proof that this is not true.

Doubling the enrollment has not increased the production of doctors and dentists and lawyers and pharmacists. The production in these fields is not any greater today than it was thirty years ago, when the enrollment was only a fraction of its present total.

It seems clear that the answer to this problem is not greater enrollment, but more selective enrollment and greater production of finished products.

Before we add more classroom and laboratory facilities let's be sure we are using our present facilities to their maximum capacity. In terms of utilization of existing facilities, our schools are inefficient factories. Young people who are serious about wanting an education will be willing to adjust their hours around the clock to get it.

It is encouraging to know that statements such as those made by Dr. Lowry are no longer revolutionary, or shall we say reactionary. They are heard quite frequently. And we may assume that eventually educators too will be influenced by common sense.

Such a process is always accelerated as costs increase and the business of paying the bills becomes more painful.

First Things First

The school board at Appleton was undecided recently as to whether or not a basketball coach should be re-hired. As the Appleton Press tells the story, this became a matter of tremendous importance in the community.

While this argument was following the usual course, one of the high school students, who will graduate next month, had some difficulty in writing a check at a store where he had made a purchase. The obliging clerk had to tell him how to spell "twelve."

All of which caused the Press to wonder if the good citizens of that community were too much concerned about who was to teach their sons how to shoot baskets and perhaps not enough concerned about who would be teaching them the three R's—and how to spell.

Ninety Days of Work

Several young hoodlums who "crashed a party" in Minneapolis recently, have been sentenced to serve 90 days in the workhouse and be given "American" haircuts. Judge Luther Sletten is the man who deserves the credit for this good judgment.

We suspect that Judge Sletten has not been too favorably impressed with the state's Youth Conservation program. The record of that well-intentioned organization has not been impressive. Perhaps it would be more successful if the Judge Slettens around the state would have more authority in dealing with the problem youngsters who come before them.

It was the intent, when the Youth Conservation Commission was created, to establish an agency that would be helpful to local law enforcement officers in dealing with delinquent young people. It hasn't worked out that way. The YCC has become a very independent agency, the main purpose of which seems to be to extend further its own authority.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

Middle East Trip

As Chairman of the Senate's Subcommittee on the Near East, we are making a quick trip through troubled areas of the Middle East on behalf of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It will provide an opportunity to confer personally with heads of state or foreign policy officials in Egypt, Israel, Lebanon and other areas, as well as with our Abassadors and military officials in the Mediterranean. Such discussions will be extremely helpful in considering the foreign aid program coming before the Senate on my return. My itinerary will include Italy, Egypt, Lebanon, Israel, Greece, and Spain.

Farm Exports

In addition to looking into our international relations generally, I am doubling up on assignments by using the trip for a study of opportunities for additional exports of farm commodities, particularly under Public Law 480 program of sale for foreign currencies and barter. Detailed hearings on administration of this program will be held under my chairmanship upon my return. Spain offers an example where American food products were used to finance construction of all our military installations. I want to see if more of this cannot be done in other areas of the Middle East.

Food Reserves

While in Rome I will be conferring with officials of the U.N.'s Food and Agricultural Organization regarding implementation of the proposal I made earlier this year in the General Assembly of the United Nations, for international cooperation toward establishing National Food Reserves in food-deficit or famine areas. The UN went on record approving the idea and referred it to FAO for further action. If properly persued, it offers another opportunity for making wiser use of our country's food abundance. During the trip I also intend to look into opportunities for using foreign currencies obtained from sale of farm products for expanding our student exchange programs, giving more American youths an opportunity for visits abroad and bringing more young people from other countries into the United States to learn more about our way of life.

Defense Problem

Another mission of the trip to the Mediterranean will be to discuss with our military representatives in the area their problems of backing up our extensive commitments in the Near East and southern Europe. The recent announcement of the British cut-backs in conventional armed forces, for example, poses serious questions for our own forces. They will have increased responsibility now for backing up the Eisenhower Doctrine, and other commitments which we have made to the Baghdad Pact nations along the southern perimeter of the Soviet Union.

Drivers' Licenses Suspensions Are up

The suspension of licenses of Minnesota drivers increased more than 30 per cent during the first quarter of this year over the same period in 1956, according to figures released by the Minnesota Highway department. For the three months ending March 31, 9,131 drivers had their licenses suspended, compared to 6,958 last year.

This is the first year records have been kept of suspensions under the Minnesota Point System. During the quarter, 2,899 drivers had their licenses suspended because they had accumulated 12 or more points within 12 months for various moving traffic law violations. For two of these, it was the fifth time the license had been suspended.

Examples of violations and the points to be entered on the driver's record are:

Carless driving	6
Speeding	6
Failure to yield right of way	6
Improper passing	4
Following too closely	3

Other violations carry various point values.

During the same period, the number of drivers whose licenses were revoked increased about 25 per cent from 2,196 in 1956 to 2,730 in 1957.

A record number of warning letters have been sent to drivers whose records showed they were beginning to accumulate points towards suspension. In three months, 20,948 letters were sent calling attention to the bad record the driver was accumulating and warning him that continued violations would result in suspension.

"The driver examining program has increased about one-third," G. A. Hatfield, director of the driver license division said. "The number of driving tests and examinations jumped from 42,411 a year ago to 55,503 for three months in 1957."

Of these, 20,153 were inside written tests and on laws and traffic signs and 25,530 were road or driving tests.

"We could reduce the number of examinations given," Hatfield said, "and decrease the waiting period for road tests, if applicants came better prepared. About 25 per cent failed the written test the first time, and about one-third failed the road test the first time. Too many persons show up for examinations without adequate preparation; they haven't studied their driver manual or had sufficient practice behind the wheel."

College Students Qualifications to Be Tested May 16

State Selective Service Chief Asks Men Seeking Deferment to Take Test

Lt. Colonel M. A. Reep, state director of Selective Service, today announced that a special Selective Service college qualification Test will be given on Thursday, May 16, because there were some students who for reasons beyond their control were unable to take the test given on November 15, 1956, and April 18, 1957.

Although the May 16th test will be given primarily for students who for reasons beyond their control were unable to take the previous test, it is to be emphasized that this does not bar any qualified student from taking the test if he applies immediately.

Applications for the May 16th test must be postmarked not later than May 6, to be accepted. Therefore applicants for the test should submit their applications at the earliest possible date.

It is stressed that students who have a certificate of admission for the April 18th test, which they failed to use on the assigned date, must submit new applications if they wish to take the May 16th test. A student may obtain an application blank from any selective service local board or his college or university registrar. This does not necessarily mean he must apply at his own local board.

Lt. Colonel Reep also stated that this would be the last opportunity for college students to take the test until November of 1957. Therefore, it is important that students who plan to request deferment for the next school year have a test score in their file before the end of this academic year, since at the end of each student's academic year the local board reviews his file and determines on the basis of class standing of the past academic year or test score if the student is to be considered for deferment for the ensuing academic year.

Plan Improving of 135 Miles of Trunk Highways

As one of his first acts as Minnesota's new state highway commissioner, L. P. Zimmerman, formerly the state highway department's chief engineer, yesterday issued a call for bids for the improvement of more than 135 miles of state trunk highways. Commissioner Zimmerman succeeded M. J. Hoffmann last weekend, following the latter's retirement.

The call for bids covers 16 projects in 15 counties, with an estimated total cost of $7,000,000. Included are grading, base construction, bituminous surfacing, concrete paving, four bridges and two traffic control signal systems.

Included are two projects in this area:

Polk County, T. H. 220—Grading of 12.7 miles between Climax and a point 3.8 miles southeast of Bygland.

Roseau County, T. H. 11—Grading, base and bituminous surfacing of 10.4 miles between a point 1.4 miles southwest of Greenbush and a point one-half mile south of Badger.

In 1956, more than 8,000 pedestrians were killed by autos in the U. S.

THE DIVINE VIGIL

Scenes like this are as commonplace as the moonbeams that play on the nursery wall. Little Gail doesn't know it . . . but Daddy and Mummy "look in" on her every night.

But what of the hours when parents sleep? What of the busy playtime when Daddy's at work, and Mummy's in the kitchen, and Gail is out walking her doll? Who will "look in" then?

Centuries ago the Hebrew pilgrims went up to Jerusalem for the great feasts, lifting their eyes to the hills, singing the song of "The Divine Vigil."

He that keepeth thee will not slumber rang the voice of the leader. He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep answered the chorus.

Even the loving care of parents is no substitute for the faithfulness of God. When you worship in church next Sunday you'll be expressing the ageless conviction: My help cometh from the Lord.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Daylight [illegible]aving in Effect Sunday

Railroads, Buses and Trains Remain on Standard Time

Due to the sudden switch over to daylight-saving time in Minnesota at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, allowing little time to publicize the change, many churchgoers found themselves Sunday morning in the predicament of Governor Orville Freeman, who neglected to move his clocks ahead one hour in his Minneapolis home and thus arrived at church just as the services had ended.

The bill providing for daylight saving had been passed by the state legislature Tuesday, and was signed Thursday afternoon by Governor Freeman, who set the new fast-time schedule to continue from April 28 thru October 26. In Wisconsin, the new time will run thru to the end of September.

It was announced Saturday that trains, buses and scheduled plane service out of Thief River Falls will continue to operate on Central Standard Time, and thus will arrive and leave here an hour later under daylight saving.

E. A. Hameraki, division superintendent of the Soo Line here, stated that the entire system will operate on standard time, except that the local offices and freight house will be on a daylight saving schedule of open hours.

While North Central Airlines will operate under standard time, Chet Matthews, local agent, reported that schedules had been changed slightly so that the morning plane now leaves Thief River Falls for Minneapolis at 7:14 a.m., and the afternoon flight leaves at 6:50 p.m.

The afternoon northbound plane now leaves Minneapolis at 3:45, arriving here at 5:50; while the late flight leaves Minneapolis at 10 p.m., and arrives at 12:05 a.m. in Thief River Falls.

Altho the local schools went on the fast-time schedule this morning, it appeared that no more than the normal number of high school students were tardy, according to F. Miles Nelson, principal.

Crippled Children's Clinic Scheduled in T. R. Falls May 7 & 8

Family doctors are the key men in the orthopedic field clinic program, says a news release from Crippled Children Services of the Minnesota department of public welfare, sponsor of the Thief River Falls clinic scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, May 7 and 8 at Epworth hall, the former Prichard home on Horace ave. in Thief River Falls.

Included in the clinic area are Kittson, Red Lake, Marshall, Roseau and Pennington counties.

Children up to 21 years old with crippling weaknesses in muscles or bones are referred to the clinic by their family physicians. After the child has been examined by a pediatrician and an orthopedist at the clinic, the doctor receives a report and helps the child carry out the specialists' instructions. If hospitalization or other special care is needed, the family physician also helps make arrangements.

Parents must make appointments in advance for their children to attend clinic sessions. In order to arrange for a definite time, parents are asked to contact their county health or local school nurse or Mrs. Neal McKechnie, 208½ LaBree, N., Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Harold Buck and Mrs. Harold W. Peterson are local chairman and co-chairman of the clinic. Local sponsoring organization is the Thief River Falls Woman's Club.

Engineer Reports Big Improvement Program Is Needed

A survey of the city's power facilities with the view of determining what must be done to bring in Missouri River power has received serious shortcomings in the distribution system. Switch gear equipment installed in 1941 is far from adequate at the present time, engineers report. The present load is nearly four times as great as it was at that time, they point out, and the old equipment is dangerously overloaded.

City engineer D. H. Stewart and his associates recommended immediate action and the council has taken steps to call for bids for the necessary improvements.

Changes that will have to be made in the local system in order to bring in outside power will cost from $50,000 to $60,000 according to preliminary estimates. Other improvements that will have to be made to bring the distributing system capacity up to present requirements may cost an additional $90,000.

When the present equipment was installed in 1941 the peak load was a little more than 1,000 kilowatts. This year it is expected to be greater than 4,000 kilowatts and by 1961 a peak of 6,000 kilowatts is anticipated.

The engineers' report recommended that equipment installed now should be capable of handling the conversion to 4,610 volts. The present system is geared to 3,400 volt capacity. The increased capacity will provide a much more satisfactory service to consumers, they state, and the change probably should be made within the next four years. That would require an additional expenditure at that time of about $40,000.

Good body posture.

Clean face, teeth, hands and hair.

The contest emphasizes the importance of good grooming for a happy, healthy life, according to Mrs. Gwen Bacheller, assistant state 4-H Club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Special Project for Retarded Children Is Slated in Minnesota

A special experimental project to encourage community responsibility for mentally retarded children in rural counties was anounced today by Governor Orville Freeman.

Made possible by a federal grant to the Minnesota department of health, the project is now being launched by the health department and the Minnesota department of public welfare. It will be carried out on a multi-county basis over a four-county site in west central Minesota. The four counties are Becker, Clay, Otter Tail, and Wilkin. Headquarters will be in Fergus Falls.

Project activities will have a dual purpose. First, they will serve as a pilot study to determine the whereabouts and needs of mentally retarded children in rural counties, and what can be done as a part of community responsibility to improve local services for these children. Second, demonstration programs will be established to stimulate and foster the development and operation of community services for retarded children and their families.

Expected to last four years, the project will be conducted through the joint cooperation of the health department's division of special services, headed by Dr. A. B. Rosenfield, and the welfare department's division of medical services headed by Dr. Dale C. Cameron.

Minnesota's program is made possible by an appropriation of $1 million by the U. S. congress to the U. S. Children's Bureau for distribution to state health departments throughout the nation which have plans for experimental programs on mental retardation. The Minnesota department of health received $53,700 for the current fiscal year of its estimated four-year project.

The goal of the Minnesota project is to effectively stimulate local communities throughout Minnesota to develope programs providing adequate diagnosis and care for children whose behavior patterns indicate need of special training because of mental deficiency. Such community responsibility will minimize the necessity for institutional care.

3 Local Students at Model UN Session in Winnipeg Last Week

Two Lincoln high seniors, Daryl Williamson and John Lynskey, accompanied by their faculty advisor, Joe Mrkonich, served as delegates from Brazil at the Rotary-sponsored Model United Nations Assembly held in Winnipeg, Manitoba, last Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27. Gilson de Sousa, the Brazilian exchange student at Lincoln, also attended as an official accredited observer.

In all, 31 Rotary clubs from Minnesota and North Dakota, and 25 clubs from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and North Western Ontario sent a total of 160 students, two delegates for each nation, to this international assembly. Daryl, John, and Gilson who were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Inman of Winnipeg were sponsored by the Thief River Falls Rotary club.

MUNA was patterned closely after the real UN general assembly. Various resolutions on major issues facing the world today placed before the assembly and then discussed in the block meetings. The Thief River Falls delegation was a member of the Latin American block.

After the block meetings the assembly heard speeches for and against each resolution, followed by a roll call vote of all the member nations. Each delegation was given the opportunity to speak on at least one resolution and to present the views of its country during the two day session.

Daryl Williamson discussed the disarmament resolution, and John Lynskey spoke on the proposal for refugees. The assembly had wide coverage by the radio and newspaper services.

Dinner and entertainment were provided on the first night at the University of Manitoba. The next evening, dinner was held in the Fort Garry Hotel, followed by an address by the Honorable Lester B. Pearson, Canadian secretary of state for external affairs, and former president of the UN general assembly.

This is the first year that MUNA has been held, but plans are underway to make it an annual affair. The assembly itself was sponsored by the Rotary club of Winnipeg with the co-operation of the Winnipeg Women's Branch and Men's Branch of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, and the Winnipeg Branch of the United Nations Association.

Beaver Trapping Soon Finished on Mud Lake Refuge

The harvest of approximately 160 beaver at the Mud Lake refuge will shortly be completed, according to Herbert H. Dill, manager. These animals are being trapped by local men working under permits issued by the Minnesota state conservation department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

It is estimated that the beaver population on the 61,000 acre refuge is in about 400 animals. A quota of 20 beavers is assigned to each trapper, there being eight men on the job.

The catch represents the harvestable surplus, and these beavers are taken from areas on the refuge which are near privately owned lands outside the refuge.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good . . . first it's too wet and Friday we had to contend with North Dakota real estate blowing through the area. Y'can't win! ! !

We certainly have had the questions thrown at us about the backyard boat covering project we've been working on this spring. Days like Friday don't speed the project, either. Nor do night photo and news assignments . . . meetings, meetings, meetings.

Does anyone ever stay at home evenings in Thief River Falls?

Really, the night assignments don't interfere with the work very much—late evenings are too cool for work. But, they make us hurry too much at washing that gooey fiberglassing liquid off our hands. That's really a time-consuming chore. Nor can you fiberglass a boat without getting your hands in it at some time or other!

There were certainly some eye-catching exhibits at the Trade Show Friday and Saturday. The cars, appliances, boats, etc., looked especially nice at the show.

Trouble is, there was very little at the show—which cost two bits per head to see—that folks couldn't see in the various stores for free. That's the comment we've heard from many folks and we're merely passing it on for what it's worth.

Noticeably absent from the show were exhibits by out-of-town manufacturers. Nor were there exhibits on hand from the localized industries in our own northwest Minnesota. There must be some area products worth showing! You must show something really NEW to properly arouse interest in such a show.

Here's another item we clipped AAA publication. You might be interested in knowing the total motor fuel taxes you've helped pay in the past 10 years.

"Motor fuel taxes paid by highway users throughout the nation last year totaled a record high of more than four billion dollars, says the American Petroleum Industries Committee.

"With the 50 per cent increase in the Federal gas tax rate that became effective July 1, total receipts under the tax are expected to reach $1.3 billion for the year. State taxes will account for an additional $2.7 billion.

"The most recent Federal increase to three cents a gallon was adopted to help finance the gas tax first reached the billion-dollar mark in 1939, passed $2 billion in 1950 and $3 billion in 1954. The petroleum industries' precise estimate for 1956 was $4,027, 250,000.

"During the 15 years since the beginning of World War II, annual revenues from gasoline taxes have gone up 203 per cent. In that period vehicle registrations have increased 87 per cent.

"In the 10 postwar years, 1946-1955, American motorists paid more than $24 billion in state and Federal gasoline taxes."

We have only one question . . . how much of that tremendous amount went to road maintenance and construction? We know of one state nearby that allocates a large portion of the fuel tax to school use, which is a foolish use to say the very least. We do feel the more than $24 billion collected since the war hasn't been reflected in better roads throughout the nation. But, what happened to that money?

Fuel taxes should go into more and better roads, in our opinion.

We hear that a boating and skiing club has been formed here among the many enthusiasts in TRF. Well, that's OK. Such an organization is bound to result in promotion of safe, sane boating on the limited expanse of water behind the dam here.

There's plenty of room for everyone if everyone observes common-sense rules of boating safety, but let some smart-aleck start charging recklessly through the heavy summer boat traffic and you have a big problem. Up to now no serious accidents have occurred . . . but—

It would take only one runaway boat slashing through the youngsters at the beach here to sharply curtail (or put an end to) boating on the river pool. So good luck guys and gals of the new boating and water-skiing club, and more fun to you!

Many a teen-age genius in the classroom becomes a moron behind the steering wheel. So long!

Well, with spring and summer comes the time when everyone who owns four wheels, an engine and a seat takes to the highways.

With that in mind here's a little something for you folks to chew on for awhile.

Before we can make progress in adopting realistic traffic regulations, the basic attitude toward drivers must change.

The typical American driver is you, your wife, your neighbor, your business associates. Certainly such people are not menaces on the highway.

Although every driver drives badly on occasion, the majority are normally cautious, considerate, intelligent, skillful and able to recognize speed too fast for conditions.

This view is not widely held. A recent poll of enforcement officials, motor vehicle administrators, members of traffic commissions and safety officials asked this question: 'Is it your impression that the driving public has generally demonstrated the ability to judge safe speeds of travel under all highway conditions? Eighty percent answered no.

These authorities see mainly the speeder and the traffic violator, and they investigate most traffic accidents. Granted that there are too many of each of these and they should be dealt with, they represent a small percentage of the normal driving public.

The motor car has been subjected to every restrictive traffic law conceived by man. There has been a concerted effort to curtail its movements with stop signs, traffic signals and speed limits.

This attitude is already costing us much of the advantage we might gain for improved automobiles and highways. Unless we think more in terms of 'go' than 'slow' in drafting regulations, it is going to cost us more.

Speed limits must be reasonable to be observed. Low limits do not necessarily mean low speeds.

Many traffic authorities agree that a limit which includes 85 per cent of the drivers is reasonable.

Modern traffic does not adapt itself to fixed regulation. For instance, a reasonable speed on any section of street and highway may vary many times in the course of 24 hours (depending on) the amount and character of traffic, weather and lighting conditions, type and width of pavements, presence of businesses, homes, schools, etc.

Yet blanket speed limits have been laid down covering wide areas, even entire states for all hours of day or night. Enforcement is then expected to enforce the law, raising the question: 'Is enforcement too rigid for less important traffic law violations and not rigid enough for serious offenses?'

There is no such thing as safe speed limit!

Accidents and fatalities occur at all speeds. Actually, records show that more traffic accidents and fatalities occur at speeds below 45 miles an hour than above.

The dangerous thing is a rate of movement that is 'too fast for conditions.'

We need to get rid of outmoded concepts of traffic and enforcement if the expanded road building program is to accomplish the purpose for which it is intended.

The future of automotive transportation can be bright if we match dollars for roads with realistic traffic regulations. The green light is due for a longer interval.

We can hear screams of disagreement all the way from here to St. Paul over the above material. As a matter of fact we don't entirely agree with it, ourselves. The part about the typical driver for instance—to us a reckless driver is a reckless driver. True, all of us make a boo-boo now and then but you can't get away from the fact that some drivers, either through ignorance or plain orneriness, just aren't safe at any time. (Personal opinion, of course!)

We'll confess—we pitched a curve your way. The controversial material isn't our own but comes from "Slow Traffic Laws Waste Fast Roads," an article written by J. Edward Johnston, a highway engineer, and published in "Nation's Business."

Whether you agree with the views therein or not, you'll have to confess it's time we had some positive thinking on such matters, especially in more crowded sections of the country. What's your opinion, Capt. Walter Anderson?

Anyway, we bet we fooled ya and because we didn't write it you can't blister us for it! So long!

Bill for Public Employes Unions Goes to Governor

Authorizes Election of Labor Representatives Among Public Employes

The house Thursday passed and sent to the governor a senate bill authorizing labor representation elections among public employes and compelling governmental bodies to meet with certified unions.

The measure, the first amendment to the Minnesota public employe no-strike law since it was passed six years ago, is a milestone in the long fight of public employe unions for rights similar to those held by labor organizations in private industry.

The bill does not affect the prohibition against strikes nor does it change procedures by which a three-man panel may suggest solutions, not binding on either side, in case of public employe disputes.

But it has implications far beyond the simple language of the proposal.

This is because authority given the labor conciliator to conduct public employe elections necessarily carries with it power to determine appropriate bargaining units and decide jurisdictional hassles when two or more unions are competing for the same employe group.

The no-strike bill, passed after the Minneapolis school strike in 1951, was a hastily drawn measure which has been a target for union complaints as impractical and difficult to administer.

The bill for representation elections and compulsory negotiations, both integral parts of federal and state labor laws, is the first step toward revising the no-strike law into a public employe labor act which will nourish unions while keeping public business free from work stoppages.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

Each year the president of the United States proclaims May 1st as Loyalty Day, a day which millions of Americans affirm their loyalty to our country and its ideals of freedom. Each year thousands of veterans organizations also conduct Memorial Day exercises to honor those who gave their lives that we may live in a free democracy.

Have we, fellow veterans, kept faith with the "spirit of the Unknown Soldier"? If that spirit is listening on May 1st he may hear the ominous tread of a large Russian Army that turn out each year to celebrate their so called freedom. He may also hear a steady reassuring step from the thousands of our young American boys who are entering the service today as they march in Loyalty Day and Memorial Day parades around the nation. But what about we as Veterans; we who have fought side by side with our honored dead? Have we kept faith with those who died that we might be free?

Fellow veterans, at your family gathering around the table May 1st give thanks to God for our democratic county, our freedom, and our peace. Tell your children why we celebrate Loyalty day. Then as the month goes by and May 30th rolls around, take your family out for the local Memorial Day exercises.

Each year too many of us, as citizens and veterans, fail to take advantage of the excellent Memorial Day program offered in Thief River Falls by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and are conspicuous by your absence.

Lets "all" turn out this year. You are all invited to attend.

Poison Ivy Can Be Controlled, 'U' Says

Can Be Eradicated by Using Chemical Sprays

Poison ivy—the weed that causes inflamed and blistered skin—is still a major problem in woodlands, picnic areas, and around farm yards in Minnesota.

Fortunately, though, there are ways you can eradicate that nuisance this spring and summer, according to Parker Anderson, extension forester at the University of Minnesota.

He says you can kill poison ivy by grubbing it out by the roots or spraying stems and leaves with ammonium sulfamate or with a combination of 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T brush killer.

Do the spraying either in early morning or late afternoon when the air is cool. One spray application alone won't kill all the roots, so spray the plants at least three times at 4-6 week intervals.

Use some caution when working around poison ivy, Anderson warns. Every part of the plant is poisonous. Wear old gloves and old clothing if you're pulling the plants. If you pull out the plant and burn it, keep a safe distance from the fire. Even the smoke contains oil which is poisonous to the skin.

Poison ivy causes the most skin irritation in spring and early summer when the stems and leaves contain the most sap. It has three parted leaves and may grow either as a shrub, as a bush, or as a vine. Don't confuse it with the Virginia Creeper; the latter plant has 5 leaves and is soft, Anderson says.

Only One Mishap Since Thursday

Four Persons Are Killed in Sandstone Accident

Area drivers continued to maintain safe driving habits with only one accident reported in Thief River Falls since last Thursday—and none on rural roads.

The state as a whole had another bad week-end with at least five persons meeting death on highways. A head-on collision near Sandstone early Sunday claimed the lives of two men and two infant girls and left three others seriously injured. Also, a 7-year-old girl was killed at Rochester when struck down by a car.

The lone accident reported in Thief River Falls occurred when a truck driven by Andrew Nesland, Radium, hit the rear of a car driven by Joney Flatland, city, as Flatland was stopped for a stop sign at LaBree av. and 3rd st.

Damage to the Flatland car was estimated at about $175 while no damage was caused Nesland's 2½ ton truck. Charges were filed against Nesland after the collision.

Neither Sheriff Charles Richards nor the highway patrol here had any mishaps, even minor ones, to report.

18 Pairs Canada Geese Nesting on Mud Lake Refuge

A total of 18 pairs of Canada geese have been recently seen on nesting territory at the Mud Lake national wildlife refuge, according to Herbert H. Dill, manager. Canada geese were reintroduced at the refuge in 1949 and are slowly establishing themselves.

Once a common nester throughout most parts of North America, the Canada goose has disappeared over much of its original range. The Mud Lake Refuge goose project is one of many being carried on by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to re-establish the birds.

Canada geese do not reach maturity until two years after they are born. Then they mate for life and usually nest for the first time when they are three years of age. Dill states that a number of years will be required to bring this species back to relative abundance.

Scoresheets of Minnesota districts entered in the program should be sent to Mr. Thorfinnson at University Farms, St. Paul, postmarked not later than May 15.

Cancer Society Reveals Grants to 'U' M. Doctors

$4,636,000 in Research Funds Made Available from 1956 Cancer Drive

The American Cancer Society today announced the award of $1,036,651 for research to 243 scientists in 108 universities and medical centers in 35 states—an all time record for the society. The grants were made from 408 applications for a total of $12,507,613.

This is in addition to a total of $3,000,350 in grants to 46 research centers already awarded during the current fiscal year. In all, the society is this year devoting $7,637,001 to cancer research.

Five scientists at the University of Minnesota were awarded $223,371 as follows:

Dr. Joseph R. Aust, $45,000 to study acquired tolerance in relationship to hormone transplantation.

Dr. Cyrus P. Barnum, $12,454 to study the physiologic control of cell growth at the metabolic level.

Dr. John J. Bittner, $18,280 to determine the biological characteristics of the mouse mammary tumor agents. (MTA)

Dr. Jerome T. Syverton, $138,535 to make experimental studies of cells, viruses and cancer.

Dr. Lee W. Wattenberg, $8,098 to make a morphologic histo and cyto chemical study of selected vitamin B group-related coenzymes in tissue sections during carcinogenesis.

These awards were made possible by the success of the society's annual Crusade last April. The current campaign, well ahead of last year's, indicates that still greater funds will be made available for research during the 1958-59 fiscal year. Throughout the country more than a million volunteers are conducting house to house calls this week as part of the 1957 Crusade.

Prowlers Share in Sioux Relays

The Midgets of Fargo high school won the team title in the 120th annual Sioux Relays held at Grand Forks on Saturday, compiling a total of 26 7/10 points to edge out the defending champion Grand Forks Central squad, who scored 24 2/5 points.

Thirty-two high schools, from North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota, were represented in the meet. Following the Fargo high Midgets and the Grand Forks Central Redskins in the team point totals were Moorhead, 22 4/5; Fargo Shanley, 18½; Fergus Falls, 17; Bemidji, 10½; Barnesville, 10 3/10; Fargo Oak Grove, 10; MSTC high of Moorhead, 10; Thief River Falls, 9; Cavalier, 6 3/10; Park River, 6; Roseau, 5 4/5; Detroit Lakes, 4 3/10; Hallock, 4 3/10; Hillsboro, 4; Bagley, 3; Pelican Rapids, 2; Amenia, 1½; Grafton, 1; Wahpeton, 1; and Warren, 3/10.

Scoring the points for the Prowlers on Saturday were Boyce Lee with a second in the pole vault; Jimmy Nelson a fourth in the discus, and Keith D. Johnson a fifth in the discus; and Ronnie Ebbinghausen a fourth in the broad jump.

Today coach Quentin Jones will have his track Prowlers at Crookston for a dual meet against coach Al Droen's strong Crookston Central squad.

Returning to the Sioux relays. Four records were set at Saturday's meet. Bob Bower of Oak Grove of Fargo ran the mile in 4:40.6, bettering the mark of 4:42.6 set by Grand Forks Central's famed Cliff Cushman a couple of years ago. In the 180-yard low hurdles, Don Van Raden of the Moorhead Spuds, skipped over the sticks in 20.5, and that, too, bettered a Cliff Cushman record.

In the field events, Marshall Hanland of Fargo Oak Grove hoisted himself over the crossbar at the 11 feet, 7 inch mark, to break the old record by ⅝ of an inch.

The Relays' oldest record broken on Saturday was in the shot put when Gary Larson of Moorhead shoved the heavy ball out a distance of 50 feet, 10 inches. That heave broke the old mark, set by Dean Lenaburg in 1951, of 50 feet, 9 inches.

The individual point-winner on Saturday proved to the Fergus Falls' Otters splendid all-round athlete, Jack Halland. Halland won the 100 and 220 yard dash events, and paced the Otters 880-yard relay team to a win.

Boating and Water Ski Club Formed at Meeting Tuesday

All Interested Persons Asked to Attend Second Meeting Tuesday, Apr. 30

Eighteen persons, including Elton Cummings, local police chief, Roy Barzen, city park board head, and Sheriff Charles Richards, representing the Pennington County Safety Council, attended the organization meeting of the new Thief River Falls Boating and Water Ski Club at the National Guard armory here last Tuesday. Joe Mead, acting president, presided.

Organization of such a club was strongly endorsed by the three officials representing the city and county, according to Stanley Gibson, acting secretary of the infant boating club. Each of the officials gave short talks outlining their views.

A temporary board of directors was appointed at the meeting, after formation of the club was unanimously approved by those present. Those named were Wendell Olson, Stanton Dahlen, Tom Fuller, Eugene Sjoberg and LeRoy Lokken.

Objectives of the club, it was announced, are: (1) To promote and help formulate safety regulations for boating in the river pool here; (2) To form an organization to guard against discrimination ordinances or regulations that might discourage boating and water sports on the river, and (3) improve facilities for boating and water sports, and at the same time improve relations between the water sportsmen and the general public.

Another organizational meeting has been set for 8 p.m. Tuesday evening in the armory, Gibson said. He asked that all persons interested in boating and other water sports attend.

A club by-laws committee will be set up at Tuesday's meeting and recommendations made as to future meeting place, dues, etc. A discussion on the possibility of joining the outboard Boating Club or Ski Club of America will also be held at the next meeting.

Work Planned on Marshes in Mud Lake Refuge Area

Extensive marsh improvement work is planned for the next few years at the Mud Lake refuge, according to Herbert H. Dill, manager. The emphasis will be on making fewer acres produce more wildlife.

The new program will get under way this summer in the Green Stump Pool which lies west of refuge headquarters and north of County Highway "E". The pool will be dewatered so that nesting islands can be constructed; and dykes repaired and enlarged where necessary. A large acreage of cattail and rushes will be opened up to make it available for use by ducks and geese. This will be accomplished by digging a series of potholes connected by level ditches.

Dill states that the project should be of great value to nesting waterfowl of all kinds. The construction of islands in this area will particularly benefit nesting Canada geese.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Activating the Fleet

The unloading ramp on the east side of the river, just off the Third street bridge, has been a hive of activity the past couple of weekends. And all because the city's able seamen have been "shaking down" their various and sundry watercraft.

Dr. Bill Feigal had his flagship type of outboard cruiser — it's identical with Lloyd Bennes' cabin cruiser — on the river last week, and he expressed satisfaction with the boat's performance. Doc intends to keep his boat at his anchorage at Springsteel Island at Lake of the Woods. Lloyd, by the way, usually berths his cruiser at Moore's on the Rainy river near Wheeler's Point.

Phil Hess, a proud new boat owner, had his outboard on the river the past couple of Sunday's. Phil's outfit, a fiberglass boat and 35-horse outboard, will be used at Red lake, lake Bemidji, and Lake of the Woods. His set-up is extremely portable.

And yesterday, Orvis Olen had his 20-foot boat in the river, getting some of the "bugs" out of the new craft. His outfit, too, will get most of its sea-worthy tests on huge Lake of the Woods. Orvis is a Sable island and Burton island man, and that's where the walleyes are, he claims.

Another new boat on the river, in the big-boat class, was Dr. Milt Sturekow's outboard outfit. Doc has a fiberglass hull, canvas canopy, and a 35-horse motor.

The Lake of the Woods cruising club, an exclusive organization, has been holding a number of coffee bar conferences, making preliminary plans for this season's "voyage" on the lake. Various proposals, such as cruising the Painted Rock and Split Rock area, or to explore the Whitefish bay water, have been discussed. These fellows, though, have the equipment to move anywhere on the lake. And they usually do.

As for ourselves, we're putting several coats of spar varnish on a pair of oars. When that chore has been completed our cedar-strip boat, dubbed by our friends "Mayflower the Third," will be shipshape and ready for the more sheltered and shallow portions of Four Mile bay on Lake of the Woods. What's the sauger limit?

Coffee with Sugar, Please

With much interest will we be following the progress of Wednesday night's bout between middleweight champion Gene Fulmer and challenger Sugar Ray Robinson.

We made a slow wager, for some coffees, on the outcome, picking Sugar Ray to surprise the experts along East Third street and defeat Fulmer. Robinson didn't lose by much in the last fight, and he should have learned enough about Fulmer in that match to reverse the result on Wednesday.

The trend of the fight, though, could depend a great deal on the third man in the ring, the referee. (We're building our alibis in case Robinson loses, you understand.) Fulmer, of course, doesn't compare with Robinson as a boxer, and his followers do not make any such claims, but he, Fulmer, is an effective brawler. If the referee permits mauling and clubbing in the clinches, our man, Sugar Ray, may turn in a sour performance. Robinson is strictly a combination man, setting up his punches in a classic manner, but when his opponent doesn't rise to the feints and shifts, Ray has his troubles.

It's still coffee with sugar, though.

As an Opener, the Best

The Northern Minny league baseball schedule, after some minor revisions, was adopted at a league meeting held Friday night at McIntosh.

The league openers are slated for Sunday, May 26th, and will find Red Lake Falls playing at Thief River Falls, Bagley at Erskine, and Fosston at Winger.

If it had been arranged on purpose a more attractive opener could not have been made for the Thieves, meeting the Lakers on the Fair Grounds. The Lakers and the Thieves are traditional rivals, and they usually provide the fans with excellent and exciting baseball entertainment.

And there is an added attraction this year for Jack Poole has returned to manage the Lakers. Jack, you know, hasn't taken over the coaching reins of the Lakers to finish second or third or fourth or fifth or sixth in the league standings. Jack and his Lakers intend to take over that top rung.

Oh yes, at the opener here on May 26th, Jack will "welcome" all of his many friends." And we hear that Jack is in "good voice," too, for his throat has responded well to medical treatment.

Trap Shooters to Open '57 Schedule Thursday Evening

Six Teams to Compete This Season; Changes Made in Membership

League trap shooting will start Thursday of this week according to the schedule adopted by the organization committee, Erling Torgerson, secretary, announced today. There will be six teams again this year, he states, but there has been some shifting of membership in order to obtain greater equality and, it is hoped, tougher competition.

Team scores this year will be the total of the best five of seven shooters, these seven to be announced in advance by the team captains. In previous years these scores were the total of the best five of any number of shooters. To start the season each team will have eight members and this team membership may be increased as the season progresses, the door being open for new shooters.

The traps will be open for practice shooting Wednesday evening.

Following are the rosters of the six teams as they will start the season:

Pharmacy: Ole Ekeren, Dorn, Sagmoen, Ranum, Russ Embury, Steve Embury, Starekow, Rob. Ekern.

Wilson Bros.: Stan Wilson, Sandy Wilson, Roy Peterson, Tonder, Schantzen, Mittelstadt, Stewart, John Peterson.

Northern Chevrolet: Rinkel, Jorgenson, Brandt, Walt Anderson, Torgerson, Mackenroth, Jung, Granum.

Oen Appliance: Roy Oen, Mel Hyland, Orvis Olen, Gordon Olen, Wendt, Everett Amundgaard, Storhaug, Gilbertson.

Goodridge Ball Club Bows to Prowlers 5-0

In a remarkably well-played and fast game for a season-opener, coach Ralph Skjod's baseball Prowlers defeated coach Julian Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies, 5 to 0, on the Fair Grounds diamond here Friday afternoon. The game has been slated originally for the Goodridge diamond, but the playing field there proved unplayable and the game was shifted to the local field.

The Prowlers will engage in a double-header on Monday, playing the Alvarado Indians at Alvarado at 2:00 p.m.; and then make the short jog to Oslo for a game against Oslo at 5:00 p.m. The Prowlers next home game will be on Wednesday afternoon, May 1st, which the Warren Ponies invade the Fair Grounds diamond for a district conference tilt.

The Prowlers, playing under the direction of Dick Edlund who was handling the locals in the absence of Ralph Skjod, who was bedded by an attack of flu, scored in the first four innings of the seven-inning game, getting single tallies in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd frames, and pair of runs in the 4th inning.

Jerry Jorgenson opened the Prowler half of the 1st inning (righthander Bob Hallameck whiffed the three Goodridge batsmen that he faced in the top half inning), moved around to second and third on infield outs, and scored when Dean Bergland dribbled a slow roller down the third base line and was safe at first when catcher Al Wickstrom made a wild and hurried throw to first.

Hallameck concluded his two-inning stint by whiffing the side in the top of the 2nd inning. The Prowlers picked up another run in the 2nd inning when Mikey Hanson opened with a single, stole second, advanced to third on a wild pitch, and scored and Lee Johnson's sacrifice bunt.

Harlie Drees took over the hurling duties for the Prowlers in the 3rd inning, and the stocky righthander walked Wayne Paulson and Everett Johnson. Drees whiffed Ernie Breznay and Gene Hendrickson, and Dale Newton was retired on a ground ball to the mound, being out, pitch to first, to end the threat.

The Prowlers boosted the score to 3 to 0 when Keith Johnson opened with an infield hit, stole second, and advanced to third base on catcher Wickstrom's wide throw. Bob Hallameck struck out. Fred Dablow grounded out, pitcher to first, with Johnson tallying a run.

Goodridge's Gordy Hendrickson single through the infield to lead off in the top of the 4th inning, getting the lone hit that the Huskies garnered during the game. Wickstrom walked, sending Hendrickson to second base. Don Lokken struck out; Mike McNelly was retired on an infield out. Paulson was given a walk, loading the sacks, but pinchhitter Warren struck out.

Natural Disasters Invoke Red Cross Aid

Figures released by the Red Cross today reveal nature's mood to be more frenzied than docile during the spring of the year.

A study of the organization's disaster relief operations over a 4-year period disclosed that 80 percent of all weather-caused catastrophes occurred during the months of March through June.

In the supposedly placid springtime, 97 percent of all tornado operations took place, 71 percent of all flood operations and 62 percent of all other storm operations. The cost to the Red Cross of providing relief to victims during the four spring months of the years studied—1952 to 1955—totaled nearly $10,000,000, or an average of $2,500,000 a year.

The study noted that while March through June disasters may be more numerous, they are not necessarily the most costly. It gave as examples the fiscal years ending June 1955 and June 1956. In June 1955, the cost of disaster relief for the whole preceding fiscal year came to $7,166,500. In June 1956, with the floods of late summer and early winter, the total was $33,193,080 for the preceding fiscal year.

The analysis of the spring disaster costs was part of a review of expenditures on all Red Cross weather-caused relief operations. The analysis is helping in the study of the organization's critical financial condition. With the Red Cross fund campaign lagging seriously—only about 70 percent of its $95,000,000 fund goal was realized during the March 1957 campaign—chapters across the nation have been urged to continue their efforts through April in the hope that the needed amount will be reached.

In the four years studied, 117,000 families were affected by the spring disasters which struck in 41 states and Alaska, the Red Cross said. The death toll was put at 886 persons with 3,600 injured.

There was a total of 312 weather-caused disaster relief operations. The Red Cross gave emergency mass care to 225,000 persons and helped 2,000 families restore their way of life. The long-term aid ranged from replacing lost furniture to rebuilding homes and paying for medical expenses.

Tornadoes not only led the field in frequency, but also in cost and destruction. They killed 792, injured 3,000, destroyed more than 3,900 homes, and damaged 4,900 others. Red Cross relief operations that followed cost $5,650,000 to provide 71,000 persons with mass care and 7,640 families with rehabilitation assistance.

During the same period floods accounted for 88 deaths and 630 injuries. They destroyed 1,370 homes and damaged more than 4,200. To help the victims, the Red Cross spent $4,006,000 on mass care to over 150,000 persons and long-term aid to 15,600 families.

Other storm operations gave rehabilitation aid to 700 families at a cost of approximately $165,000.

Hardest hit by the weather-caused disasters was the Midwest, where 56 percent of all spring catastrophes occurred. The Southeast's portion was 25 percent, the East's was 16 percent, and the Pacific area's was 3 percent.

Music In Our Schools
By John K. Moum

Music (the Universal Language) is taught with the following six points being a prominent factor in its administration. 1. Poise and self-confidence; most effective method of gaining these important social attributes is to appear before other members of society in the role of entertainer. Music groups do this very frequently. 2. Emotional outlet; music is in its own right an emotional outlet much as painting, etc. Authorities recognize the therapeutic value of music and its emotional releases. 3. Teaches co-operation; musical organizations need complete unity to be able to perform effectively. The individual is completely dominated by the group. 4. Avocation; relaxing, restful recreation. 5. Vocation; the possibilities of using music to furnish your income are limitless. There are many ways. Playing, teaching and being manager of musical groups. 6. Just plain old fashioned fun.

Music instruction in our school is divided into two fields, vocal and instrumental. Instrumental is then divided into two groups, strings and the wind instruments. In order to have an effective music program it is necessary to have specialists teaching in these fields. Music is fun, but, in order to do and enjoy doing a good job it must be done well.

Extensive training is a must. To bring your youngsters this training we have a music faculty of four teachers. Miss Runge and Mr. Ulseth in vocal, Mr. Solsten and myself in instrumental. Miss Runge teaches and supervises the elementary grades, directs grade school choir and flutophone groups. Mr. Ulseth teaches seventh and eighth grade music and directs junior high vocal groups. In addition to this, he is the director of the high school concert choir.

Mr. Solsten, who heads the string program and the grade school instrumental, also directs the symphony orchestra. I have all of the instrumental (wind instruments) in the junior high and high school. In addition, I direct the junior high band and the high school concert band.

Every student in the Thief River Falls School system has the opportunity to study music. Lessons are free, vocal and instrumental. The only cost to the student is the purchase of instruments. The giving of private part of our music program.

At this point we will divide the article into three sections. Vocal will be discussed by Mr. Ulseth; Mr. Solsten will discuss orchestra, and I will write on bands.

Band
By John K. Moum

At the present time we have five bands in our school system: Three grade bands, junior high school band and the high school concert band. These bands all operate on the same principle, that of bringing as much music to as many youngsters as possible.

The high school concert band has ninety members who meet every day. The concert band is the elite of the bands in that all the preparation done previous to becoming a member is done to make it a better group. There is competition as to who will play. We have tryouts and certain requirements must be met. The Concert Band plays for all athletic functions, pep fests, and exchange concerts with other school bands in addition to playing for civic functions of the city.

Junior high band is a feeder unit for the concert band. When youngsters have played in the grade school bands prior to coming to Lincoln they are enrolled in the junior high band. They play in this organization until they are freshmen, then if they are proficient enough on their respective instruments, they try-out for the concert band. The junior high band meets daily and is operated in much the same way as the concert band is.

Grade school band are being handled like the older bands. They rehearse as a group; that is, their lessons are on a class basis. This method gives the element of competition a chance to work, and makes the youngsters work much harder than the older private lesson system. Private lessons are given to those who need them.

Band is a fascinating experience for the students and the director. Watching youngsters learn to play an instrument is both interesting and satisfying. Developing musicians is a very gratifying life's work.

Orchestra
By James A. Solsten

Stringed instruments, the instruments of the modern orchestra, are among the oldest instruments upon which man has made music. In the orchestra the pinnacles of human artistic expression are reached through music. All of the great composers write for the orchestra; composers of the classics, romantic and modern eras have used the orchestra as a vehicle for their profound expressions. The orchestra includes, besides stringed instruments, all of the instruments of the wind band and is therefore capable of the technical and interpretive demands of man's finest musical efforts. The strings of course carry the greatest burden.

Possibly the foremost effect of string instrument study is that one ultimately learns to play the instrument. The satisfaction of being able to produce sounds pleasing to the ear is a result well worth the effort of study. Only one who has reached such a goal can fully realize that such a statement, as the first sentence of this paragraph, goes much deeper that it's seemingly apparent simplicity.

There are other results from stringed instrument study. Contact with the world's great music has already been mentioned. Another aspect is the social. Ability to perform is a mark of distinction, a distinction which crumbles pseudo-social barriers and brings opportunity to make new friendships and satisfying experiences. Because of the nature of strings, a capable player is always welcome among groups of players; more voices increase the beauty of the result.

Teamwork is also essential because one can neither pass the buck without everyone's knowledge nor assume self importance since each instrument plays only a part. It is felt that it requires perseverance, intelligence, an inward warmth of sensitivity and a positive character to play a stringed instrument. These qualities may be inborn or can be developed to a considerable degree. Either way, the string player has them. It also takes time and effort to learn and, therefore one can be certain a fine string player is no loafer. Perhaps all of these reasons explain why a schooled string player is accepted socially.

Active participation on a stringed instrument is one of the best and most thorough routes to a cultural understanding of good music. Even if one never played beyond school, which is unlikely if one reached any degree of mastery, an understanding and appreciation of good music is gained, which can never result from hearing music or reading about it.

Personality, someone has said, is the sum total of one's natural powers by inheritance plus everything, good or bad, that has happened to him since birth. String study requires careful study, analysis and drill. The student finds himself growing in musical sensitivity and also developing "patience in the pursuit of a musical ideal." Musical associations exert a continuous influence along many channels of personality development for those participating.

There are physical effects too. Emotions are developed through contact with much musical material. The ear and the eye become sensitive as does the muscular system. The mind too has little oportunity to become dulled through lack of use.

There are professional possibilities too for those who are interested in performing or teaching. Here one's income depends upon ability as in most any profession. Of course competition is stiff, yet it seems there is always room at the top.

The study of stringed instruments also has much potential as a hobby. Besides playing, the study of the design and construction history of the instruments and also the repair and construction of them are among the many fascinating possibilities.

From the standpoint of musical merit and other life long values, the stringed instruments hold an indisputably high position. In the school music program our goal is to develop any or all of the above mentioned effects to the highest degree possible.

Vocal Music
By Bryant Ulseth

The vocal music program is divided into two parts: the voluntary participation groups and the junior high school music classes.

The voluntary groups include the boys and girls glee clubs in both junior and senior high school, the mixed chorus and small ensembles. The glee clubs are primarily training groups where proper vocal habits are formed. The mixed chorus is the concert organization which performs for school activities and engages in exchange concerts with other schools. A more technical study can be given to voice production and interpretation in the concert choir. Only students who desire to sing and who qualify in ability may join these groups.

Seventh and eighth grade students are required to take one semester of music each year. These classes branch out into many activities. These include singing, study and identification of instruments and their sounds, introduction to music history and record listening.

One of the primary objectives of the junior high class is to guide the student through that period of his life when music participation is not a particularly desired activity. Generally speaking, the elementary student enjoys music a great deal. However, in junior high school years, the boys voice begins to change. He loses confidence in his voice and becomes quite self concious of it. Perhaps this is a primary reason why the boys develop an attitude that music is something to be left to the girls. The boy with the changing voice can be guided and encouraged through this stage of development towards a happy regard for music and its many avenues of fun and expression.

The results of a successful vocal program in the schools is evident in the highly technical and proficient choral groups in our country. The program not only encourages professional groups but it also encourages participation in church and civic choirs. This is progress towards one of the chief goals . . . a singing community.

Competition for 1957 Graduates of Colleges Is Brisk

Salary Offers Are up $20 to $40 a Month This Year Compared to 1956

Earlier, faster and more furious than last year—this describes employer competition for the services of college graduates of 1957. Fantastic aspects of the spring job market are summed up in a preliminary bulletin from the 22nd annual survey of U. S. college placements, now under way by Northwestern National Life Insurance company:

On many campuses, the number of employing firms represented is greater than the number of seniors available for employment.

Various corporations are now trying to set up campus interviewing schedules for the next five years—up to and including the class of June, 1962.

Employment scouts are so numerous that some school have been hiring hotel facilities for group interviews—to supplement the schools' once-ample interview rooms. Columbia University, for example, has used an average of ten to twelve supplementary hotel rooms a day this spring.

Salary offers are up $20 to $40 a month over last year's record figures, and are edging still higher as commencement time nears. Engineers will start work in a prevailing range of from $400 to $525 a month, from present indications. Business and liberal arts men will average substantially less than technical people, but their offers, too, are up from those of 1956, right across the board.

Old Fashioned Ideas

I do not despise genius—indeed I wish I had a basketful of it instead of a brain, but yet, after a great deal of experience and observation, I have become convinced that industry is a better horse to ride than genius. It may never carry any one man as far as genius has carried individuals, but industry—patient, steady, intelligent industry—will carry thousands into comfort, and even into celebrity, and this it does with absolute certainty; wheras genius often refuses to be tamed and managed, and often goes with wretched morals. If you are to wish for either, wish for industry.

—Julian Ralph

Noon Now at Eleven

If there must be a legal tinkering with the clocks to induce some people to rise an hour earlier in the morning then it is well that it be on a statewide basis. Better yet, in the interests of orderly procedure, that we follow a national schedule and have uniformity throughout the states.

But if we are going to decree that the sun reaches its meridian height at eleven o'clock in the morning during the summer months then we can see no good reason for having noon a twelve o'clock in winter. It is during the winter months when we are really short of daylight up here in our country.

And while we are fooling ourselves we think Norm Holen's idea deserves serious consideration. Our winters would be much more agreeable if they were ten degrees warmer. What's wrong with his proposal that the freezing point of water during the winter months be established at 42 degrees and the Fahrenheit scale be adjusted accordingly.

A Growing Pain

Members of the Council have discovered the unpleasant fact that our power distributing facilities are in urgent need of improvement,and that the improvements are going to be costly. Present equipment, installed in 1941, when the peak load was not much greater than 1,000 kilowatts, is now dangerously overloaded according to engineers.

That is understandable. The peak last year was 3,750 kilowatts and it is anticipated that in another five years it will be close to 6,000 kilowatts. Installation of equipment of adequate capacity is an immediate must.

Changes that will have to be made to bring in Missouri River power and to increase the capacity of the distribution system are expected to cost from 150 to 160 thousand dollars. It so happens that it adds up to about the same as this year's planned debt retirement, for which ample provision has been made.

We therefore will be able to make these needed improvements without going further into debt, and that is something to be cheerful about. It is an expenditure that can properly be charged to our growth, and we of course plan to keep right on growing.

Off to a Bad Start

Reports of an unexpectedly big soil bank signup were based on a last minute rush here in Minnesota. Our state was one of the exceptions however, and the facts now indicate that nationally, the participation is far from satisfactory.

This means that the program is off to a bad start, and in its first year the results will fall far short of the hoped-for goal. On the basis of present participation it cannot accomplish its purpose. It may be assumed therefore that a satisfactory solution for the surplus problem has not yet been found.

Secretary of agriculture Benson, the whipping boy for administration critics, will of course be blamed for this failure, but discrediting Benson is not in itself going to improve the markets for our farm products. The real responsibility for what we have, the good and the bad, rests with our farm organizations. The discouraging thing is the fact that farmers are hopelessly divided and there seem to be no leaders big enough to bring them together.

This is evident even in the dairy industry, where the interests of all producers are closely related. But the industry is divided into many little kingdoms, and at the head of each little kingdom there is a monarch who prefers not to be disturbed. Benson has tried by all the means within his power to get these little leaders to move in one direction, to unite behind a plan of their own choosing. But they will not budge.

And there is little hope of anything constructive coming out of Congress. The recent refusal of Congress to go along with the corn belt farmers is a fair example of the ineffectiveness of the farm leadership in this field. In the national law making body agriculture is a minority interest and only with united leadership will any farm program find favor.

Congress makes the laws. Whoever happens to be the secretary of agriculture has the responsibility of administering the laws as they are written. In fairness o Benson it must be admitted that much of his difficulty is due to the unwise laws that not only created the problems but have tended to perpetuate them.

Needed Authority

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

In all the congressional discussion about federal economy and cutting the budget, one exceedingly simple and effective method of triming unnecessary expenditures has been ignored.

This is to give the president authority to veto individual items in an appropriation bill without killing the entire bill. Minnesota's state constitution guarantees the govenor this power of item veto. Most other state govenors also have it. But the president of the United States cannot eliminate even obvious examples of waste in an appropriation measure.

In his letter to Speaker Rayburn last week President Eisenhower included the item veto as one of the measures which Congress could take if it is sincerely anxious to make all this talk about economy amount to something substantial.

Congress clearly should give the president the authority he now lacks and has asked for.

We know a man who finds it necessary to take a tranquillizer pill some time during his over-active day. When it becomes necessary to speed up again, he swallows another pill, this time an energizer, followed as soon as possible by an equalizer—in this case, a quick drink of rye. He finishes, or finalizes, his day with a shot of brandy, or, stabilizer. Then re-tranquillized, re-energized, and restabilized, he totters off in a state of uneasy equilibrium to bed.

Dateline Rome

It is a strange and wonderful experience to fly in a little over ten hours from the banks of the Potomac in Washington—the center of power in the world today—to the banks of the Tiber where Rome twenty centuries ago was the power of the ancient Mediterranean world. Here in Rome and Naples today are the NATO commanders with the heavy responsibilities of defending the Free World in southern Europe and the Middle East. This weekend, before flying on into the center of dissension and confusion which is the Middle East, I hope to find the answers to many technical questions involving the security of this vital area.

Commitments and Capabilities

We have commitments to friendly nations around the world—treaties and agreements and pacts which have put us on record to come to their defense in the event of Soviet aggression. In the Mediterranean area, not only have we firm commitments to our NATO allies in southern Europe—to Italy, Greece, and Turkey, but we also have a new commitment to the nations of the so-called Baghdad Pact—Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, and Turkey. Turkey is also covered by our NATO commitment and Pakistan by SEATO. In addition, under the vague and uncertain program known as the Eisenhower Doctrine, we are apparently in the process of making new commitments to Arab nations not covered by previous formal agreements. Complicating this already complicated picture is the startling news of Britain's "new look" in defense spending, involving a severe cutback in her "conventional" armed services and increasing reliance on nuclear weapons and missiles. For over a generation, British ships and British infantry have been present in the Middle East to back up the extensive British commitments which we have now so largely taken over. A very large question indeed is whether the United States has the present military capabilities in the Mediterranean area to back up our commitments. That is why my first stop on this information-gathering swing through the Mediterranean area is at the Rome and Naples headquarters to discuss with the NATO Commander for Southern Europe, and with Commander of the Navy's Sixth Fleet of ships and Marines, the question of whether we have enough men and "hardware" to back up our foreign policy in this area.

Some Pointed Questions

There are many vital questions involved within the broader question of whether we are physically prepared to back up our friends in the Medditerranean area. For example, how much can we rely on the UN emergency force? How much actual help could we get from the British and the French forces in the area? What effect does Egyptian control of the Suez Canal have upon our defense plans in the Middle East? These and many more questions demand realistic answers, if we are to develop a sound and workable policy in the Middle East.

Military Forces Aren't Everything

Following my conferences with the military commanders this weekend, I shall be on my way to the Middle East itself to talk with leaders of both Arabs and Israelis, and to explore with these leaders ideas for positive American assistance to remove the danger of new Arab-Israeli warfare. Economic and social considerations in the long run will be decisive in the Middle East. Our military forces and those of our allies are only the shield which can permit us to go to work in a constructive way to help build a stable and durable relationship among the peoples of this tense and critical area. I am particularly interested in exploring next week the proposal I made last year at the United Nations for a Middle East Development Authority—a regional approach to the severe economic problems of the area which would join Mideastern ideas and resources with Western assistance.

4-H Selects Entrants for Good Grooming Contest

The monthly meeting of the Mavie 4-H Club was held at the Bornholdt home Wednesday evening, April 17. Good grooming contestants were picked as follows: Younger girls, Kathy Svendsgaard; older girls, Shirley Oski; younger boys, Donald Hanson; older boys, Ernest Breznay. Demonstrations were given by Ellen Fulton on "Making a Quick Cookie," and by Susan Bornholdt on "Setting the Table." For the program the Mavie play cast gave their play, "Papa Said No" and also played the musical combs. Donnie Hanson and Shirley Oski sang a duet.

An entry was picked to compete in the music for the play and music contest this week. Shirley Oski and Donnie Hanson will sing a duet accompanied by Bill Svendsgaard on the clarinet.

All members are asked to bring their completed health records to the May meeting; or if they need help the leaders will be glad to give them assistance.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Fulton and Mrs. Bornholdt.

Viking Turkey Grower's Flock Makes Fast Gains

A small portion of the 5000-bird turkey flock at the Harold Kagg turkey ranch at Viking clusters by the fence as one of the Kagg employees, Elling Waagedahl, views the progress the birds have made since they were hatched March 6. Weather conditions have been more favorable for the turkey growers in the area this spring and the young toms show excellent growth at their age, Waagedahl said. The birds are presently about the size of a full-grown Leghorn chicken or larger. These are all toms but later Kagg will take delivery on a shipment of hens from the late hatch.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

I write this column during the closing hours of the 1957 legislature session. Matters of importance in which I am deeply concerned are as yet undetermined. The clocks in the legislative halls are ticking off the last remaining minutes of a session limited to 90 days. Legislators, state officials, and even lobbyists, are tired. The pressure of work bears down more heavily because of the weariness, and because of the limited time left. Yet delegations of legislators and lobbyists continue up to the the last minute to press their requests.

Hundreds of Bills

As governor, I must make important and difficult decisions. Hundreds of bills come down for signature in these last few days. Some are of major significance. Others may be of a minor nature, or may refer to special localities or private matters. But all must be carefully checked and their implications understood before I can add my signature.

Covering the Clock

Another decision which legislators, and the governor as well, must face relates to the rigidity with which the midnight deadline ought to be observed. Our century-old constitution limits the legislative session to 90 days—a limitation which may have been less of a handicap in those early years when state government was less complicated. It constitutes a serious handicap now, and should be removed by constitutional amendment.

But tonight I must face the fact that the 90-day limitation does exist as of now. I could, by refusing to sign any bills that were in fact passed after the midnight deadline, force the legislature to observe the letter of the law. I know, however, that for more than a generation governors of Minnesota have accepted the custom adopted by the legislature of covering the clock before the deadline arrives, and thus accepting as valid acts taken by the legislature after that time.

Letter of the Law

Observance of the letter of the law could negate 90 days of hard work by members of the legislature, and cause the loss of legislation necessary and valuable to the people of Minnesota. It could necessitate the expense of a special session. Observance of the time-honored custom of covering the clock may be the only method available to avoid these serious consequences.

After careful consideration I have decided that I would be neglecting the best interests of the people of Minnesota if I should refuse to accept necessary and important legislation because the legislature was unable to fulfill the work necessary for its final passage until after the midnight deadline.

Governor's Clock Uncovered

The governor, however, cannot cover his clock, and all bills must be signed by Monday night, April 29th, if they are to become law. If necessary legislation cannot be completed by that time, a special session is the only way by which it can be accomplished.

At the time of this writing I am hopeful that the legislature will be able to complete its work before that time.

Democratic Government

In spite of the many problems, frustrations, difficulties, and imperfections in our legislative process, the democratic form under which we operate is the best form of government human experience has developed. Its forms can be modernized and its procedure improved. And the greatest single factor which would contribute to its improvement would be increasing interesting, understanding, and participation on the part of voters and citizens. It is your government.

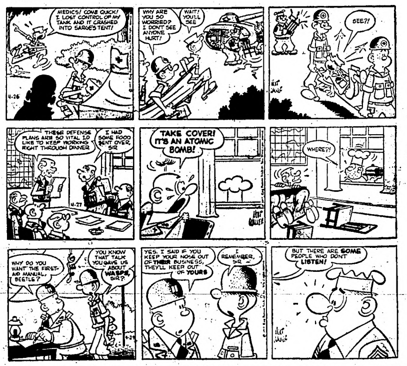
BEETLE BAILEY

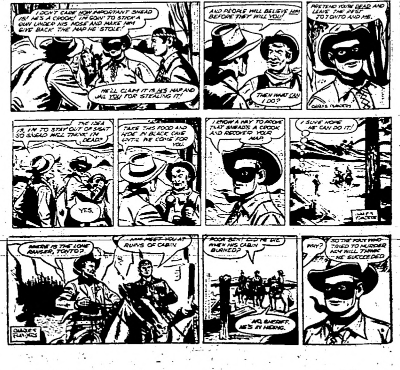
By Mort Walker



MEDICS! COME QUICK! I LOST CONTROL OF MY TANK AND IT CRASHED INTO SARGE'S TENT!
WHY ARE YOU SO WORRIED? I DON'T SEE ANYONE HURT!
WAIT! YOU'LL SEE
SEE?!
THESE DEFENSE PLANS ARE SO VITAL I'D LIKE TO KEEP WORKING RIGHT THROUGH DINNER
I HAD SOME FOOD SENT OVER, SIR
TAKE COVER! IT'S AN ATOMIC BOMB!
WHERE?!
WHY DO YOU WANT THE FIRST-AID MANUAL, BEETLE?
YOU KNOW THAT TALK YOU GAVE US ABOUT WASPS, SIR?
YES. I SAID IF YOU KEEP YOUR NOSE OUT OF THEIR BUSINESS, THEY'LL KEEP OUT OF YOURS
I REMEMBER, SIR
BUT THERE ARE SOME PEOPLE WHO DON'T LISTEN!

THE LONE RANGER

By Fran Striker



I DON'T CARE HOW IMPORTANT SNEAD IS! HE'S A CROOK! I'M GOIN' TO STICK A GUN UNDER HIS NOSE AND MAKE HIM GIVE BACK THE MAP HE STOLE!
HE'LL CLAIM IT IS HIS MAP AND JAIL YOU FOR STEALING IT!
AND PEOPLE WILL BELIEVE HIM BEFORE THEY WILL YOU!
THEN WHAT CAN I DO?
PRETEND YOU'RE DEAD AND LEAVE THE REST TO TONTO AND ME.
THE IDEA IS, I'M TO STAY OUT OF SIGHT SO SNEAD WILL THINK I'M DEAD?
YES.
TAKE THIS FOOD AND HIDE IN BLACK CAVE UNTIL WE COME FOR YOU.
I KNOW A WAY TO PROVE THAT SNEAD'S A CROOK AND RECOVER YOUR MAP.
I SURE HOPE HE CAN DO IT!
WHERE IS THE LONE RANGER, TONTO?
HIM MEET YOU AT RUINS OF CABIN.
POOR BEN! DID HE DIE WHEN HIS CABIN BURNED?
NO, SHERIFF. HE'S IN HIDING.
WHY?
SO THE MAN WHO TRIED TO MURDER HIM WILL THINK HE SUCCEEDED.

BETTER LIVING IS THIS YEAR'S OBJECTIVE

Begin with a Good Plan to Get Best Results When Landscaping

Good landscaping of the home grounds starts with a good plan. The simplest way for most people is to have a local landscape nurseryman lay out a very simple planting design. Then all the home owner has to do is order the plants recommended and have them set on the ground in their proped locations where he can plant them himself according to directions.

To help you in deciding, there are several things your landscaping should accomplish: (1) you should have a center of interest; (2) you want to create a beautiful picture both outside and from within the house as you look out, and (3) house and sky and earth should be tied together in a way to give pleasure to everyone. Other things your landscaping should provide are privacy, beautiful flowers and foliage all year around, as well as a certain amount of home fruit.

Plant Groupings

Groupings of plants often add to the attractiveness of the picture as a whole. If you have a one-story house, low-growing trees and shrubs are preferable.

Your center of interest may be a beautiful tree. Do not place it in the center of the lawn, which usually is better left open to grass.

Along the street, you may have groupings of trees or tall shrubs at the corners of the property. They may be tied together with low-growing plants, or a hedge. Lower growing shrubs will soften an abrupt change from lawn to tree, if planted around the tree.

Don't overplant. Allow for the growth of trees and shrubs. Do not plant them too thickly unless you wish immediate effect and intend to thin them out in a few years. Planting in gentle curves is better than in straight lines.

Foundation Plantings

In relation to the foundation planting, you desire first to frame the home. A low tree, surrounded by a group of shrubs often is attractive at each corner, tied together by low, spreading evergreens and low flowering plants at the base of the house.

Flowering shrubs have the added advantage of supplying cut flowers for the home. Roses and similar plants not only blend well but serve that purpose. A living fence of floribunda roses may make a striking property division line.

Small Garden Adds Much Beauty

You don't need wide expanses of garden to add a refreshing touch of beauty to your property. Beside a wall, or against the house, you can interplant pansies with other flowers, perhaps tucking in a few stately tulips from Holland next fall to complete a picture that will delight the eye with its bright colors and quiet charm.

Homes Now Need More Housepower

Today, millions of American home owners are concentrating on modernizing their homes. One of their chief considerations is whether they have full HOUSEPOWER to operate their many electrical appliances.

The kitchen, breakfast-room and laundry areas are prominently featured in relation to the rest of the home, when the subject of wiring is under consideration. For it is in these areas that the housewife does a great deal of her work and in which a majority of the major electrical appliances and small portable appliances are concentrated.

It is a simple matter to get a HOUSEPOWER rating, in order to find out if your home is adequately wired. Unless the wiring is up-to-date, you cannot expect to operate your shiny, modern appliances conveniently and efficiently.

Eighty per cent of the homes in the United States are currently putting a modern electrical load on a wiring system designed for 1930. This means that home owners in 4 out of 5 homes have invested in electrical appliances in order to enjoy modern living, but that they cannot get the service from their electrical appliances which they have the right to expect.

Electrical contractors are aware of the need for better home wiring, and most of them will render a free estimate. If you do not have the wiring which your appliances require, your electrical contractor can make out a HOUSEPOWER rating form which will give you a composite story: (1) it will show which of your appliances your present wiring accommodates, (2) it will indicate, by the check list nature of the survey, that you will be able to operate all of your appliances after he has made proper installation of adequate wiring for full HOUSEPOWER.

You may not have all of the following electrical appliances, but these are the requirements for the various types of electrical equipment currently found in modern homes in the kitchen and breakfast-room and laundry.

For the kitchen: (1) Your range requires three No. 6 wires on a separate circuit; (2) Your dishwasher and your waste disposal unit each require separate circuits with two No. 12 wires; (3) Your small kitchen appliances (like your toaster, broiler, electric percolator, electric frying pan, etc.) are all serviced by a kitchen appliance circuit consisting of three No. 12 wires. The connection is made through split-wired receptacles.

(4) Your refrigerator and freezer require two No. 12 wires. Your kitchen clock and ventilating fan are installed on the same circuit with your kitchen and laundry lighting.

For the laundry area, if you have adequate wiring: (1) Your water heater requires a separate circuit which is supplied power by three No. 10 wires or four No. 12 wires, depending upon your utility company's rules; (2) Your automatic washer requires a separate circuit consisting of two No. 12 wires; (3) Your clothes dryer should receive power from a separate circuit of No. 10 wire if "standard" type or No. 6 if "high-speed" type; (4) Your ironer and hand iron are supplied power from your kitchen appliance circuit; (5) Current for the lighting in the laundry is supplied by the general lighting circuit.

Over the breakfast room table, a convenience outlet which is supplied power by the kitchen appliance circuit, provides a place to plug in the various appliances used in this room.

Right Tools Essential to Gardening

Only a relatively few good tools, suprisingly enough, are essential for successful gardening, according to the National Retail Hardware Association.

A spade, a rake, a hoe and a trowel will do most of the jobs required by the run-of-the-mill amateur gardener. They should feel good to the gardener and should be of a weight and size equal to the strength of the user. Women should select smaller and lighter tools.

A round-nose spade with a D-handle is the best tool for turnover hard soil or for spreading fertilizer. A long-handled spade will facilitate the digging of deep holes or turning over large chunks of soil.

One of the most versatile tools for a small garden is an ordinary hoe. Weeding, cultivating and seeding can be done with the one tool. Furrows can be opened by tilting the hoe at an angle. The same hoe will cover the seeds and tamp them. For close work, in crowded areas, a small hand scratcher is helpful.

A steel rake is best for most heavy gardening. However, one must use a steel rake with care to avoid uprooting tender plants and grass. Many gardeners do their lawn-raking with a bamboo or rubber rake.

A trowel is a handy tool for digging up seedlings and small plants and for puttering and small digging. The best trowel is the one-piece, stainless-steel variety, with a wooden handle covering a steel shank. The size and shape of the trowel should be carefully selected to fit the gardener's hand.

Once these basic tools have been purchased, the amateur gardener should add others as he needs them. Most gardeners possess a pruning shears, a hose, a grass clipper, a watering can and a wheelbarrow. These should be selected, again, with an eye to quality and convenience.

All tools should be cleaned after each use.

New Appliances Bring Greater Convenience, Efficiency into Home

The "push button era" is not only burgeoning in today's industry and business, but is advancing with giant strides into the realm of the home (to the infinite satisfaction of the homemaker.)

The major objective here is much the same as in factory and office: to conserve time and energy, so that both may be devoted to more constructive activities. The end result, in the home, is that life is made easier, more comfortable, more enjoyable for everybody.

Everywhere in every way more and more families are "living better" electrically.

Mother in her kitchen with its multiplicity of work-saving, time-saving appliances, Dad in his electrically powered home workshop, the youngsters viewing their favorite TV program, the whole family enjoying the comfort of air conditioning, all are benefitting directly from the manifold contributions to better living which have been made by the electrical industry.

Wealth of Designs

Buyers of new electrical appliances in 1957 will have a wealth of new designs to choose from. Some manufacturers have gone in for a "straight line" look which not only presents a sleeker appearance but also permits appliances to be placed flush with walls or under cabinets for an "out of the way" built-in effect.

Several types of freezers are on the market to answer every family's space requirement. Upright, chest, wall-hung and drawer-type models are available. One upright freezer on the market holding up to 640 pounds of food, stores and displays contents like books on a shelf.

New Electric Ranges

Electric ranges now come with many new convenience features—such as ovens equipped with rotisseries; "vertical" broilers which broil both sides of the meat at once, surface units that fold back into the wall when not in use; ovens that can be raised or lowered like an elevator and thus do away with stooping.

Standing watch over cooking is no longer necessary. The automatic thermostat controls which, years ago, revolutionized baking, are now standard for surface cooking units. The housewife who owns an electric range equipped with automatic surface unit controls simply puts the pan on the cooking surface and touches a button or sets a dial for controlled-heat cooking that assures finest results without constant watching.

Refrigerator Innovations

There are remarkable innovations too in electric refrigerators—such as models which are installed on the wall and sectional models where the refrigerator and freezer section, in seperate units, may be installed waist-high at counter level, mounted atop each other or beneath a work surface. A "free-standing" unit is also available which can be used as a room divider, recessed in an alcove or placed against a wall. In addition, electric refrigerators now offer sliding and turning shelves for easy access to foods, built-in water and fruit-juice dispensers and many other conveniences.

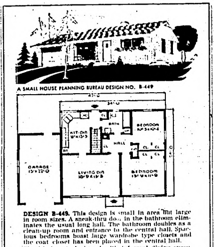
Dishwashers now come in a number of loading types—top opening, front opening or pull out. For the apartment dweller or home renter, portable or mobile styles are available, require no special plumbing or installation. These also can be permanently installed if later desired.

School-age children "eat up" fresh clothes. The new electric washer-dryer combinations which wash, rinse and fluff-dry in one continuous operation make washdays a snap. Some even choose the correct amount of water necessary to wash each load efficiently. Matched washers and dryers can be placed side by side to give added counter top working space in the kitchen, or stacked one on top of the other to conserve floor space.

Kitchen "Power Centers"

Increased use of small electrical helpers and the resulting heavy electrical loads have taken kitchen "power centers" out-of-the luxury category. They are usually wired for 220-240 volts and are equipped with up to three pullout cords and two convenience outlets—all of which can be used at once. They can be had with an automatic timer so that appliances connected to them can be turned on and off automatically.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. B-449



DESIGN B-449. This design is small in area but large in room sizes. A sneak-thru door in the bathroom eliminates the usual long hall. The bathroom doubles as a clean-up room and entrance to the central hall. Spacious bedrooms boast large wardrobe type closets and the coat closet has been placed in the central hall.

The kitchen is L-shaped with informal dining space, a broom closet and corner sink with corner windows that overlook the rear yard. The attached garage can be omitted very easily if lot is not wide enough. A "little different" look is achieved on the exterior by the use of wide V-joint vertical siding, plywood gable ends and casement type windows. Floor area is 952 square feet, cubage is 17,612 cubic feet (excluding garage.)

For further information about DESIGN B-449, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Proper Care Keeps Lawns At Their Best

Best way to keep a good lawn good is to feed it twice a year—in the Spring, and in the Fall. Here are four simple rules to follow for best results at least cost:

(1) Feeding: When the grass is dry, broadcast a plant food specially formulated for lawns, 2 lbs. to each 100 sq. ft. Water the lawn immediately after applying fertilizer.

(2) Watering: During late Spring and early Summer, never water the lawn until absolutely necessary, then give it a good soaking to a depth of 4 to 5 inches. Too frequent and light waterings cause shallow rooting and weaken the grass.

(3) Mowing: Do not clip too close. Use a sharp mower and adjust so as to cut at least 1½ inches above the ground.

(4) Liming: Apply finely ground limestone every three years or so—5 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. If soil is sandy, apply 3lbs. per 100 sq. ft.

Repair Outdoor Furniture for Beauty and Protection

The approach of the "outdoor living" season suggests repainting or refinishing garden, porch, picnic or lawn furniture. These jobs differ from most paint projects, in that weather resistance becomes a most important factor.

Picnic style furniture is bound to have knots and cracks which are part of the rustic effect. These cracks and deep scratches should be filled with putty, plastic wood or stick shellac and allowed to dry overnight. Be sure to apply generously to allow for shrinkage when it dries. Always sand to remove any excess.

If you are working with old wood furniture, remove the old paint where it is chipped or peeled. Use steel wool, sandpaper or paint remover.

For a sealer, use aluminum paint on all patch spots and knots to hold back stains from resin or sap in knots.

Use of generous coat of gloss or semi-gloss or good exterior enamel for most wood surfaces. To protect wood against moisture, be sure to paint all edges, ends and underside surfaces.

Outdoor furniture should receive at least two coats of paint, preferably three. A 24-hour drying period should be allowed between coats. Before adding each additional coat, sand lightly to provide the proper bite. For additional weather insurance, finish with a thin covering of spar varnish.

When working with redwood furniture, do not use aluminum primer for knots. Fill cracks and cuts, sand lightly, then apply two coats of redwood sealer-satin. A final coat of spar varnish should be applied instead of enamel.

With metal furniture, start by rubbing the surfaces with steel wool to remove any rust or scales. Next wash with soap and water. Be sure metal is thoroughly dry before painting.

All surfaces, including the undersides, should receive a coat of metal protective primer. Allow a 48-hour drying period. Next apply two coats of the same exterior enamel as used in wood furniture, allowing 24 hours between coats.

Seven-Step Plan Builds Good Lawn

Here is a tested 7-step method for building a lawn:

(1) Soil Preparation: Dig up or rototill the top soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches. Then pulverize the soil with a sharp rake, removing all stones and debris. If soil is poor, apply 2 or 3 inches of humus or peat moss.

(2) Plant Food: Next, apply a complete lawn fertilizer, one which is specially formulated for this purpose. Apply 30 to 40 lbs. per 1000 sq. ft., distributing evenly by hand or with spreader.

(3) Seed Bed: With spade or rototiller, turn under the humus, lime and fertilizer. Rake thoroughly to form a level, mellow seed bed, then roll.

(4) Seeding: Use only the best quality seed and be sure it is suited to your soil, climate and growing conditions. Apply 3 to 5 lbs. per 1000 sq. ft., sowing half in one direction, the other half at right angles.

(5) Compacting: After seeding, rake lightly so as to cover seed not more than one-eighth inch. Then roll, to bring the seed in contact with the soil.

(6) Watering: After rolling, water with a fine spray daily, or oftener, if the lawn shows signs of drying out.

(7) Mowing: While the lawn is young, do not cut it shorter than 2 inches. Once established, maintain grass at a height of 1½ inches.

To perk up a run-down lawn, take these simple steps:

(1) Rake off dead grass, weeds and leaves.

(2) Rake or dig up bare spots, apply lime, if needed; add some humus, and apply a complete plant food specially formulated for lawns, at the rate of 3 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. Fill in all depressions to make a level surface. Rake, then roll, to assure a good, firm seed bed.

(3) Use best quality seed and sow evenly. Rake in gently, covering seed with thin layer of soil.

(4) Roll lightly to bring seed in close contact with soil and to level out humps and low spots.

Two sides of a post card advertisement indicate that Wylie, west of St. Hilaire, was once a hustling business center. Lowell Hawkinson of Bray township is the owner of the card that was mailed to his mother, Mrs. Harry Hawkinson, in April of 1912.

Interest in the now deserted village was aroused a few weeks ago when the sale of the farmers elevator, the last remaining building, was announced. The street scene pictured above faced the elevators and the railroad station of the now abandoned road that originally ran from Crookston, through Dorothy and Wylie, to St. Hilaire.

The printed message on the back of the post card indicates that printers had proof reading troubles in those days too.

Dairy Princess Candidates to Be Picked Soon

Pennington Co. to Name Its Aspirant Saturday, May 25th

Groundwork for the selection of a Pennington county Dairy Princess and her two attendants who will compete for the Northwest Dairy Princess title here on Dairy Day, June 11, was started Tuesday evening when the county princess contest committee met at the Rex cafe.

Members of the committee are Harry Rishworth, Margery Olsen, Cliff Zaffke and V. M. Draper. The committee decided that entrants will appear before contest judges in dressy cottons instead of formals as was done last year.

A Dairy Princess publicity campaign will be conducted between now and May 25, when a princess and her attendants will be chosen after a noon luncheon at the Rex Cafe, when the judges will have the opportunity to meet and talk with the contestants before actual judging begins, Draper, committee chairman, said.

It is expected there will be a reduced field of contestants from which the princess and her attendants will be picked. A change in the rules makes it mandatory that each girl's parents be operating a dairy farm within Pennington county, thus eliminating many girls who have been eligible to compete in earlier contests.

County 4-H clubs will also compete with each other in the effort to have their candidates chosen a princess or attendant Dairy Day. Each club may enter one or more girls in the competition, and a club whose entrant is chosen Northwest Dairy Princess or one of her attendants will receive a cash prize. Miss [illegible]

Meanwhile, a search for eligible contestants will be vigorously conducted in the county and anyone who knows of an attractive girl who meets all the qualifications is urged to contact members of the county Dairy Princess committee.

Plan Convention of Horticultural Society Aug. 15-16

Committees Appointed by Local Garden Clubs to Arrange for Program

Preliminary plans for the annual convention of the Minnesota State Horticultural society, to be held in Thief River Falls August 15 and 16, were developed last week at meetings of the executive board of the Thief River Falls Garden club.

The group met Tuesday night with members of the boards of the Sow and Hoe and Campanula clubs at the J. P. Rosengren home; and met Friday evening with the Wabagensin club at the L. R. Geving home. Committees were appointed to handle various details in connection with the state meeting here.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor of the Times:

In your Monday issue of the Times news item of proposed breakfast flight at the local airport, it was inferred that in the past the breakfast flights were not open to the public. Those of us who have participated in previous breakfast flights would like the public to know they have always been invited to attend the breakfast before or after church services.

L. A. Ihle Elected President of Knox PTA Unit Monday

Paul Anderson Speaks on Obligation of Schools and Parents to Children

The Knox PTA unit held its last meeting of the school year Monday evening. Neal Fox, president, presided over the business meeting which included the election of officers for the coming school year. The new officers are Les Ihle, president; Sid Lieberman, vice president; Mrs. Milton Reierson, secretary and Mrs. Milo Gulbranson, treasurer.

Instrumental numbers were given by members of the high school band. David Thorstad rendered an oboe solo and several numbers were played by a woodwind ensemble composed of Judy Wold, David Thorstad, Carol Ewing and Jeanne Dahlen. John K. Moum explained how the band and orchestra program is being developed in the grade schools.

Paul Anderson, administrative assistant in the local schools, chose the topic "Is Johnny Dumber and Wilder?" and attempted to prove that Johnny is not dumber but better educated than he has ever been before, but that he is wilder because he has not learned proper emotional and spiritual control.

Anderson emphasized the fact that the emotional and spiritual attributes could not be delegated to the school but had to be handled by the parents at home, and that the parents are failing in these respects. In closing he stated that the schools are doing their job intellectually, physically and socially, but spiritually Johnny is not adequately cared for, and that the home is to blame.

In charge of hospitality for the evening was Mrs. Paul Anderson. Lunch was served by the fifth grade mothers with Mrs. Wm. Frolland as chairman, assisted by Mmes. Bert Mosleth, Alvin Dahl, Harvey Anderson, Stan Nelson and John Jorgenson. The room prize was awarded to Mrs. James Sorenson's first grade class.

Business Planes Use Local 'Port

This is a Beechcraft "Twin Bonanza" which landed at the municipal airport here Monday after a flight from Omaha. Owned by Peoples Natural Gas Co., the plane is typical of executive aircraft used by many concerns nowadays to speed business executives from place to place. It was piloted by William Wert and the passenger was Roy L. Hernson. They reported they averaged about 196 m.p.h. on the flight.

The plane above is powered by two 260 h.p. Lycoming engines and carries six persons including crew. Extensive use of executive aircraft as shown above make it almost mandatory for every city to have a good airport to accommodate such traffic.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

What hoppen? Well, if the question concerns Monday's column we must confess to a monumental snafu on our part. What you really had to read Monday was TWO columns—that of last Thursday and the one written for Monday. The "curve" we tossed for last Thursday's paper really backfired!

Unknown to us, shootin' the breeze was shot completely out of Thursday's paper last week (we don't read the doggone thing ourselves, for obvious reasons, and that's how come we didn't know it was left out.)

Anyway, we're awfully sorry because that awful mess just didn't make sense in places the way it was run together. (Or does this stuff make any sense, ever?)

One of the articles we quoted Monday said some positive thinking on this safe driving problem is needed so right away the JayCees leave a sheaf of publicity about the Teenage Road-e-o on our desk with the comment "There's some positive thinking for you!"

Well, we'll have to agree the Teenage Road-e-o is a fine thing, with the more participating, the better it is in the way of highway safety education. You parents would do well to encourage your youngsters to get in on this contest of driving skills—not only do the kids compete in a driving contest and possibly win a trip or even a scholarship, they learn what it is to work in cooperation with the people who enforce our traffic laws.

Further, it may slightly deflate the ego of the hotshot who learns he isn't, after all, the sharpest driver in the country. But it will give your kid the chance to prove to your satisfaction he or she really can—and will—handle the family buggy with skill, care and finesse when he or she borrows it.

Don't forget — better contact the JayCees about entering the Teenage Road-e-o soon. The contest will be held here Saturday, May 11. Here's your chance to prove just how good you are behind the wheel of a car!

This daylight saving time really is a boon to the home handyman and gardener—not to mention local golfers! It's a great thing for the guy puttering around on boats, etc., and those other little summer vacation preparations.

Only trouble is that our 8 o'clock meetings now convene when the sun is still shining — and who likes to stay indoors at some stuffy old meeting in such nice spring weather as we've been having recently? (There are SOME meetings you just can't skip, tho — such as Guard night and Reserve meeting. Any others are entirely superfluous!)

Strictly coincidentaly . . . we left right at home passing thru Halstad, Minn. last week end, with a service station there named "Fred's Mobil Service."

Farther on we saw a Rex Cafe in Moorhead, too. Probably could have found a great many other things in common with the home-town had we looked harder!

Well, after the long piece of reading in Monday's paper perhaps we'd best give you a break, so — so long!

Fertilizing Legumes

Your alfalfa fields will do better if you give them a good dose of fertilizer this spring. But don't apply any nitrogen, if you have used an innoculant. Several innoculants are available on the market which are good. Make sure all the legumes you plant are innoculated for best results.

J. M. MacGregor, soil scientist, reports that in tests in Nicollet county in recent years, applying nitrogen to alfalfa fields didn't increase alfalfa yields but phosphorus fertilizer paid off well. Five years of alfalfa experiments at the Rosemount Agriculture Experiment Station showed similar results. Adding phosphorus and potassium made good increases in alfalfa yields, but adding nitrogen was no additional help.

Here's what an average yield of alfalfa in Minnesota takes away from each acre: 50 pounds of nitrogen, 29 pounds of phosphorus and 58 pounds of potassium.

Since it's a legume, alfalfa draws some or all of its nitrogen from the air, but it needs to depend on the soil for minerals and moisture. That means phosphorus and potassium are often the limiting factors in alfalfa production.

Alfalfa needs fertilizer most when it's seeded, to help the young alfalfa plants get a good start. But fertilizer later on helps, too. At the Rosemount station, dividing up the fertilizer application into five annual spring applications produced 1.8 tons more hay over a five-year period than applying the same total amount of fertilizer when the alfalfa was seeded down.

There's more information on fertilizing alfalfa in Soils Fact Sheet No. 3, "Fertilize Alfalfa For Better Yields", a University of Minnesota extension publication. You can get a copy from the office.

Tractors

That air cleaner on the farm tractor is as important as good lungs were to the draft horses of yesterday.

Like Dobbin, the tractor needs clean "breathing air". Dust breathed into the cylinders is the engines worst enemy. One of the reasons that older tractors often had a short engine life was because of lack of good air cleaners.

Before you start spring work, it's wise to remove the cleaner from the tractor and wash the separating screen thoroughly to remove any fine dust or other similar material that may have accumulated. If the air cleaner has a gasket, see if it's in good condition. Otherwise, put on a new one.

When spring work begins, check the oil in the air cleaner at least once a day. Clean the cup whenever there is one-eighth to one-fourth of an inch of dirt collected in the bottom, or whenever the oil begins to thicken.

If you're using a detergent oil in the cleaner, fine dust particles may be carried by the oil. So if the oil is thick, change it regardless of how much is in the bottom of the cup.

Never put used oil in the cup advises D. W. Bates, Extension Engineer, University of Minnesota. Old oil already contains dirt and probably is diluted with unburned fuel. If that happens, the fuel will evaporate out of the mixture when it's in the air cleaner, and the oil will be too heavy to perform its intended function.

Always put new oil in the air cleaner and keep it at the level marked on the cup.

Hogs

A new interesting "formula" has been developed on hog care. The formula is B-2-4-6-8-10, and it spells out hog management.

B—Be on hand when needed.
2—Creep feed at 2 weeks.
4—Castrate at 4 weeks.
6—Vaccinate at 6 weeks where hog cholera is present.
8—Wean at 8 weeks.
10—Worm if necessary at 10 weeks.

This is a guide, which you may want to alter a bit for your particular farm.

Sweet Clover Weevil

Watch for that pesky pest the sweet clover weevil. It'll clip the sweet clover just as it tries to push through the ground. If you can't see sweet clover in the field that should be getting green, check for a grey brownish insect, one-quarter of an inch long.

You can use heptachlor, dieldrin, aldrin, or toxophene to control it.

Sheep

Check for sheep ticks at shearing time. Ticks can be controlled by a thorough application of one of several drugs, including DDT, rotenone, lindane, and chlordane. You can make the application as a dip, spray, or dust.

Prowler Ball Club Wins 2 More Tilts

Coach Ralph Skjod's baseball Prowlers ran their early-season winning streak to three games when, in a Monday doubleheader, they defeated Alvarado, 10 to 9, at Alvarado, and Oslo, 4 to 0, at Oslo.

On Friday afternoon, May 3rd, with game time slated for 4:00 p.m., the Prowlers will meet the Alvarado Indians in a return game on the Fair Grounds diamond. On Monday, May 6th, the locals will travel to Crookston for a district conference game against coach Linton Lehrer's Crookston Central Pirates.

Playing at Alvarado, in a 2:00 p.m. on Monday, the Prowlers, behind the one-hit pitching of righthander Harlie Drees, romped away to a 9 to 0 lead after four innings had been completed. Coach Skjod then inserted several reserves into the Prowler lineup, and gave lefty Keith Johnson the pitching assignment. The stylish lefthander, plagued by loose support and giving up five bases on balls, was in trouble throughout the 5th inning, and before Arlan Hjelle, a righthander, came in to nuff out the rally, the Indians had scored 8 runs.

The Prowlers picked up a run in the top of the 6th inning, and Alvarado, with a tally in the last half of the 7th frame, pared the Prowler lead to one run, 10 to 9.

In a well-played game at Oslo, with game time at 5:00 p.m., coach Skjod's squad defeated Oslo, 4 to 0.

Righthander Bob Hallameck hurled the seven-inning tilt for the Prowlers, striking out fifteen batters and doling out but five hits. Oslo was held hitless until the 5th inning when the Prowler hurler was touched for a single.

In the 7th inning, Oslo put their first two runners on base by virtue of singles, but Hallameck struck out Stoltman, Nelson, and Eide to retire the side and end the game.

The Prowlers picked up a pair of runs in the 1st inning when, with one away, Jerry Jorgenson singled, Darrel Wick walked, and both runners tallied on Fred Dablow's base hit.

In the 6th, walks to Dablow and Tony Wald, a hit batsman, and Drees' single plated another pair of Prowler runs.

The line scores:

TRF	052 201 0	10	8	6
Alvarado	000 080 1	9	4	3

Batteries—Drees, K. Johnson, Hjelle and Berg, Dablow. Fillipi and Nelson.

Prowler Track Team Defeats Crookston

Scoring heavily in the distance events and the field events, Quentin Jones' track Prowlers defeated coach Al Droen's Crookston Central track squad, 63 to 50, in a dual meet held at Crookston's Highland Park field Monday afternoon.

Ron Ebbinghausen of the Prowlers and Herschel (Pepper) Lysaker of the Pirates were the meet's individual stars, which each performer scoring three firsts. Ebbinghausen won first in the 220-yard dash, a first place in the broad jump, and a first in the high jump. Lysaker, Crookston's splendid all-round athlete, had a first in the 100-yard dash, a first in the 110-yard high hurdles, and a first in the 180-yard low hurdles.

Other Prowler first place winners were Durwood Amundson in the 880-yard run; Larry Krohn in the mile, with Jim Matson gaining a second place; Keith D. Johnson winning the shot put event, with Jim Nelson, second and Larry Krohn third; Keith Johnson a first in the discus, with Jim Nelson second; and a one, two, three finish in the pole vault, with Boyce Lee winning, Jerry Konickson second, and Bill Wik, third.

The Prowlers had been slated to participate in the Dragon Relays at Moorhead this weekend but coach Jones stated the local squad has cancelled out of that meet. The next track competition for the Prowlers will be the Northwest Conference meet at Crookston on Tuesday, May 7th. The members of the conference, Bemidji, East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, and Crookston will send their full complement of track performers to this tournament.

The Trouters

At 10:00 a.m. on Saturday (and that is Daylight Saving Time, according to Game Warden Carl Sundstrom), the city's brook trout and rainbow trout and brown trout fishermen will be out dangling "garden hackle" in an effort to capture the elusive finny.

And where to go?

Paul Harris, a one-time resident here, when he was an engineer on the Soo Line, is now enjoying a well-earned retirement at Park Rapids, and Paul was in town one day last week, renewing acquaintances. Park Rapids, of course, is deservingly called the "fishing capital" of Minnesota, and we cross-questioned Paul on the trout fishing in that vicinity.

While Paul didn't profess to be a dyed-in-the-wool trout fisherman, he did have some knowledge of the trout fishing down there. His first and best, recommendation, was the famed Straight river. That stream is kept well-stocked by the conservation department; but it is also well-known by fishermen, for on opening day, and that means Saturday, standing room along the stream is at a premium.

There may be a few of the local trouters who will make the 125-mile trip to the Straight, but the chances are that most of the city's angle-worm fishermen will make the shorter trip to the Clearwater river, Nesset creek, Badbois creek, Schermerhorn creek, and others around the Mahnomen area. The department keeps these streams quite well stocked too.

Leo Pahlen was out on a "scouting" expedition on Saturday, and he reported that the prospects for Nesset creek weren't very bright. The creek was low, and he didn't see more than a couple of trout. He did report, though, that the Clearwater river looked promising.

We just got a report from Sundstrom that the sucker-spearing season began at sunrise, on Wednesday, May 1st. This has been a puzzling spring, and the reports of the sucker run have been scant. Sundstrom was in the Fosston and McIntosh area on Tuesday night, and stated that there were streams that were carrying a heavy run of suckers. In certain places the run was so heavy that the fish could be "scooped" out of the water.

Prospects for spearing around here aren't too bright. Ditches 18 and 20 are too deep for ideal spearing conditions, and the feeder ditches that empty into the Red Lake river east of town, haven't been "showing" any suckers.

Prowlers Regional Champions

On a couple of occasions lately, in writing up the high school track meets that have been held in Grand Forks—the Sioux outdoor meets—the Herald has referred to the Bemidji Lumberjacks as the region eight track champions. Not so. Coach Quentin Jones' Prowlers won the regional track championship last spring, and it was somewhat of an upset, and until the regional tournament is held on Friday, May 24th, the local thin-clads are region's champs.

To refer to the Bemidji Lumberjacks as the regional track champions is an easy error, for a writer becomes conditioned, by the Jacks ever-lasting supremacy in basketball, to call the Lumberjacks regional champions.

The Prowlers changed that ever-lasting winning by Bemidji in football last season, and they may do that in basketball next season.

A Month's Wait

The following team managers: Jim Sauve and Gordy Bredeson of the Cliff's Market; Lowell (Muckets) Collins of Bjorkman's; Lyle Roue and Jerry Robbins of the Holsums; Bob Carlson of Bridgeman's; Don Engelstad and Ronnie Buen of Len's Tire Service; and Chuck Erickson of the T. and S., were called to order (and it took some doing to get this group in order) by softball commissioner Joe Mrkonick one night last week in an organizational meeting.

The city softball league will be, as it was last season, a six team circuit. A double round-robin schedule will be drawn up and at the conclusion of the schedule a four-team playoff will be held.

But the schedule won't open until June 3rd. And why the delay? It seems that all of the teams have players on their respective rosters who are attending college, and the teams do not want to enter championship play until they are at full strength. There will, of course, be some exhibition games played prior to the league opening.

It's perhaps a good thing that there will be a month's training period. Some of the players need that, and then some.

Manager Collins had his Bjorkman's team out on the East Side diamond on Tuesday evening, and it first glance it appeared that he had his full squad out there, for they took up much space, but on an actual count, there were only six "players" on hand. And those players weren't frightening.

There may be an exhibition game played on the East Side diamond on Monday, May 6th, for on that date the Holsums and the Bridgeman's will share the diamond in a workout.

Calling all Ballplayers

Prospective Thieves ballplayers, that is, Manager Gene Sack announced that an "open" tryout, for all candidates, will be held at the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday afternoon.

Judging from the tentative roster that has been recorded in general manager Harold Johnson's office, it appears that there aren't very many positions on the team that are "clinched."

Practice time on Sunday afternoon is 2:00 p.m. And that's Daylight Savings Time, too.

Harold Storhaug Wins Men's Singles Handicap Tourney

Harold Storhaug, a member of the Jaycees bowling team, made a shambles of the men's singles handicap bowling tournament, amassing a fine 877-pin aggregate. The tournament, rolled over the Pla-Mor alleys, was concluded on Tuesday night.

Storhaug, carrying a 40-pin handicap, rolled games of 212-233-189-203, for an actual pin total of 837. John McGinley and Ambros Wysoski were deadlocked for second place, with each bowler having an 830-pin total. McGinley, with a 136-pin handicap, chalked up games of 179-206-171-138. Wysoski, with a 56-pin handicap, rolled games of 210-202-181-181.

Joe Mead Named Head of Water Sports Club

The "Thief River Falls Water Sports Club" was the official name given to the newly organized group of boating and water skiing enthusiasts who have held organizational meetings at the National Guard armory the past two Tuesday evenings, according to Stan Gibson, secretary-treasurer of the club. The club has the full backing of city and county officials.

Permanent officers elected at last Tuesday's meeting, attended by 14 persons, were Joe Mead, president; Ivan Bundy, vice-president; and Gibson, secretary-treasurer. Elected to two-year terms on the board of directors were Wendell Olson and Tom Fuller, while one-year directors elected were Stanton Dahlen and LeRoy Lokken.

It was voted to have meeting dates set by the board of directors, with regular meetings scheduled each month from April through September and the annual meeting to be held in January of each year.

Also passed was a resolution that the local club become affiliated with the national organization of Outboard Boating Club of America.

Dues for the new club were set at $2 per year per member.

Gibson said any and all boating or water sports enthusiasts in the Thief River Falls trade area are invited to join the Water Sports Club. Aims of the club, he added, are to promote safety, discourage discriminatory ordinances and regulations against water sports on the river here and to improve local water sports facilities.

The next meeting of the club has been set for 6:30 p.m. May 6, when the group will hold a "dead-head gathering," weather permitting, at the city boat park.

The club members will gather floating and leaning trees, stumps and other debris from the river and river banks and leave it at Squaw Point for hauling away by the park board. Chain saws will be used to cut away snags, etc. that clutter the banks and the stream itself, with the object of making the river safer for boating.

Following the dead-head gathering activities the group will conclude the event with a weiner roast.

Crookston to Compete with Prowlers Today

In an inter-district tennis match played on the East Side courts on Tuesday morning, coach Dick Edlund's Prowlers defeated the Bemidji Lumberjacks tennis squad, three matches to one.

The Crookston Central Pirates will send their tennis squad over here this afternoon for a dual match with the Prowlers. The matches, which will be played on the East Side courts, will start at 3:30 P. M.

In the singles play on Tuesday, Ken Jones of the Prowlers defeated Gerald Stai of Bemidji, 7-5, 3-6, and 6-3. Stai, incidentally, is the defending regional single champions. In the other singles matches, which were limited to one set apiece, the Prowlers' Paul Bakke defeated Bemidji's Jim Palmer, 6-0; and Bob Netteland of the local squad defeated Ken Wilson of the Lumberjacks, 6-1.

In the doubles play, Bemidji's duo of John Wrolstad and Dave Naylor, who are the regional champions in doubles, defeated the Prowlers doubles team of Dan Casey and Ken DeLap, 6-4, 6-1, 1-6, and 6-1.

Questions Answered About N-W. Hospital

The following questions and answers have been prepared to acquaint people of this area with some of the little known facts about your community hospital. You are encouraged to send in your questions to Harold W. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern hospital.

1. Has the number of patients at Northwestern Hospital increased since the hospital construction program was completed?

The construction program was completed about March 1, 1955. In the two fiscal years since then each year has shown a 10% increase in number of patients admitted as compared with the fiscal year of 1954-55.

2. What was the total cost of the new construction and equipment? How much is still owing?

The total cost of the new construction, the remodeling of old St. Luke's, and the new equipment was $1,019,000.00. Construction began on Aug. 20, 1953. By August 20th, 1957, Northwestern Hospital Association will owe only $45,000.00, or only 4.4% of the total original cost. It is expected that the full debt can be liquidated within two years.

3. How many patients use the hospital?

The number of patients at Northwestern Hospital varies from as low as 35 to as high as ninety, plus newborn. In nearly all rural hospitals there is a great variation in the patient load. In large cities the number of hospitalized patients tends to remain high most of the time because of the great population and also because of the large numbers of doctors on hospital staffs. The variation of patient load in our hospital is often dependent upon change in weather conditions, upon the duties of farmers in their fields, and upon the fact that rural income is considerably more unpredictable than the income of people employed in cities. During the last twelve months 2773 persons have been hospitalized here in addition to the newborn. There have also been almost 1600 persons who have been given out-patient services at the hospital.

4. Do you think that our hospital is overbuilt; that it is built for too many patients?

Our hospital was not built in the expectation that it would be filled with patients immediately. It would have been very short-sighted planning to build over a million dollars worth of new hospital facilities with no eye to the future. A fundamental fact to remember about the use of hospitals is that a use of 85% of the beds at any one time is the optimum use for good patient care. Many reasons enter into this figure which may be explained in a later question. We expect a gradual increase in the use of this hospital over a period of years. With gradual increase in the number of doctors in our area, with some increase in population as time goes on, with the acquisition of a Radiologist, we have no doubt but that this hospital will be used more and more. Our figures for the past two years indicate this as a probability. And when it comes down to it, who wants to be hospitalized in a hospital so overcrowded that patients must be placed in the hallways?

Safety Awards to Be Given May 9th

National Leader to Speak at Banquet in St. Paul

Major General George C. Stewart, executive vice-president of the National Safety Council, will address the annual safety award presentation dinner of the Minnesota Safety Council, Thursday, May 9, in the Hotel Saint Paul. General Stewart will outline the summer program of the national safety group as a kickoff promotion for greater emphasis on traffic safety during the approaching tourist season.

A 1923 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point, Stewart retired as a major general in 1954 following Korean service with the 2nd Infantry Division. He was appointed general manager of the National Safety Council, November 1, 1954, and named executive vice-president in October, 1955.

Recognition awards for efforts in various fields of safety will be presented by Governor Orville L. Freeman following the dinner.

In the contest among various Minnesota departments, the state department of health will receive a plaque for its initiative in conducting an inspection home safety training program; while the department of conservation will receive an award of merit for "having set a goal and developed it in the field of water safety. For the first time in 25 years, drowning deaths have been reduced below the 100 mark."

Fred MacMurray tells Janice Rule he will no longer fight the battles of his younger brother, whom she loves, in this scene from "Gun For a Coward," Universal-International picture in CinemaScope and Color, in which MacMurray and Miss Rule co-star with Jeffrey Hunter at the Falls Friday and Saturday.

Old Fashioned Ideas

The true rule, in determing to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it have any evil in it, but whether it have more of evil than of good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everthing, especially of government policy, is an inseperable compound of the two, so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded.

—A. Lincoln

Nasser Back In Business

The Arab nations are still unhappy about a lot of things but it appears that the Suez crisis is no longer critical. The canal is back in business again, with the overall situation about the same as it was prior to the invasion. Nasser is in charge of operations, but a little less blustery than he was before. The argument seems to have been settled with neither side having gained a victory, and with the doors open for further negotiation.

Nasser learned that the canal business can be profitable only as there is traffic, and when there is no traffic the business operates at a loss. He now knows too that Europe can get along without the Suez shortcut. The realization of these facts should make him a much more reasonable businessman. He must have customers, and for a really good operation he must have satisfied customers.

So taking all of the factors into consideration there is some reason to hope that the Suez problem will gradually solve itself. Nothing wrong, certainly, with being cheerful about the prospect at this time.

Orderly Parking

It hurts us to admit that our community might in anyway be considered backward. We have had to make that painful admission on several occasions however, but now we are glad that one of the causes of our embarrassment has been removed.

We have been a little old fashioned in our pavement cleaning procedure. The broom and dustpan method is as antiquated for cleaning the streets of a modern city as it is in a modern home. The vacuum cleaner has long been standard equipment for both indoors and outdoors cleaning.

The city's new street cleaner is a costly piece of machinery but it will not be expensive. It will make possible an expanded program of sanitation that eventually should reach into the residence areas.

Street maintenance, including summer sweeping, is becoming more and more a night operation, when fewer cars are parked along the curb. One of the penalties we will have to pay for more orderly and more economic street maintenance will be more orderly parking of cars.

So get ready to have your parking regulated. You will find it to be in the interest of better municipal housekeeping. Orderly parking is essential to orderly and economical street maintenance.

At Least We Are Big

With the help of 33 leading educators the Chicago Tribune classified the schools of our country with the view of selecting the ten greatest. Carlton was the only Minnesota school to receive special recognition. It placed third among the ten best co-educational colleges.

Harvard topped the list of ten best universities, followed by Yale, California Berkeley, Chicago, Columbia, Princeton, Michigan, Cornell, Wisconsin and Stanford.

The University of Minnesota's medical school was grouped with seven others that might have qualified for tenth place, making it one of the 17 best in that field. In overall excellence Minnesota was included among those that "are wracked by numbers and cannot maintain respectable standards."

Well, anyhow, there are few schools that can beat our university for size and that should make the build-it-bigger boys in Minneapolis happy. Big volume does have cash register appeal in that area.

Truth Will Not Hurt Us

Our government, not the present administration of course but nevertheless our government, was indignant when the Chinese Communists, having gained control of their country, decreed that news correspondents of any nation that did not recognize their government would have to get out. This was shabby treatment of our newspapermen and contrary to the interests of peace, according to the official view at that time.

Last summer, as a part of the so-called Communist peace offensive, the Chinese government lifted the ban partially, inviting a limited number of American writers to visit their country. This time our government said "No." We could not protect American citizens behind the Bamboo curtain, was the reason given.

But it is not a good reason, according to American newsmen. The New York Times expressed their general attitude by stating that "the American public is entitled to know from their own observers what is happening in Communist China."

It is reasonable to assume that any American writers visiting China at the invitation of the Chinese government, would be well treated and fully protected. They would not be subjected to any unusual dangers.

And we can think of no better way to promote international good will and understanding then by an exchange of visits. Representative Chinese citizens should be encouraged to visit us. And representative American citizens should be encouraged to visit the Chinese. We have nothing to lose, and everthing to gain, by exchanges of this kind.

Promoting Delinquency

(Redwood Falls Gazette)

A survey conducted by high school students at Hastings resulted in the report, released recently, that faulty driving is 50-50 between adult and teen-age drivers, with both groups ignorantly or carelessly following practices likely to result in accidents.

That may be true in Hastings, and in lots of other places, but in downtown Minneapolis after the tournament games, Saturday, March 23, it was youngsters who were acting like fools in motor cars. Their escapades reportedly continued far into the night.

And bad conduct behind the wheel, risking life and limb, is just one of the black marks against the far too general practice of closing schools, or virtually doing so, to permit thousands of youngsters to have a generally unchaperoned tournament weekend in the city, in sharp contrast with the sheltered lives most of them lead at home. Granted most of that majority still merit good conduct medals on their return, what justification is there for the risks taken in the conduct department or for the lost hours from classrooms to follow teams in which the majority have little interest, to the vicinity of games for which tickets are unobtainable?

The problem of individual parents who would put a foot down on participation of their hopefuls in this dubious holiday are, obviously, difficult but there are several statewide organizations directly concerned which could spearhead a movement to correct a situation which hasn't been good and may be getting worse.

Arch Pease of the Anoka County Union says there are three kinds of traffic problems in the twin city area: urban, suburban and bourbon . . . And August Erickson of the Springfield Advance-Press reports: "When the wife asked if it wasn't time to take Junior to the zoo, the father replied, 'If they want him they'll send for him'."

The Legislature

By Orlin Folwick

St. Paul—The legislative battle that developed over the tax relief program for 1957-1959 appears to have left the DFL-Liberal group in the state capitol in an awkward position for their efforts in the campaign next year.

The senate independent majority group completely turned the tables on Govenor Freeman and his men in the house of representatives, when they approved a tax program that embodied most of the proposals of the interim tax study committee.

This plan was tossed aside by the govenor after the senate rejected his withholding tax plan, which would have required Minnesota income taxpayers to pay three years' taxes in two. While the govenor and his Liberal leaders in the house were muttering about the senate's wrecking of tax relief, the senate tax committee was at work preparing a realistic program that would meet the appropriations for the next two years and provide a $23,000,000 relief for taxpayers, including farmers, industries, business and householders.

Liberals Embarrassed

Liberal house leaders and the govenor found themselves standing in the position of indecision, deeply chagrined by the turn of events. Where they had planned carefully to build up a campaign based on their solving of the state's tax problems with hoped for opposition from the senate, they found themselves biting fingernails and seeking means to save face.

Their difficulty rested on the fact that they had abandoned a program heralded by the govenor and his house supporters as the biggest administrative effort at tax relief in decades. With the senate picking up most of the program, they had to turn about and either accept it or stand out as the wreckers of a tax relief program themselves.

Stressed by the senate tax experts was the thought that a tax relief program would have to conform to the spending proposed by the govenor and approved by the legislature.

Eat Cake and Have It?

Senator Donald O. Wright, chairman of the senate tax committee, made the point: "So far in the history of legislation, no one has yet come up with a plan that will permit more spending and yet save taxes. All money spent by government has to come from the people. The more of the people's money we spend, the more we have to take from them. We can't eat our cake and have it, too."

Liberal house members were not inclined to give in to the senate, and grasped at whatever straws were visible to curtail the senate program. One such point was the $5 so-called head tax, which the interim tax study group recommended be continued as a permanent tax. This was passed in 1949 for the World War II bonus. When the senate tax bill came to them, the demanded that the $5 tax, retained by the senate, be stricken from the bill. Otherwise, they insisted, they would refuse to vote for it unless the senate revived the withholding tax bill.

Liberals Confused

This left many of the liberals in a state of confusion. Earlier in the session they had been told the bonus tax and the 5 per cent surtax would be necessary if tax relief on personnal property and inventories could be accepted. Now, their own leaders demanded repeal of a tax they had advocated.

What relationship the withholding tax bill could have to the omnibus tax relief program also was difficult to fathom by many house liberals. They recognized it as a means whereby the governor could pick up $27,500,000 in a "windfall" for an expanded school aid plan during the next two years. They were also aware that it also would mean new and higher taxes in the 1959 session to continue the higher aids.

Many of the liberals were satisfied with the defeat of the bill in the senate. They had to go along with the governor's program or face liberal opposition in the next election.

Differences in Plans

The main point in the senate's action on the tax program was to provide the funds for state activities costing considerably more money than for the last two years while giving the taxpayers something of the "break" they had been promised by the governor in his campaign last year. The road taken by the house after the abandonment of the interim commission suggestions would have given some relief to householders and farmers, but none to business and industry.

The house proposals would have meant a two-year delay in the effort to bring new industries to the state, regarded by observers as vital to the building of new jobs and greater prosperity. The senate bill provided for the relief that would bring new business to the state, more jobs and new taxpayers.

Other Legislation

The liberals hopes to pin the senators down on opposition to Governor Freeman's proposals fell flat on other legislative proposals, as well. The senators did not see eye to eye with the governor on individual items in the bills, having their own views as experienced legislators on how matters should be settled. Despite the governor's continual complaints, he got a good deal from the senate.

They did approve a plan for reorganization of the state government. They approved a reapportionment proposal, but insisted on a constitutional amendment to be approved first by the people in order to maintain an adequate balance in distribution of seats between the rural and city areas. The house plan could have meant an increase in city seats, largely controlled by labor, at the expense of rural seats.

The senators voted for an increase in school aids, but found they could not approve a figure as high as that voted in the house. Available funds would not permit the house figure, they said.

Labor Did Well

Labor fared well in the senate, too. It approved substantial increases in benefits under workmen's compensation and unemployment insurance. It also approved a labor-backed bill to require public officials to bargain with unionized public employees.

The senate's approval of labor legislation gives the Minnesota State Federation of Labor little to complain about in the next campaign. The Federation, with a $70,000 legislative campaign fund available next year was set to try to unseat the independent senators. The Federation has been traditionally nonpartisan, campaigning for its friends, regardless of party, and opposing its enemies on the same basis. If it goes into the next campaign to oppose the independent senate it will have tied itself to the DFL-Liberal political kite tail.

Substantial sums—they will have to be totaled later—were voted for new buildings, a mental health program and in aiding subnormal children.

The only major loss experienced by the governor was failure of his withholding tax bill and the party designation bill, which senators contended would kill their independence and subject them to party bossism.

Plummer Votes May 7 on Addition to School

Voters of Plummer School District No. 16 will determine by popular vote Tuesday, May 7, whether or not to build an agriculture shop and an elementary classroom. Alternate bids, totaling $50,000 for construction of these units are now being held pending the results of the election.

If permission to build these units is not granted at the election on May 7, said Supt. Roger E. Piehl, these bids will be lost. Any further effort to build the units in the future will require re-letting the bids. If it is necessary to re-let these bids at a later date, Piehl said, the cost of building the agriculture shop and this third elementary classroom will run from ten to fifteen thousand dollars more, but if they are built along with the gymnasium-auditorium and two elementary classrooms, several thousand dollars will be saved.

It cannot be determined as yet what final action the legislature and the governor will take on state aid, Piehl stated. However, the latest word available is that Senate and House conferees agreed on a modified foundation formula for parceling out state aids for 1957-59. This formula would pay to a school district the difference between $240.00 per resident pupil unit in average daily attendance and what the district could raise by a local property tax levy of 16.5 mills applied against equalized assessed valuation.

If this formula were applied to School District No. 16, $10,000 more basic aid, equalization aid, and apportionment, would be received over last year's amount. This $10,000 is the equivalent of about a 20 mill levy on Plummer's valuation.

If the building of these alternates is approved on May 7, the entire building program will cost about $225,000. The architects have estimated that approximately one-half of this amount will be spent for labor. The contractors have stated that they plan to use local labor as much as possible on the project. In this way a good portion of this money will be returned to residents of the school district.

The board of education has unanimously recommended that the voters give their approval and support this postion of the building program.

Note Recovered After 7 Years

Wayne Wagge of Holt informed the Times that on April 30th, 1950, he placed a note with his name and address in a bottle and placed it in a ditch by his home 4 miles east and a mile north of Holt.

On April 23rd, 1957 he received a note from David Belland and James Langevin of Thief River Falls saying that they had found the bottle near Thief River Falls.

The note in the bottle was still plain to read.

L.P. Gas School Ends Yesterday at Midland Plant

Jerome Kraemer of Consumers Coop Association has just completed a two-day school covering latest developments in L. P. gas. The school was held Tuesday and Wednesday at the Midland L. P. gas plant at Thief River Falls.

Sales and servicemen attending the school gained information on servicing of L. P. appliances, and also learned about the rapidly growing field of L. P. gas factory-equipped tractors.

Technicians of two controls manufacturers, Bastian Blessing Controls Co. of Chicago and Robertshaw Fulton Controls Co. of Youngwood, Pa., instructed the men on installation and servicing of L. P. gas control equipment.

Staff members of Midland Cooperatives, Inc., also served as instructors.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor of the Times:

In Pennington county very little work has been done to gather information and history of the early days. Many counties have already done much work in getting this project going; time is getting short, with the Minnesota Statehood Centennial schedule for 1958.

A committee should be organized in each township of our county to gather history of the early settlers, their names and national origin, their triumphs and tribulations. It is just too bad that we have been so disinterested. Nearly all of the early settlers in this area have passed away, much rich history is lost.

We are certain that there are some descendants of the early families that can remember much of the history of pioneer days.

We should get this project going now so that the history of each township can be gathered, edited and put in proper form for publishing. Let us all get behind this project to make it a success and prove that we are alive and going strong in Pennington county.

Respectfully yours,
C. E. Hellquist, city

WE ALL HAVE OUR DREAMS

Yes, we all have our dreams.

Perhaps sometimes, they are mere projections of our selfishness ... hopes unfair to others ... ambitions dangerous to ourselves.

But often, they are healthy, honest aspirations ... opportunities which real deserves ... victories which justice demands.

Is it wrong to dream such dreams? Does God frown on honest hope and love?

Of course not! Rather, God has given us minds able to dream, and souls courageous enough to seek the difficult—even the impossible.

But the Divine Architect helps man to model his castles in the air, and provides the tools for their building. With faith and the guidance of the Church a man may realize hopes and aims which a cynical world calls futile.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cancer Drive Set Thursday Night

Mrs. Agnes Israelson, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the American Cancer society, today issued a final appeal to local women to volunteer their services in the annual cancer fund drive, which will be conducted Thursday evening, May 9, in the residential districts of Thief River Falls. She stated that many additional solicitors are needed to cover the city adequately.

The workers will assemble at the municipal Auditorium Thursday at 6:30 to receive their assignments, and will immediately start making their rounds. They will return to the Auditorium following the canvass and will be treated to coffee and doughnuts supplied by the Chamber of Commerce.

The slogan of this year's campaign, said Mrs. Israelson, is "Fight cancer with a checkup and a check". She pointed out that cancer is now the Number 2 killer in the United States, and that the proceeds of the fund campaigns are used to finance the costliest research attack on the disease in medical history.

Mrs. Israelson stated that the public may mail their contributions to her, and that any memorial gifts received will be acknowledged by the American Cancer society thru the local chapter.

Wednesday Final Day to Join Jaycee '57 Teen Road-E-O

Local Winner to Get $25 Savings Bond and Will Compete in State Event

A large number of contestants are expected to compete in the annual Jaycee safe driving Teenage Road-E-O set for Saturday, May 11th. The drivers will be competing locally for a $25.00 savings bond and a chance to compete in the state Road-E-O. The winners of the state event get an all expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., to compete in the national Road-E-O for prizes of $4,500.00 in scholarships.

The Road-E-O, besides many fine prizes, gives the teenager an opportunity to prove to himself, his parents, and his community that he has the ability to drive safely, and that he is interested in improving his driving habits and attitude. Further, here is a way to alleviate some of the public criticism that is heaped upon the teenage drivers.

The deadline to enter is drawing near. Applications must be mailed or submitted by midnight Wednesday, May 8th. All one must do is fill out an application blank which can be obtained at the high school, the police station, or by writing to Jaycee Road-E-O, Box 33, TRF.

It is open to all teenagers who have a drivers license or permit, have a clear record of no moving violation in the past six months, and do not drive commercially. All eligible teenagers are urged to participate.

The Thief River Falls Jaycee Road-E-O will begin Saturday morning, May 11 at 9:30 with a written contest on common sense knowledge of rules of the road at the city Auditorium. A driving performance test in obstacle type exercises will start at noon at First st. and LaBree av.

Red Lake County Man Given Life Sentence for Slaying His Wife

Joseph Ripplinger, 63, Red Lake County farmer, was sentenced Friday by District Judge Paul Lundgren to serve the remainder of his life in the Minnesota state penitentiary at Stillwater.

The foreign born farmer, sentenced for slaying his wife, Mary, 49, at their farm home near Red Lake Falls, Feb. 24, was also given an indeterminate sentence for assault with a deadly weapon upon his son, Thomas, 16, the same day Mrs. Ripplinger was killed.

Accompanied by his counsel, Henry G. Tweten of East Grand Forks and James E. Leo of Grand Forks, the defendant appeared before Judge Lundgren.

Tweten offered a motion for a retrail on the grounds of errors, which the court denied. He then sentenced Ripplinger to prison for his natural life subject to release by competent authority.

County Attorney Charles E. Bouten then offered a motion that the charge of assault with a deadly weapon in the first degree be reduced to second degree.

When the motion was allowed Ripplinger pleaded guilty, and was given the indeterminate sentence to run concurrently with the life sentence.

The prisoner was returned to the Polk county jail at Crookston immediately after the sentence by Sheriff Carl Kankel, who said he would take Ripplinger to Stillwater early this week.

Pennington county attorney L. W. Bullen assisted in the prosecution of the case.

Ripplinger was convicted of second degree murder April 24 by an all male jury. He was tried only for the killing of his wife with a shotgun on Feb. 24, after she had gone to the farm home from her place of employment in Grand Forks.

Thomas, who had accompanied his mother to the farm home, was shot twice by his father.

Assessed Values for Equalization Aid Boosted Here

State School Aids Allotted under Formula of Taxation Department

The adjusted property valuations used in figuring equalization school aid have been determined for all Pennington county school districts by the state department of taxation. These values, which are sharply increased over 1956, are available in the office of the county assessor for the information of any interested person.

The study of assessment standards made in Pennington county by the department of taxation resulted in these adjusted school district values which have been approved by the equalization aid review committee.

The 1951 legislature created the review committee made up of the commissioners of education, administration and taxation. The committee gave the department of taxation the job of studying property tax assessments to determine the extent of assessment variation. The legislature, in continuing the authorization of this study, recognized the necessity of measuring assessment variations if equalization school aid was to be distributed in keeping with the equalization principle.

The department of taxation recently finished the second of two complete statewide surveys. In providing adjustments to school district valuations, the department uses the most current materials available to serve as the basis for adjustment of the valuation.

The assessment-sales ratio survey, which is the basis for adjusting school district valuations, compares the assessor's true and full value of representative parcels of real property with their estimated current value. Recent bona fide sales have preference in determining current value. However, appraisals of representative properties at current price levels are used where actual sales are lacking.

Air Reserve Unit to Meet Tonight

Regular Meting Set for Basement of Auditorium

Flight E, 9749th Air Reserve squadron will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight at 8 in the downstairs meeting room of the city auditorium, according to 1st Lt. V. M. Draper, unit commander.

It is hoped the flight can establish an excellent attendance record for the remaining two months of the current semester's training, so all members are urgently requested to be present by the commander.

Members are also asked to be on hand before 8 p.m., Draper said, as M/Sgt. Verne B. Hanson, squadron liaison NCO, will be present at the meeting, and absences or tardiness of members puts a bad mark against the unit.

Success is the total of many little things well done.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Comes colyum time, comes trubble . . . nuthin' much to talk about except assorted gripes we often hear.

No. 1 . . . sorry my darlin' daughter, don't go near the water 'cuz we don't think you oughter—didn't you see the frost t'other night? Hope it didn't kill the tiny, new leaves just appearing on the trees hereabouts! In short, it's too cold for swimmin' even if Gary Forsberg was out water skiing last week.

Mrs. A. F. Burke writes a note to the Public Opinion dept. and says ALL the flight breakfasts held at the airport have been open to the public. Well we're sorry we conveyed the idea they hadn't been. We certainly had no such intentions.

But, that's all in the past. The thing to do now is concentrate on getting behind the local flying club in promoting this year's breakfast.

We in Thief River Falls can't let a small town like Fertile top us in attendance . . . we hear they had a terrific turnout down there last year. Thief River Falls should be able to muster a huge crowd.

So, ladies, don't fix breakfast the day of our forthcoming Flying Club Flight breakfast . . . make the spouse take you out to the airport before church that a.m.! (Date to be announced later.)

Wanted . . . inactive flying members to get active again! We have two good airplanes that aren't half as busy as they could be because so many of our 60-odd Flying club members don't take advantage of such low rental prices to fly 'em.

How would you like to have to pay $8 an hour to rent a ship? Chances are you wouldn't be too enthusiastic about it. But, you have two that can be flown for half that price or less so why not keep up your flying proficiency by flying at least once a month? After all, your license alone is worth about $10 to you so it's well worth the small cost to keep it current! Besides flying is lots of fun and very useful at times too.

How's your lawn this year? Ours is spotty and we can't figure out why it doesn't seem to want to come along in those places. Maybe we're trying to rush the season, and are a little impatient. We certainly hope this is the case!

We've an idea those local boating enthusiasts who don't join the Thief River Water Sports Club are going to miss out on a lot of fun this year if they don't join. Let's get behind this new organization to promote safer and better boating on the river here!

Well, as the undertaker said, we must be shovelin' off. SO LONG!

AIRPORT NEWS

Wilber Nielson of Erskine took advantage of the beautiful morning last Monday the 22nd, as did Harold Hofford and Henry Rathala of McIntosh, and brought their champs over for the mechanic to work on.

The weather we've enjoyed this past week has given us every reason to believe spring is here to stay.

Thursday morning Frank Frison flew up from St. Paul in a Cessna 140 and was met at the airport by Helmar Hoglin of TRF. Frison spent the day in the city on business and made the return trip late in the afternoon.

Crookstons T-Craft made a trip over here Thursday at noon, with Gene Miller and Tom Hugen at the controls.

Thursday afternoon, Jack Grahn, flight instructor from Roseau, flew over in Champ and continued on North Central Airlines to Chicago. His return trip was made Saturday afternoon.

Bob Anderson of Mahnomen left his Champ here for the A and E and then returned with H. W. Anderson, who had followed in a J-3 Cub, Friday morning.

Arnold Reed, CAA safety inspector from Fargo, was again a caller at the local airport on Friday. Reed was flying a Cessna 170.

Friday afternoon the State Dept. of Conservation plane, a Cessna 180, landed for fuel and was headed back for the Twin Cities, carrying Don Ledin, Robert Schemeche and C. E. Vauno.

Saturday morning we had a group of visitors from Emerson Man. Canada. Elwood Treichel came to pick up his Super Cruiser that the A and E mechanic had botten ready for deportation into Canada, as the plane had been purchased here in the States. Emil and Al Treichel accompanied Elwood back by plane and Lawrence and Gordie Treichel along with Yvonne Copeland went via car.

Mrs. Arnold Vasenden and passenger Mrs. Vernon Gustafson landed here Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Vasenden was flying the Fertile Club Champ. That same afternoon from Badger came Vernon Gylten and Curtis Sather in Sather's Cessna 140.

Sunday we again greeted a number of pilots from Grand Rapids Minn., this time on their way cross-country to Grafton, No. Dak. Allan Burt and Curly Randall were flying a Stinson; Lloyd S. LaPlant and Dean Peck, Champ; Gerald Hermick, Champ; and Chuck Strand and Tom Hopkins flew a Cessna 140.

Others to pay us a visit on Sunday were: Spencer Aarmat and George King of Fergus Falls in a Champ; Art Simons and Robert Anderson, Mahnomen, Aeronca Chief; Orin Refling and Walter Walters, Fertile, Tri-Pacer.

Saturday the 27th, Bill Disse and Martin Rantanen went on a cross country flight in a Champ, by way of International Falls and Bemidji. Bill was getting some duel time for his private license.

April Temperatures Range from 9 up to 82

Spring came to Thief River Falls and northwestern Minnesota in April, but it had an uphill struggle during the early part of the month, according to records supplied by KTRF.

The first two-thirds of the month were characterized by chilly, raw blustery days during which the highest recorded temperatures was 53, April 20. The last 10 days of April were more spring-like as if Easter Sunday was the signal for Spring to get to work in earnest.

The highest temperature recorded in the latter part of the month (and highest for the whole month) was April 30 when a summery 82 was enjoyed in the Pennington county area.

Coldest day in April was the 11th when a frigid 9 above was registered. Total precipitation was an unofficial 2.51 inches as shown by the record kept for the month.

Here is the weather summary for the month:

Tues. 30	82	49

The average high temperature for April was an unofficial 50.47 and the average low was 29.07. Average mean temperature was 39.73, still unofficial, of course.

And by the way—despite a fairly early spring that actually began the latter part of March the ice in the river pool DIDN'T go out by the average breakup date, April 10. As a matter of fact the ice didn't really break up at all—it just seemed to fade away!

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I bought a house with a GI loan, and I had to sell it in 1950 because my employer transferred me. Since my loan was not paid off, I could not get my GI entitlement restored. If the purchaser should now pay off the loan, would I still be eligible for restoration of entitlement?

A—Yes, you still may be eligible to get your entitlement restored, even though you sold your house several years ago. The original GI loan, of course, would have to be repaid in full.

Q—I took out my GI insurance policy on February 29, during leap year. In years other than leap year, what will be considered the anniversary date of my policy—February 28 or March 1?

A—During years other than leap year, February 28 will be considered the anniversary date of your policy.

Q—Under the War Orphans Education program, will monthly allowance be stopped if a student's progress is not satisfactory?

A—Yes. They may be resumed only if VA finds that the cause of unsatisfactory progress has been removed, or if the student changes to another course more in keeping with his abilities.

Q—How is Korean GI Bill entitlement used up in the case of a veteran taking flight training?

A—For GI flight trainees, entitlement is used up at the rate of one day for each $1.25 paid to them as GI training allowance.

NEW DISEASE RACES THROUGH MOTORDOM

A deadly new disease, Travelers Insurance Company finds, has the American people in its grip, and it is highly contagious—characteristic proved by the mounting highway toll right here in Minnesota. "Heedless Horsepower" is the name of this new and increasingly virulent enemy of the human race, which claimed 40,000 lives and left nearly two and a half million injured and maimed last year—a goodly portion of them in Minnesota. Symtoms are recklessness, carelessness, heavy right foot, eyes on the climbing speedometer instead of the road, hand on the horn instead of the wheel, mind idling while the car is in high gear. The only known antidote is reported to be much scarcer than Salk vaccine and far more difficult to isolate and recognize; in the narrow circles in which it is known at all it is referred to as Common Sense, though it is believed that traces of carefulness, courtesy, and patience may be found in this desparately needed antidote for the rapidly-spreading epidemic of Heedless Horsepower.

Champion Bowler Gets Check

Orvis Olen, left, master of ceremonies at the City Bowling association banquet on Wednesday night, presents a check to Harold Storhaug, the winner of first place in the city men's single handicap bowling tournament. In addition to this money award, Storhaug won trophies for being the high average bowler on his team, the Jaycees, and for having the high average in the Monday night Service league. Storhaug's 171 average was also the high average for all of the city's four leagues.

Legionville Near Brainerd Will Be Dedicated May 19

Governor Fremen to Be Main Speaker at oFrmal Opening of New Project

Legionville, the department of Minnesota's new school patrol training center on North Long Lake, near Brainerd, will be officially dedicated Sunday, May 19th, at impressive ceremonies which will feature Governor Orville L. Freeman as the principal speaker.

Legionville is a 550-acre tract on the south shore of North Long Lake, about seven miles northeast of Brainerd, on T. H. 218 at an area known as Parkerville.

The dedication ceremony, scheduled for 1:30 P.M., will be preceeded by a concert by the Ninth district and Brainerd American Legion bands, beginning at 1:00 P.M. The Baudette auxiliary chorus, state champions, will also be part of the program.

Details for the dedication and the benefit barn dance, scheduled for Saturday evening, May 18th, are now being completed by a committee consisting of Dan Foley of Wabasha, Mrs. C. J. Paulson of Shevlin, and Vern Trapp of Brainerd, and indications are that the two-day affair will be one of the outstanding 1957 events in Minnesota.

Participating in the dedicatory program, in addition to Governor Freeman, will be Department Commander Everett Z. Getten of Wayzata, who will dedicate Legionville; Department President, Mrs. Juel Osmundson of Adams; Legionville Chairman, Leonard Carlson of Marshall; Reverend Denzil A. Carty, Department Chaplain, of St. Paul, and Mrs. Al Ascher of New Ulm Department Chaplain of the Auxiliary.

This training center for school and us patrol officers, when completed, will represent an investment of upwards of $150,000.00, most of which has already been subscribed by Legion posts and auxiliary units, as well as interested business and fraternal concerns. Besides the administration building, providing numerous class rooms, a spacious dining hall, playground area and 1500 foot bathing beach, all of which are completed, there will be six housing units or barracks now under construction. Upwards of 1000 boys and girls will train at Legionville this summer.

Representatives of each of the Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units, and their friends are urged to attend the two-day program.

Mrs. V. McLeod Tells Story of Community Club at Goodridge

The following account of the history of the Goodridge Community club, prepared by Mrs. V. C. McLeod, was read at the meeting last Wednesday evening, commemorating the 40th anniversary of the founding of the club.

Tonight we are celebrating the completion of forty years of continuous operation of a village project, the Goodridge Community Club. It is a rare privilege to be present at an event such as this, and I know each of us is grateful for the opportunity of participating in tonight's activities.

The history of the village of Goodridge precedes that of the Community Club by only two years. A permit to operate two electric passenger trains was granted the Minnesota and Northwest Railway Company in 1914. The townsite was platted on August 1, 1914, and the first building were begun in that month. The village incorporated at a special election held August 6, 1915. With the advent of the railroad, merchants, bankers, lumber and real estate men, hotel operators, and many others flocked into Goodridge, so that by 1916 this was a thriving village.

In the fall of 1916 an enterprising young matron, Martha Tvedt Peterson, conceived the idea of a club for young people for the purpose of developing leadership and the ability to express their opinions. An organization of some twenty people was formed and named the Literary Society; this was the nucleus of the present Community Club.

Members were to take turns conducting the meetings and planning programs, which consisted of readings, songs, skits, etc. According to Stuart McLeod, one of the original members, that first meeting was FUN; the second meeting was WORK, as he was on the program committee. However, the club was already fulfilling its purpose. The provide funds, of which the club had none, the first of a series of plays, "The Terrible Twin", was presented in the hall above the pool hall; this is the building now occupied by the Melvin Hylands and Asta's Cafe.

Early names remembered in connection with the Literary Society and the Community Club prior to 1920 are Tvedt, Christianson, Urdahl, Gilbertson, Giefer, MacDonald, Vaughtn, Arndt, Rouzé, Menzel, Radtke, Foss, Olson, Rustad, and McLeod.

In the spring of 1918 it was decided to widen the scope of the club in area and membership. This was a young country, made up in large part of young farmers who were homesteading and establishing families. The old club had consisted almost entirely of a Goodridge village membership of young people only; now it was decided to include any families in the surrounding area, parents and children, who cared to come. Until the present time this policy has prevailed; the club has flourished and continued without a break, offering opportunities of entertainment, service and leadership to several generations.

Following are highlights of the club's activities, gathered from available records and from the memories of early members:

Stuart McLeod First President

The first president of the club as it exists today was Stuart McLeod, who presided from 1918 through 1929. Succeeding presidents were T. A. Disrud; Mrs. Jay Payne; Wm. Brosvick; Mrs. V. C. McLeod; Floyd Olson; Harold South; Ted Rustad; V. C. McLeod; Roy Wiseth; John Kulseth; Charles Josephson; Ernest Swanson; A. W. Oski; Lloyd Wiseth; Harry Solberg; and Adolph Geving. Our current president is again Harold South.

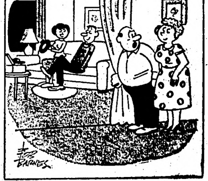
In the fall of 1918 a basket social was held, with baskets selling for $3.00 and $4.00, and in the spirit of competition and fun, as high as $8.00. That, in 1919, was real inflation! However, from information available, the proceeds went to a good cause-the Red Cross.

Also in 1918, the first of a series of 4th of July celebrations was held at Highlanding, 6½ miles south of Goodridge, on the Red Lake River. A launch was fixed up for rides, but in the memories of the remaining oldtimes, the engine failed and the project failed with it. Later boats were more successful. A refreshment stand, picnic lunches, games and a program completed the day. A speaker at one of these early celebration was J. H. Christianson, Supt. of the School of Agriculture at University Farm.

In September, 1919, a two-day Tri-County Fair was held, including Pennington, Marshall and Beltrami counties. A barn was built on the schoolgrounds to house cattle; this barn, incidentally, was later sold to Supt. J. H. Hay and moved to his homestead directly north of Goodridge, the farm now owned by Irvin Iverson. Several school rooms were used for display of produce. A platform was erected in front of the school for the program, which Supt. Hay was the main speaker. This fair was very well attended; a second fair a year later was not so successful, as the very unpleasant and cold weather kept the attendance low.

TRF Men Supply Programs

During the early existence of the club, the electric train brought out a group of Thief River Falls people once a year to furnish the program. Among the many who participated were Dr. Froelich, president of the Commercial Club; Paul Lundgren, secretary; William Dahlquist; and Kern Olson. Teachers trained their grades to present programs, and I am sure the children who took part in those early entertainments, now parents and grandparents, remember the thrill, excitement and fear of appearing for the first time before a Community Club audience.



"If that's what she calls 'the most'—I'd hate to see what 'the least' looks like!"

In this day of black-top highways and fast transportation, only the real oldsters can remember what an achievement it was to attend meetings. There were no roads as we know them now. The automobiles of forty years ago were not enclosed and heated to provide home-like comfort; instead, they were "air-conditioned" by flimsy curtains which held out none of the cold, and there were no heaters at all. Come winter, the cars went up on blocks and stayed there until spring! Teams of horses, and even occasional teams of oxen, were pressed into service to bring members to the meetings. The ultimate in comfort in those days was a blanket tied over the back of the sleighbox and left on for the entire winter. A touch of luxury was added by a buffalo robe, if one were fortunate enough to own one.

Lighting, which we take so for granted at the flick of a switch, was not always as convenient as in recent years. A private battery plant was established by Perle Palmer in 1916. However, a fire in 1919 ruined the batteries, and there were no electric lights until the village bought the lines a year later, installed a new gentrator, and turned the operation over to A. B. Mandt. Mr. Mandt furnished the engine and ran the plant for the village in conjunction with furnishing power for the flour mill. Lights were available only until 10:30 p.m., unless they were requested to be left on until eleven o'clock. Sometimes the boys whose job it was to put gas in the engine forgot to do so, and the lights would go out in the middle of a song or other number. Then there was a mad dash to MacDonald's, Christianson's, and other nearby homes for gas lamps to finish out the evening.

Early Members

The first paid membership list in the records is for the year 1925. Because many of you will recognize the names of friends and acquaintances, I am quoting them as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gangeness; Jay Payne; Carl Christianson; J. P. Jensen; N. Buhdhund; H. B. Rockne; V. C. McLeod; Albert Halvorsen; Ole Kirklie; Wm. Shanley; M. G. Thorson; Theo. Nelson; Joe McCabe; George Josephson; Morgan Vaughan; and P. O. Tvedt.

Another interesting item listed donations for the first meeting of 1928, as follows: Stephen Singer, sugar and napkins; Goodridge Mercantile, 6 dozen paper plates; Sever Anderson, 1 lb. coffee; H. Christianson & Son, 1 lb. coffee, fried cakes and cookies at cost; Mrs. Ed Miller, 1 pint cream; Stuart McLeod, 1½ quarts cream.

In 1932, exactly a quarter century ago, it was suggested that the club work toward some worthy objective, such as playground equipment for the school; have a regular membership fee; divide members into groups to serve lunch; and charge a small fee for lunch. The membership fee of 50 cents was discontinued in the late 1930s, but committees of members still serve lunches at the original small charge of 10 cents.

Among the projects sponsored by the club are the following:

A skating rink was maintained for number of years next to what some of you may remember as the Red Barn, or Reson's Barn, adjoining the present Gilbert Vraa home.

Many Projects

A play in 1933, "Back to the Farm", netted $52.24, which was given to the Athletic Association.

Another play, "Go Slow, Mary", was presented in Goodridge and Grygla and cleared $70.15.

The first stage in the assembly room of the high school consisted of planks laid across sawhorses. A new stage was provided by the club at a cost of $27.57 for lumber and $20.00 for labor.

In 1934, a carnival netted $51.79. Plays and carnivals, the latter given jointly with the school, were given year after year, and the proceeds donated to the Athletic Fund, the School Activities Fund, or to provide playground equipment, stage curtains and fixtures, folding chairs, kitchen equipment, etc.

In 1936, $50.00 was donated toward a school light plant.

In 1941, it was voted to give the school the money necessary to buy a mimeograph machine.

Generous donations were made to the Red Cross and to the U.S.O. during the war, and contributions are made to the March of Dimes annually.

From 1936 through 1939, library rent of $2.00 per month was paid to J. Sundquist.

In 1946, the club voted to sponsor two girl scout troops.

In 1947, $160.00 was donated toward the purchase of a motion picture projector for the school.

In 1949, 100 songbooks were purchased for community singing.

In 1950, $225.00 was donated toward the building of risers for the Glee Club.

In 1952, $75.00 was voted to the senior basketball team to help defray expenses of a trip to the Twin Cities.

In 1955, the club adopted a scholarship plan to help one worthy boy and girl each year to further his or her education. $25.00 is added to the fund each year.

It was at the February, 1950 meeting of the Community Club that Supt. Leonard Vogland first spoke of organizing a P.T.A. unit in Goodridge. The unit was organized after, and is a going and influential group at present.

It will be noted that throughout the history of the club, there has been close association and cooperation with our school, to the mutual benefit of both. All meetings have been held in the school; programs have been furnished by school children and their teachers, and by members; the club has provided needed equipment for the school. We think this is one of the finest examples of the advantages of living in a village such as ours, or in any small town.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

I would like to thank the members of the recreation board particularly Dr. W. P. Kaisler, the staff of the Sports Arena, the Thief River Falls Times and radio station KTRF for their cooperation and support in arranging for the successful figure skating program this past winter.

Without their interest and enthusiasm it would not have been possible to begin the figure skating instruction in this community.

It was a very pleasant experience to work with the interested mothers and their well behaved and courteous children.

I hope next year to continue working with the skaters and to develop enough talent to have a winter carnival or to provide specialty numbers during the intermission at hockey games.

It has made me very happy to have been welcomed in Thief River Falls with such warmth and generosity and to have been able to continue to enjoy a sport which has been a favorite since my childhood days in Canada.

Sincerely,
Alfreda B. Anderson.

McLaughlin & Schulz of Marshall, Minnesota, submitted the low bid of $8,563.50 on application of a seal coat on the surfaced highway, SAR 2, otherwise known as the airport road for a distance of six miles.

On all these projects, the federal government pays 50 percent of the costs, with the state and county sharing the remainder. C. M. Larson of Bemidji, district engineer for the state highway department, was present for the opening of the bids.

Choosing Rug Pads

In our last lesson in the Home Program, we discussed choosing floor coverings such as rugs. Several homemakers mentioned that we didn't include enough information on rug pads, so we asked Mrs. Myra Zabel, Extension Home Improvement Specialist about the different types available.

Mrs. Zabel says: "There are three general kinds of rug pads, felt, rubberized, felt and rubber.

1. Felt are the less expensive and don't wear long. They collect dirt and odors, and they must be replaced sooner.

2. Rubberized felt-either one side or both sides are treated with rubber. They wear longer then felt and collect less dirt.

3. All kinds of rubber (foam rubber or sponge rubber) are more expensive, but they wear well, and cushion well. They do not mat down.

You have to decide whether the additional price is worth it. Your own situation and how much you can afford will help you decide which to buy. But remember that a thin cheap pad will not cushion very well, and as a result, your carpet will wear out much sooner.

Best Buys This Month

Beef, eggs and turkeys—these are foods to keep in mind when you plan your main dishes in May. They are "Best Buys." Chicken and veal will also be abundant. Two new foods are canned freestone peaches and frozen strawberries, while canned purple plums will continue in good supply. Potatoes, peanut butter, dry beans, and halibut all promise to be plentyful. Use these "Best Buy" foods and ease your budget.

Pressure Cooker Clinics

No pressure canner will be tested after the end of May. If you wish to attend a pressure cooker clinic, please call our office, phone 748, as soon as possible.

At the clinics, we will test the gauge and safety device, check how the cooker operates, and clean the cooker ready for the canning season.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

MOTHER'S DAY

NEXT Sunday will be Mother's Day, a day that has now gained a general observance. Honor your mother by going to church. Wear a red flower for her. If she has left you for a time, wear a white flower. Thus will you conform with millions of others. But your heart will decide the value of the day to you.

If next Sunday were Woman's Day, no lack of imperishable examples would forbid the observance. The fabled Semiramis, Deborah, Joan of Arc, and many illustrious queens could be named. But the day will be Mother's Day—a day that claims the palace and the humblest abode that has been glorified by a mother's love.

So indulge sweet memories of your childhood and with gratitude for your blessings honor her whose goodness makes her a being apart from all others of earth—Mother. But will you pretend to honor her by wearing a flower and letting it it go at that? Go to see her. Write to her. And resolve by the grace of God to follow more faithfully in her footsteps. If she has left you, honor her memory by the high life you live.

Manifestly, these thoughts concern a mother worthy of the name. Let mothers of the present so honor their own mothers and their God that they may leave memories that will live beyond the years.

It pays to advertise!

After discussion and upon being informed that the consolidation process was pending and also that petitions for dissolution were pending, Commissioner Hanson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption.

WHEREAS, A resolution adopted by the electors of School District No. 15 and 46 of Pennington County and No. 76 of Marshall County, Minnesota, at a legal meeting, and properly certified by the Clerk of said District, was presented to the County Board of said County on the 4th day of October, 1955, praying for the dissolution of said School District and duly approved by the Superintendent of Schools of said County.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, That a hearing be held on said resolutions at a meeting of said Board at Courthouse in the City of Thief River Falls in said County, on Monday the 22nd day of April, 1957, at 3:30 o'clock P.M. at which time and place this Board will hear all persons interested, and their evidence and arguments for and against dissolving said School Districts No. 15 and 46 of Pennington County and 76 of Marshall County.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, That notice of said hearing be given by the publication of this order for two consecutive weeks prior to said hearing in the newspaper known as the Thief River Falls Times, published and printed in said County; by the posting of copies thereof in three of the most public places in each of the above named school districts affected thereby, at least ten days before said day of hearing; and by the mailing of a copy thereof to the Clerk of each of the above named school districts affected thereby at least ten days before day of hearing, according to law.

Commissioner Anderson seconded the foregoing resolution and declared carried.

Carried.

Commissioner Olson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared carried.

A Group of Reiner Township landowners appeared relative to drainage projects in Reiner. The Board indicated the intention of continuing the practice of cleaning portions of the ditches in line with the available money as received from the Maintenance levies.

Richard Radniecki, Chairman of Deer Park Town Board and Fred Lemson, Board member, appeared relative to assistance in rebuilding a Township road between Sections 17 and 18 and Sections 19 and 20 in Deer Park, a distance of 2 miles north and south. The Board agreed to inspect the proposed project at the earliest opportunity and the Engineer was instructed to check for costs and make a rough survey.

The Board then proceeded to open bids for storage tank, as duly advertised and called for. The following bids were opened and read aloud:

Bildes-O'Day Equip, Inc., Fargo, with coil & shroud $[illegible]; without coil & shroud $[illegible].

The bid of the Fargo Foundry Company was determined to be the lowest and best bid and after discussion it was moved by Hanson seconded by Anderson that the bid of Fargo Foundry Co. in the amount of $1,167.29 be accepted, said bid being for tank with coils and shroud, and the Chairman and the County Auditor are hereby authorized and instructed to enter into contract with said Fargo Foundry Co. according to plans and specifications on file. Carried.

Commissioner Anderson introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, Pennington County plans to reconstruct S.A.R. No. 1, from S.A.R. No. 9 five (5) miles west of St. Hilaire to T.H. No. 32 at St. Hilaire, a distance of 6.5 miles and

WHEREAS, County Ditch No. 1 of Sanders and Black River crosses said S.A.R. No. 1 at an angle of 60 degrees with the right angle of said S.A.R. No. 1 running from northwest to the southeast between Section 35, T153N, R43W and Sections 3, T152N, R43W, and

WHEREAS, It is advantageous and desirable in the construction of said S.A.R. No. 1 to reduce the skew of the crossing of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders-Black River to an angle of 15 degrees with the right angle of said S.A.R. No. 1, and in so doing a partial channel change is necessary at the ditch crossing to properly direct the flow of water through the crossing structure so as to minimize water erosion at the crossing. Said alternation and change will not in any way effect the functioning and efficiency of said County Ditch No. 1, Sanders-Black River,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: By the Board of County Commissioners of Pennington County to instruct its County Engineer to file the plans and profiles of said S.A.R. No. 1 showing the contemplated changes and alternations of County Ditch No. 1 in detail with the County Auditor, who will thereupon fix a time and place for hearing thereon and to give notice of hearing by publication as defined by Minnesota Statutes, Section 106.011, Sub. 2. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hanson and declared carried.

Pursuant to above resolution the Auditor set the date of hearing on Wednesday, April 24, 1957 at 8:30 p.m. in the Courthouse.

A delegation of landowners from Star Township appeared, and presented a petition for construction of a lateral ditch to County Ditch No. [illegible] in between Sections 5 and 8 in Star Township. Upon study it was apparent that an adequate outlet was not available, whereupon, on motion by Commissioner Hanson seconded by Commissioner Anderson the petition for lateral Ditch to County Ditch No. [illegible] was tabled and pursuant to M. S. 106.[illegible] the Chairman and the County Auditor were authorized and instructed to execute a petition to the District Court for improvement of the outlets to County Ditch No. [illegible] and County Ditch No. 38 in Pennington County. Motion declared carried.

Joseph Seidel, Engineer for Repair of County Ditch No. 35 filed plans and specifications and the Auditor with approval of the Board set the time of hearing on said petition and engineer's report to be in the Meeting Room First Floor in Courthouse in Thief River Falls on the 24th day of April, 1957 at 8 o'clock P.M. Auditor to notify landowners according to law.

Commissioner Lindberg introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption.

WHEREAS, In some cases and during unfavorable weather conditions certain Pennington County roads are not able to even carry the restricted load limit of 4 tons per axle without unduly damaging the roads.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the County Engineer be and he is hereby authorized and instructed to pay close attention to the condition of each Pennington County road and if further load restrictions are in his judgement needed on any County road, to restrict such road to not less than 2 tons gross per vehicle, and

April 22, 1957

Pursuant to order for Hearing on Dissolution of School District the Board of County Commissioners met in the meeting room, First Floor of Courthouse at 3:30 P.M., April 22, 1957.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. All present.

About 35 interested parties were present representing School Districts 15, 46 and 8 of Pennington and 76 of Marshall County.

Attorney Chommie representing the petitioners presented a petition to dismiss the proceedings on the basis of a faulty notice and also because of the time that had elapsed since the resolutions had been presented to the Board.

David M. Brown, Supt. of Schools of Ind. 8, Goodridge spoke for the Goodridge District. No opposition was offered to request for dismissal but request was made for a recommendation by the County Board to the Department of Education relative to a petition for Consolidation of the Districts represented with School District No. 18, Thief River Falls.

Stanley Mortenson, Attorney for School District 8 did not enter objection to motion for dismissal.

Mrs. Matheson, County Supt. of Schools indicated that the pending plat for consolidation was ready and would be presented to the Dept. of Education upon close of this hearing.

After deliberation it was moved by Olson seconded by Anderson that the resolutions for dissolution of Pennington County Schools 15 and 46 and Marshall County School Dist. 76 and their annexation to School Dist. 18 of Thief River Falls be dismissed as requested by the petitioners with approval of School Dist. 8 officials. Motion carried.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Lindberg that meeting adjourn. Carried.

Glenn Tasa, Chairman,
Pennington County Board.

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio, Clerk of the Board.

April 24, 1957

Pursuant to Notice of Ditch Hearings the Board of County Commissioners met in the Courthouse at 8:00 o'clock P.M., April 24, 1957.

Members present: Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa along with Engineer Seidel and Auditor Rodekuhr. Members absent: Olson and Hanson.

No landowners or interested parties appeared relative to alternation of County Sanders-Black River Ditch No. 1.

Engineer Seidel presented plans and specifications for said alternation in conjunction with grading of S.A.R. No. 1 West of St. Hilaire.

After discussion it was moved by Commissioner Anderson and duly seconded by Commissioner Lindberg that the following resolution be adopted, viz:

WHEREAS, The County Board of Pennington County has now duly considered the plan for a minor alternation to County Sanders-Black River Ditch No. 1 as submitted by the County Engineer Pursuant to M. S. 1955, Chapter 523, and has been heard by all interested parties wishing to be heard, and there being no objections to the proposed minor alternation.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Resolution of the County Board requesting this hearing, the plan of the Engineer and the notice of Hearing have all been made according to Law and said minor alternation to County Sanders-Black River Ditch No. 1 is hereby authorized as set forth and included in plan for grading S.A.R. No. 1; S.P. 57-602-01 and upon completion, such alternation shall be a part of County Sanders-Black River Ditch No. 1 as though it had been originally so constructed and established.

Upon a vote being taken on the adoption of the foregoing resolution, all Commissioners present voted in favor of the adoption of the resolution and was so declared carried by the Chairman presiding.

At 8:30 o'clock the Board convened to consider Petition of Even Ose and others for Repair of County Ditch No. 35 pursuant to Notices of Hearing.

There were 30 interested parties present representing lands liable for repair of Ditch.

Project Engineer Seidel reviewed his findings in his Engineer's report and indicated his estimate of cost was $7,710.50.

A general discussion was held with various parties voicing their varied opinions as to the equity of assessments in this repair procedure.

In the absence of 2 Commissioners and the County Attorney it was felt a better solution could be had by further study and conference as to legality of repair procedure. It was moved by Lindberg seconded by Anderson that the hearing be adjourned to be taken up again at 1:00 o'clock P.M., May 7, 1957.

Motion carried.

Glenn Tasa, Chairman,
Pennington County Board.

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio Clerk of the Board.

4-H Scholarships Increased to $400

Scholarships in the national 4-H awards programs have been increased from $300 to $400, announced G. L. Noble, director, National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work, Chicago.

Approximately 170 college scholarships of $400 each will be awarded at the national level to 4-H Club members whose 1957 records of achievement in their chosen projects are judged best by the Cooperative Extension Service. The scholarships will be presented to the national champions next December during the 36th annual 4-H Club Congress, Noble said.

G. L. Noble

Among the 4-H activities offering awards of scholarships as well as trips to the Club Congress are the Boys' Agricultural, Poultry, Garden, and Electric programs. Donors of the awards respectively are: International Harvester, Sears-Roebuck Foundation, Allis-Chalmers, and the Westinghouse Educational Foundation. All have supported 4-H work for many years through programs arranged and announced by the National Committee and the Extension Service.

Last year 4-H awards and leader training funds distributed through the National Committee amounted to $469,297. A similar sum has been assured again this year from non-governmental sources, according to Mr. Noble.

Speeding was blamed for 13,830 deaths on U. S. highways in 1956.

The key to safety is you.

Two reasons why cooperatives build stronger communities

First of all, cooperatives are the biggest taxpayers in many cities and towns. Their real estate and property taxes help build better schools, maintain and expand local government services, pay for public improvements that make living more enjoyable.

Secondly, patron-owners of the cooperative make substantial savings on the purchase of goods and services and in the processing and marketing of agricultural products.

Any income remaining in the cooperative over and above the cost of doing business is refunded to the customer-owners. Cash refunds are often substantial and their beneficial effects are felt throughout the whole community.

Prowler Ball Team Wins Two More Tilts

Coach Ralph Skjod's baseball Prowlers will attempt to increase their current winning streak to six games this afternoon when, at 5:00 p.m., on Crookston Highland Park diamond, they meet coach Linton Lehrer's Crookston Central Pirates in a district conference game.

On Wednesday afternoon, with game time at 4:00 p.m., the Climax Vikings will meet the Prowlers on the Fair Grounds diamond.

The Prowlers racked up a pair of wins this past week, on Thursday and Friday afternoons, to record their fourth and fifth triumphs of the season. On Thursday afternoon, in the play-off of a postponed game, the Prowlers defeated the Warren Ponies, 10 to 5. And on Friday afternoon, the locals defeated the Alvarado Indians, 10 to 7. Both games were played on the Fair Grounds diamond.

On Thursday afternoon, the Prowlers' Mickey Hanson and the Ponies' Howie Golden, both righthanders, hooked up in a fine pitching duel. The game score was 5 to 5 entering the last half of the 6th inning when, against Gary Strunk, who had taken over the pitching duties for the Ponies, the Prowlers shoved across five runs.

Dean Bergland unloaded a home run for the Prowlers in the 4th inning, scoring the singling Bob Hallameck to give the locals a 4 to 2 lead. The Ponies added a pair of runs in the top of the 5th inning, to knot the game at 4-all.

On Friday afternoon, with lefty Fred Jensen going the distance, the locals defeated the Alvarado Indians, 10 to 7.

The Prowlers, with Bergland banging out three hits in four tries, and Freddy Dablow also connecting for three for four, held a 10 to 2 lead entering the 7th inning.

The Indians, on some loose defensive play, and a pair of walks, loaded the bases in the 7th, and Maynard Dahlstrom promptly unloaded the sacks by hitting a "grand slam" home run.

The line score:

Warren .... 011 021 0 — 5 10 4
Thief River Falls 200 215 X — 10 6 1
Batteries—Golden, Strunk and Darrel, Sedlacek; Hanson and Berg.

Alvarado .... 200 000 5 — 7 [illegible]
Thief River Falls 310 141 X — 10 11 5
Batteries—Dahlstrom, Olson and Nelson; Jensen and Dablow, Wegge.

Bemidji Golfers Defeat Prowlers Thursday 261-271

Coach Jack Boyer's Prowler golf team dropped an invitational match to the Bemidji Lumberjacks on Thursday, losing by ten strokes, 261 to 271. Bemidji's Bill Hammergren, with a fine 78, won the medal honors, with Bemidji's John Ainley gaining runner-up honors with an 88. The Prowlers' John Larson and Jim Solheim, each of whom posted a 90, were deadlocked for third place. The locals' Daryl Williamson had a 91 for fourth place, and Bemidji's Fred Johnson carded a 93.

The Prowlers will play a return match against the Lumberjacks on Friday, May 10th, at Bemidji.

Prowler Tennis Team Wins Again

Defeat Crookston Last Thursday by 3-1 Margin

Continuing to show strength in their singles play, coach Dick Edlund's Prowler tennis squad, by a margin of 3 to 1, defeated the Crookston Central Pirates tennis squad on the East Side courts on Thursday afternoon.

The Prowlers will meet the Pirates in a return engagement on the Crookston courts on Monday afternoon.

In Thursday afternoon's matches, Kenny Jones, the Prowlers' number one man, defeated Crookston's Jerry Solheim, 10-8 and 8-6. Paul Bakke bested the Pirates' Jim Orr, 6-3 and 7-5; and Ken DeLap scored a 6-1 win over Crookston's Ronald Brown.

In doubles competition, the Crookston Pirates duo of Don Johnson and Roger Volden, by scores of 6-2 and 6-3, defeated the Prowlers doubles team of Gilson deSousa and Jim Kvikstad.

Thursday's triumph marked the third straight squad victory for coach Edlund's players; and it also marked the last appearance on the home court for the Prowlers in scheduled play. The Prowlers, in order, will play Crookston, Fertile, and Bemidji on "foreign" courts.

The district tournament, though, will be played here, being slated for May 13-17.

2 Minor Mishaps Thursday, Friday

Local Police Report Collisions on Street

Only two minor accidents have been reported in Thief River Falls since Thursday, none over the week-end.

City police reported one accident occurred when a car driven by Clara Stene (residence not given) hooked the left front bumper of a vehicle driven north on Main av. by Gust Gulseth, 4:35 p.m. Thursday.

About $25 damage was caused to the Stene vehicle and $20 to Gulseth's. No charges were filed.

Friday at 9:22 p.m. a car driven by Carol C. Carlson, Rt. 1, city, collided with a pickup truck parked near Borchert Trailer Sales. Minor damage reported amounted to about $35, mostly to the pickup, owned by Mike Antonoff, St. Hilaire route. No charges were filed.

Rural and trunk highways in the area were accident-free over the week-end, according to the sheriff and highway patrol.

Northern Woodwork Team City League Bowling Champs

The Soo Branchliners, winners of the Monday night Service league bowling championship, pose with the trophies they received at the annual banquet on Wednesday night. Left to right, front row, Phil LeGault and Cliff Stromberg. Back row, l. to r. Harry Ellefson, Art Burke, Len Hellquist, Harold Nelson and Wick Wickstrom. F-f-first S-skier on R-r-river!

The ice had been out of the river pool a little over two weeks when Gary Forsberg decided time was ripe to try out his water skiing legs — and at the same time make sure he was the first skier on the river this season. Pulling him in the boat are Don and Gary Thompson. Forsberg insists the water wasn't half bad but the spectators weren't convinced! At last report, however, Forsberg wasn't dead of pneumonia so perhaps he was right after all.

Harold Storhaug New Bowling Assn. Prexy

With the inimitable Orvis Oien presiding as toastmaster, the men's city bowling association put a "night-cap" to their 1956-57 season by holding their annual banquet at the Elks Club Wednesday evening.

The election of officers for the 1957-58 season was held, and the following were named: president, Harold Storhaug; directors, Gunsten Skomedal and Norman Wennberg; and secretary-treasurer, Ambrose Wysoski.

The awarding of trophies occupied much of the evening, with league champions, high-average bowlers, tournament winners, and individual tournament winners being honored.

Harold Storhaug was presented the city singles handicap tournament trophy by virtue of rolling a fine 877 in the tourney that was concluded last week.

In the city team tournament competition, Groslie's Pure Oil won the Wangenstein trophy, emblematic of the city tournament championship. Coast to Coast gained second place, and the V.F.W. earned third place.

The 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners in the various leagues were as follows: Service league—Soo Branchliners, Minneapolis Morning Tribune, and Groslie's Pure Oil. Business league—V. F. W., Elks Club, and Overvold Motors. Commercial league—St. Hilaire, Northern Chevrolet, and Eagles. City league—Northern Woodwork, LaFendrich Cigars, and Danny's Grocery.

The high average bowlers for the respective teams were as follows: Service league—Soo Branchliner, Len Hellquist, 167; Minneapolis Morning Tribune, Art Langseth, 168; Groslie's Pure Oil, Arlo Scholin, 163; Jaycees, Harold Storhaug, 171; Mentor Co-op, Jerry Super, 153; KTRF, Orville Gillespie, 167; Goodridge, Jim Salveson, 153; and American Legion, John Holzinger, 144.

Business league—VFW, Del Harbott, 173; Elks Club, Jesse DuChamp, 173; Overvold Motors, Jim Carrier, 162; Inga's, Ralph Krats, 161; Lakehead Pipeline, Bob Pahlen; Red Owl, Paul Henningsgaard, 153; High School Faculty, Ed Boughton, 157; and Land O'Lakes, C. Carlson, 146.

Commercial league—St. Hilaire, Joe St. Michel, 169; Northern Chevrolet, Roy Jorgenson, 156; Eagles, Emil Dostal, 165; Soo Mainliners, Ed Hamerski, 167; Bridgeman's, Dale Magner, 164; Sandvig's Grocery, 167; Forkenbrock Motors, Jack Forkenbrock, 137; and Issy's Tavern, Cliff Lofgren, 136.

City league—Northern Woodwork, Am Wysoski, 168; LaFendrich Cigars, Arlo Scholin, 164; Danny's Grocery, Orv Gillespie, 169; Argyle State Bank, Omer Deschene, 152; Steiner Farmers, Andy Nesland, 167; Jopprn's, Ralph Raymond; Hi Ways, Don Lokken; and Coast to Coast, Don Haugen, 156.

During the season, and in league competition, the high single game honors went to Lloyd Wiseth of Goodridge, who rolled a 279 game. The high three-game series was won by Cliff Stromberg, who amassed a total of 657 pins.

Sunny Skies Greet Area on Week-end

Ideal Weather Sunday Brings out Cars and Boats

Weather-watchers in the Thief River Falls-Pennington county area can go ahead with their gardening plans today and Tuesday as a benevolent weatherman continues to smile down on northwest Minnesota. The good drying weather will be a great boon to farmers.

The vast Canadian high pressure system which has dominated the area weather since last week's rainy spell continues to hold the reins on the weather so fair skies and pleasant, mild temperatures are predicted to last through Tuesday.

According to the Minneapolis Tribune weather map the only dark spot in the weather picture is a cold front which will probably move into the northwest sometime today, possibly causing some shower activity in northwestern North Dakota.

Meantime, the chill brought on by the big high pressure system has abated and Sunday's bright sunshine brought out local boating enthusiasts by the score to the city boat docks by the 3rd st. bridge. Motorists also crowded the area highways but no traffic fatalities were reported over the week-end, nor were any accidents recorded by the sheriff or highway patrol.

The high temperature for the period from Tuesday through Monday was 70 Sunday afternoon. Low was the frosty 28 recorded Saturday. Only a trace of precipitation fell during the period.

The forecast is for fair today and tonight and partly cloudy skies Tuesday. The high will be in the 70's and the low will range from 40 to 50. Winds will be southerly, 10 to 20 m.p.h. Drying conditions will be generally good.

Oil and natural gas account for about two-thirds of the heat and mechanical energy used in the United States.

It costs more than a hundred dollars an hour just to own an average oil tanker standing idle at the rock.

The Unappreciated Westrum

We've made numerous comments on the career of Clearbrook's Wes Westrum in Organized Baseball, having followed him all the way from the Plummer Red Sox, to the Crookston Pirates, to the Minneapolis Millers, and to the New York Giants.

And this week we received a clipping, taken from the New York Herald-American, and from Frank Graham's "Graham's Corner" colum. It's as follows:

"There was on the field also, of course, Willie Mays and Wes Westrum. A year ago, Rogers Hornsby, a harsh critic if there ever was one, yet one who never temporizes with the truth as he sees it, said: 'There are only two big leaguers on the Giants: Mays and Westrum'.

"That was before the deal was made that brought Red Schoendienst to the Polo Grounds and obviously, Rog hadn't included the pitchers in his survey or he must have come up with the name of Johnny Antonelli. But to me at least, long an admirer of Westrum, his appraisal of the catcher was important. Anybody who ever saw a big league game could stamp Willie Mays for what he is—a gifted and exciting young man on his way to greatness. But Westrum, curiously, had had to struggle for recognition of his worth to the Giants—and, tragically to often has lost out in the struggle.

"Westrum cannot hit. His average last year was .220, which, in that department, virtually is the story of his life.

"But who, in either league, with the sole exception of Yogi Berri, is his equal as a receiver and a top hand at running the club on defense. And do not forget that, with the kind of pitches the Giants have had lately, he's had to prove his skills the hard way."

Those words are a fine testimonial to Wes' value in the Giants scheme of things.

While Wes has proved himself a bona fide big leaguer, and conducted himself in such a manner as to reflect credit to the Westrum and Robinson clan, we cannot help but mull on the career that Wes' uncle, Merle (Smokey) Robinson would have had in "big time" baseball.

In our humble opinion, Oslo's famed Smokey Robinson was of major league potential. He had everything, and those of us who can recall those days when Oslo was a baseball "power," can remember Smokey's all-round class. He had a terrific arm — so terrific in fact that he was called on to do the pitching for Oslo — he was a strong batter, hitting in the clean-up spot in the Oslo batting order, and he was fleet of foot. And in addition, he had the physique of a Big Ten fullback.

Quote of the Week

Said Bridgeman's Bob Carlson: "I drove past the East Side diamond one evening last week and as I glanced at the playing field I was surprised to see a number of tractor tire inner-tubes being rolled around the bases. On a closer look, though, I discovered that it wasn't really tractor tire inner-tubes that I saw. It was several of the Bjorkman's softball team players having a workout."

End of quote.

Just a Guess

While we predicted last week that Sugar Ray Robinson would defeat Gene Fulmer, and which did happen, we aren't taking any bows or boasting about the prediction. It was strictly a guess.

And we'll venture the opinion that Fulmer, being only 25 years old, will regain the middleweight title. Not from Robinson, though.

We listened to the radio broadcast of last Wednesday night's fight, and until Robinson landed that left hook, the bout was a shade in favor of Fulmer.

We were mightily disappointed in the post-bout comments of Robinson. Sugar Ray gave all credit for his knockout victory to the many sincere prayers of his friends. When asked if his left hook wasn't a factor in the win, Robinson replied that God gave him the power to defeat Fulmer. Well, that may all be so, but judged by all reports and evidence, Fulmer, a devout member of the Mormon church, is a more admirable character than Robinson, and has more moral fiber than Robinson, too. It was in extremely bad taste, we thought.

We'll hope that Carmen Basilio, the welterweight champion, will give Robinson his come-uppance when they meet this fall.

In Fine Shape

With more than seventy golfers taking advantage of the mid-summer weather, the local golf course received a real play on Sunday.

The course, and they are playing all of the greens (except number nine, and they are using the practice green for number nine this week), is in excellent condition for this time of year. A good soaking rain would be beneficial to the fairways, and it's perhaps not too early to begin sprinkling the greens.

To Clear River of Deadheads Today

Clearing Bee Is Slated for This Evening at 6:30

Members of the newly organized Thief River Falls Water Sports Club will meet at the city boat park at 6:30 p.m. today for the club's "dead-head" gathering according to Stan Gibson, club secretary.

Object of the meet, to which all boating enthusiasts in the city and trade area are invited, is to clear all floating debris, trees, snags, etc., from the river and banks to reduce boating hazards.

Several chain saws will be on hand in addition to other equipment, in order to accomplish the work, Gibson said.

A Wiener roast will be held after the clean-up work.

Since the development of nylon back in 1938, the use of oil-based, man-made fibers has tripled.

H. Peterson Answers Hospital Questions

In connection with the observance of National Hospital week, opening Sunday, May 12, Harold W. Peterson, administrator of Northwestern Hospital, answers the following questions concerning the local institution.

1. What is the average age of patients who die in our hospital?

In order to find this figure we use a formula called the mean average. The total ages of patients dying in each age bracket are added up and divided by the number of total deaths. The resulting mean average age at death in 1955-56 was 70.29 years. The mean average for 1956-57 was 73.87 years. In the year ending April 30, 1957, 34 of the deaths were of patients in their 70's, 27 of patients in their 80's and 5 of patients in their 90's. Total deaths were 93.

2. What is the newborn death rate in Minesota?

The latest figures we have are from a study made by the section of maternal and child health of the Minnesota department of health for 1954. The Minnesota mortality rate for newborn infants then was 21.5 per 1000 live births. The newborn death rate at Northwestern Hospital for the 12 months ending April 30, 1957, was only 12.95 per 1000.

3. Do larger hospitals with a larger number of births have a better infant mortality rate than does our hospital?

The same study referred to above shows that in Minnesota hospitals in which from 500-999 babies are born each year, the infant mortality rate was 26.1 per 1000. Minnesota hospitals having from 300-399 births, such as ours, had an infant mortality rate of 14.7 per 1000. It seems pretty plain from this comparison that better nursing care in a smaller hospial has something to do with better survivial of babies in a hospital such as our own.

4. What is the importance of the hospital laboratory?

The hospital laboratory serves to greatly extend the skill of the doctor in making proper diagnoses of disease and to determine its progress from day to day. Our hospital laboratory is equipped with instruments and skilled technicians who can make at least 80 different kinds of tests accurately. During the month of April, 1957, our technicians performed 57 different kinds of tests.

5. How many laboratory tests are done in the course of a day; of a month; of a year?

Our technicians do about 75 tests every day of the year. The monthly average is 2,236 tests. In the last 12 months they performed 26,826 tests. Our hospital laboratory is probably one of the best equipped and one of the most active hospital labs in hospitals of this size in Minnesota. It contributes immeasurably to good patient and medical care.

Red Cross Drive Lagging in Nation

May Fall $10 Million Short of Goal for 1957

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said Thursday in Washington that the American Red Cross is in "very serious financial trouble" and may have to curtail its service to suffering humanity.

The former NATO European commander, who became president of the Red Cross early this year, said he has ordered the dismissal of 300 paid employes and a cut of $2,250,000 in the adminstrative budget of the national organization.

Gruenther revealed he has given up hope of reaching the 95-million-rollar goal the Red Cross set for its 1957 fund-raising drive.

The drive has been in progress two months instead of the customary one, with contributions to date totaling 78 million dollars. Red Cross chapters have been urged to "keep trying" through May, but Gruenther conceded that "we'll be lucky to get up to 85 million dollars."

No. Central Bid to Buy Airline Is Denied by Board

North Central Airlines attorneys will study the Civil Aeronautics Board's Lake Central Airlines acquisition case decision when it is published with a view of determinating possibility of taking it to the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

The board Tuesday announced its decision denying North Central's application for the purchase of Lake Central. The announcement was issued in press release form and does not constitute final decision which will be published later.

In Minneapolis, officials of North Central say they will pursue more vigorously the company's other applications call for an additional 10,000 route miles.

Thief River Falls Education Association

Upon public request a part of an address, "Is Johnny Dumber and Wilder?", which was delivered by Mr. Anderson at a recent meeting of the Knox P. T. A. is reproduced in this week's column.

More adults are engaged in the business of education than ever before.

Ten years ago there were 827,-900 teachers in the United States and 23,600,000 children attended school.

Last year there were 1,029,000 teachers and 29,200,000 school children in the United States. Estimates are there will be 1,-300,000 teachers needed during 1959-60 to teach 37,800,000 school children.

I give you these figures, even though statistics are often-times dry, only to emphasis that education is big business today and that it is growing bigger. I feel that every parent and every teacher should have, not only an understanding of the bigness of education, but must have an appreciation of the significance and importance of education in the world today. Parents and teachers need to have faith in the power and influence of education. When we read some articles appearing in our leading magazines and newspapers which are critical of education and its methods; it leads one to believe that we are passing through a crisis in education and that we had better renew our faith.

We hear the charge so often that Johnny can't read, that Johnny can't spell, that Johnny can't do arithmetic—in plain English that Johnny is dumber today than he was when you and I went to school. It has been printed and repeated so many times that actually there are folks reading this column that even believe it to be true and are losing faith in our schools.

Such thinking is not in keeping with the facts. You ought to know from the facts that American people at all age levels are far better educated today than they were 25 or 50 years ago. The evidence is overwhelming.

When we look back over the past 25 or 50 years, the educational achievements of our people are astounding. Our standard of living, our scientific and technological advancement, our economic gain and strength, our improved health conditions, our improved housing, etc., all point to a better educated people.

Let's not kid ourselves any longer. America is not the result of a decadent education. Rather, it is a brilliant tribute to what can happen when people put their faith in universal education.

The charge that Johnny is not taught to read in our schools today is not entirely true. To be sure, there are some Johnny's who cannot learn to read and they are even in our high schools. But there are plenty of Johnny's who could not and did not learn to read when you and I were attending the elementary schools. They dropped out of school before some of them even reached the eighth grade—and certainly did not enter our high schools. There were 36 of us who were classmates together when I finished the eighth grade, but only 12 of us completed the four years of high school. The twenty four Johnny's who dropped out were swallowed up in society and forgotten—and among them were the Johnny's who could not read.

PAUL E. ANDERSON

Director of secondary education in the local school sysem, received his B. A. degree from Concordia College, Moorhead and his master's degree from the University of North Dakota. Until coming to Thief River Falls last summer, he had been superintendent of schools at Karlstad from 1946 to 1956. He also held high school principalships at Mahnomen, Fertile and McIntosh before moving to Karlstad.

Yes, you skip the fact that our high schools today are accepting and keeping all youth, not just the good ones as when I went to high school. We ignore the fact that a standardized spelling test given to my senior class in 1927 is no longer standardized because the class that takes the test today is not stacked like my class was in 1927—the 12 best out of 36.

Did you know that in 1900 (50 years ago) there were 519,-000 boys and girls in our high schools and that in 1950 there were 5¾ million. High school attendance increased ten times while our total population during the same period only doubled itself.

Yes, our school of today educate all of the children and not just the few good ones. I wish I could teach only those youngsters with an IQ of over 100 as the high school teacher of twenty-five years ago could do. I might be happy too, to teach in the school of twenty-five years ago which had to provide nothing more than a book learning program. Today our schools have been asked to spread out and not only offer book learning to all children but also to assume the physical, social, civil and emotional development of the child as well. I am not complaining because I firmly believe that that is the way it ought to be—the all-around development of the individual instead of sole attention to intellectual growth. But let's remember these facts when we criticize our schools.

You know our schools can't be so bad and Johnny so dumb—for after all, who trained the folks who are reading this column—you are the products of the American school. Who trained the Johnnies who are accountants, our tax experts, to whom we entrust our most important arithmetical problems; who trained the Johnnies that are our scientists who have carried on scientific research and discovery beyond our comprehension, who trained our Johnnies who are our editors and publishers and authors who are writing and publishing more magazines and newspapers and books in the history of our nation.

Have you ever stopped at the newstands located in this very city and noticed the thousands of magazines, books and newspapers found on those racks? Someone must buy and read this literature—and I have a faint suspicion that they were taught to read by our schools. I do not mean to imply that our schools encourage the reading of much literature, but mention them to emphasize that someone must have taught reading in our schools.

It is also a popular pastime today to portray the shortage of needed scientists and engineers, and to pin the fault on our high schools. These people claim that fewer and fewer students are studying such subjects as mathematics and science in high school.

Did you know that in 1900, 436,000 students were studying science? Today, 3½ million students are studying science in American high schools. That in 1900, 416,000 students took math?—last year four million. To be sure the percentage of all students attending school in 1900 taking science and mathematics as compared to the same percentage today was greater. But remember, students are numbers, and not percentages.

America has made great progress on the road to education for all. As one American I am thankful to be a citizen of a country which conceives of education as the right of all and adjusts its processes to the needs of all. That alone is further evidence that in 1957 we are beter educated than we were fifty years ago—that Johnny is not Dumber but Brighter.

Old Fashioned Ideas

Without free speech no search for truth is possible; without free speech no discovery of truth is useful; without free speech progress is checked and the nations no longer march forward toward the nobler life which the future holds for man. Better a thousandfold abuse of free speech than denial of free speech. The abuse dies in a day, but the denial slays the life of the people and entombs the hope of the race.

Three School Districts

Three rural school districts in the Mavie community, now in the Goodridge high school area, wish to be placed in the Thief River Falls high school area and become a part of the Thief River Falls district. Residents of the three districts are almost unanimous in favoring such an arrangement.

This would mean reduced enrollment for Goodridge, and increased financial difficulty. The Goodridge opposition to the proposal is therefore understandable.

The problem is not of recent origin, but only recently has it been presented in a form that requires definite answers. Up to the present time Thief River Falls has maintained a neutral position, being sympathetic to the wishes, and the needs, of both groups.

The Goodridge high school has provided a needed service for a large area in eastern Pennington and Marshall counties and northwestern Beltrami. If the Goodridge high school were discontinued, providing high school facilities for the northern and eastern portions of the area would be a serious problem.

State school officials realize that the Goodridge-Grygla area presents an unusual situation that probably deserves special consideration by the state. A survey of the area's school problems, made several years ago by the University of Minnesota, was thorough and revealed all of the facts. There was little support anywhere in the area however, for the recommended solution. The study committee did have alternate proposals, but, as far as we know, these have not been given serious consideration.

The immediate question as to whether the three districts, now in the Goodridge high school area, should be permitted to join the Thief River Falls district, is important mainly because it will bring to a head the problem of providing high school facilities for the large area now served by Goodridge. And regardless of what disposition is made of the appeal of these three districts, the real problem in the Goodridge area remains substantially the same.

Certainly it is not fair to the citizens of the three districts in question to force upon them an arrangement that they believe to be contrary to their own best interests. They are not now a part of the Goodridge school district. They should have the right to determine for themselves what is best for them. The fact that the Goodridge school district needs help is not their problem.

As we see it it is a problem that will have to be resolved at the state level.

Another Session Ends

Another legislative session ended last week and almost within the 90 day limit. A one-day extra session along with the usual clock-covering was required to complete the work. It might be said, therefore, that it closed practically on schedule.

A constitutional amendment would be needed to authorize a longer session and such an amendment would be justified. Adding more days probably will not eliminate the end-of-the-session scramble, but considering the vast volume of business that now must be disposed of, the old limit, established a hundred years ago, does not provide sufficient time for adequate hearings and debate.

In recent years the legislature has done much to offset this time limit by interim study committees, assigned to special problems. Such committees have been very helpful in the law making procedure.

Membership on these interim committees generally includes representation from both houses and from both the majority and minority groups. Agreement among the members of such a committee therefore expedites the progress of recommended measures.

Without these interim studies and the work of the full-time legislative research staff the ninty day session would be hopelessly inadequate.

Thanks to You Too

Elsewhere in this issue Mrs. Jimmie Anderson expresses her appreciation for the cooperation she received in the coduct of her skating classes at the Arena last winter. In behalf of the community we wish to thank Mrs. Anderson for her effort to revive interest in an activity that needs encouragement.

In spite of a late start, good progress was made last season with the 40 children and 10 adults who were enrolled in her classes. With an earlier start and the advantage of last season's training, we may look forward to better results next season. Mrs. Anderson is well qualified to give instruction in skating and we hope there will be enough interest in her program to justify its expansion.

Subsidized Nursing Homes

(Windom Citizen)

The Governor continues to be very bitter about the fight against state grants to nursing homes, which he urged should be passed, and he charges defeat of the bill to private operators who, he says, acted from selfish motives.

But let's examine it a little farther. Don't we want private capital to provide all the services possible and leave to the state only those things that private enterprise will not or cannot furnish? Would it not be much wiser to encourage private capital to build our nursing homes? We can do that by the simple process of compelling the state Health department to be a little more reasonable in their demands. Their arbitrary rulings on nursing homes and hospitals are enough in themselves to frighten private capital away and put the burden on the taxpayers.

And can the Governor expect the people of such places as Mountain Lake, Jackson and Windom, who have already dug down in their pockets to provide such homes, to be enthusiastic about digging farther to help other communities that have not even tried to meet their need locally? In this mater we are sure that the legislature was wise in killing the bill.

Obscene Literature

(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

At least 13 places in Grand Rapids sell magazines and pocket-sized books which may include matter which is obscene or in exceedingly poor taste. That was part of the report of the Newsstand Literature Evaluation committee at the Youth and Community Council meeting on Tuesday evening.

The committee blames unscrupulous publishers and distributors for the mountains of filthy reading directed primarily at young or misguided readers. The committee is offering to help retailers remove obscene material placed on the magazine racks by distributors.

Memebrs of the committee are studying sources of information on what material is clearly obscene or otherwise objectionable. Where invited to do so they will look over the shelves of retailers and recommend removal of reading material which should not be offered to youths. The committee will seek the voluntary cooperation of retailers.

The Newsstand Literature Evaluation committee is to be commended for its willingness to undertake a difficult and thankless task. It is following a sound approach in asking for cooperation rather than threatening legal action.

But the work of the committee,no matter how well done, will not be enough. Ways must be found to interest youth in good reading material and to develop other normal healthy interests. These are the responsibilities of parents, schools, churches and the community generally.

Growing Tuberous Begonias

Tuberous begonias are ideal for partially shaded areas where many other plants will not flower. They can be grown on the north side of the house or in partial shade from trees. A large variety of flower types is available—for example, blooms that closely resemble roses, carnations, camelias, single dahlias and daffodils. You can also get a wide selection of color—from red, or orange to salmon, yellow pastel pink and snowy white.

• • •

Ample moisture is the requirement for growing high-quality tuberous begonias. Take care in watering them so they do not break with heavy streams of water.

• • •

Staking can prevent breakage where the plants are exposed to high winds and rainstorms. The stakes should be inserted in new soil and the stems supported by tying them to the stake.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

With the approach of the season during which Minnesotans spend a great proportion of their leisure time enjoying our many outdoor advantages, it is interesting to note that the Minnesota legislature has just created five new state parks. They will add to our already generous offering of recreational areas.

New State Parks

The new Frontenac state park contains 950 acres on the shores of Lake Pepin. It has great historic interest and natural beauty. The Mille Lacs Kathio arer on the shores of Lake Mille Lacs is 6,600 acre area, and will provide an especially desirable place for group camping. On the Cascare River, a new park includes 2,300 acres of land and spectacular cascades and falls. On another river on the north shore of Lake Superior, a small new park of only 110 acres contains the spectacular gorge of the Temperance River with the largest known potholes in the world. On the Arrowhead River the Bois Brule park area comprises 160 acres and includes two spectacular falls and a magnificent gorge.

Camping

Tourist camping in Minnesota has increased almost four-fold since 1947, and by over 35% from 1954 to 1956. Families with tents and trailers make good use of three modern buildings to provide facilities for such campers in Lake Bemidji, Lake Carlos, and McCarthy Beach state parks. These and other additional facilities provided during the past two years will make this kind of camping increasingly convenient and popular.

Organized Group Camping

Our state parks provide 10 camps with special facilities to accommodate group camping. The volume of use for this purpose is limited by accommodations, and preference is given to under privileged children's groups. Last summer we accommodated 34,712 camper days in these camps. For next summer we have reservation for 44,067 camper days. This increase is possible because the new camp at Whitewater is about 70% complete.

Continuing Improvements

Other improvements in Minnesota state parks include many new and improved picnic areas, new wells in many of the parks, and many major and minor repairs. The lodge at Itasca State Park has been renovated and substantially improved.

Naturalist Program

The University of Minnesota Museum of Natural History cooperates with us to provide a program of historic and scientific information in our state parks. This program is highly popular, and has expanded to include four naturalists working at Itasca, Gooseberry Falls, and Whitewater. In addition, self-guiding nature trails are established and maintained at Kilen Woods, Fort Ridgely, Interstate, Scenic and St. Croix Parks.

PUBLIC OPINION

"Huck" Olson
Thief River Falls Times
Dear "Huck"

Ever since settling in New York following World War II, I've continued reading the "Times" and, being pretty much interested in all sports, I find your column of great interest.

Now that baseball is in full swing again, I'm rooting once more for the Giants. They appeal to me for the simple reason that Wes Westrum is on the team. Have often read comments in your column about Wes. Despite his anemic hitting of late, he is still one of the best catchers in the business. Thought you might like the enclosed clipping from the N. Y. Journal American in praise of Wes.

Hockey, of course, is of great interest to me. I might say I "eat up" all bits of information you have about local teams and former players of that area (TRF). I believe the home brand of hockey is far superior to local or New England type—that is, in the grade and high school level. Of particular interest to me are the doings of my classmates in Lincoln high—the class of 1938. They did pretty well in athletics that year.

My brother Lolyd played football and was a star half-miler in the class of 1932—Roger Dooley was the coach. My brother Jimmy (class of '31) also played football and I think he was a high jumper in track. Lloyd is quite a rabid fisherman, and this past December came to New York just to go deep-sea fishing. (So he said.) Well, we did go out for cod on Saturday and at least we weren't skunked, and we had a lot of fun.

Incidentally, my job with transfilm is to design and render TV commercials. Possibily you may have seen some of the cartoons for Gillette razor blades or the U. S. Rubber commercials used during football season. The former are used year round. Also have done cartoons used on Nash-Rambler Disneyland program. And also some Old Gold commercials.

Once again, may I say I thoroughly enjoy your column.

Sincerely yours,
Stan Newland

SOMETIMES THINGS JUST GO ON AND ON

When her radio went silent a handy Staples homemaker got out pliers, wrench, and screwdriver and did a first-class repair job on the instrument; pretty soon the news was coming in clear and strong and the first item was that power failure had kept the station off the air for an hour or so. . . The village guardian in Cohasset took out after an east-bound speeder, found it trying to beat the stork to a Grand Rapids hospital, helped 'em through town, and started back; here goes one the opposite direction with more speed than caution; another chase, another expectant mother heading for the Deer River hospital. . . A Sleepy Eye young woman in a Winona convent is permitted to write home once a month; no restriction on how much she writes; last letter was typed on normal width paper six feet long.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare

Mother On The Spot

What is a good parent? So much had been said about the working mother and what happens to her children that Merry Carson vowed she would stay home with her two young sons until they reached school age. A more dedicated mother would be hard to find. Merry's boundless energy and social sensitivity made her aware of Johnny's and Tommy's every need.

Neighbors at first marvelled at how Merry seemed to be on the spot with Kleenex—a band-aid—a cool drink—a sweater—an extra wheel. Everthing went smoothly for her boys. Merry saw to that. There was no heed even for a voice raised in protest.

Until they were three and four Johnny and Tommy played together in perfect harmony—they were self-sufficient. Soon, however, other neighborhood children tried to enter the scene—and the noise could be heard from here to there!

Also, other young housewives began making fun of Merry—perhaps out of feelings of guilt toward such perfection. Paula Wheeler, when she saw her friend Sue Andrews spring to help her Bobby button his coat, quipped, "What are you doing, Sue, pulling a Merry?

Tommy and Johnny had a bad time of it before they could crack the shell of this small protected world—for indeed the time came when this little world was not big enough, and the best of mothers could not make it so.

Generalizations about parenthood come easily, but if there is one simple truth it is probably that there is no one type of good parent. Each family must find its own answers. Usually the best plan, from a long range point of view does not lie in anyone completely dedicating a life to others' imagined needs. The human animal, even the very young, just has to do things for himself—which is natures' way of preparing it for that day when there is no Merry to hover nearby.

Improvement Campaign Is In Its Second Year

Under the slogan "Better Your Living," the nation's huge home improvement crusade is now swinging into its second year. Government agencies, civic organizations and all types of business concerns interested in the rapidly expanding home improvement market are cooperating in the campaign which is called Operation Home Improvement.

Originally suggested by President Eisenhower, the movement brings government-industry teamwork into effective action to stimulate increased interest on the part of homeowners in keeping their homes up to date.

In 1956, the first year of the campaign, more than 1,000 cities and towns had concerted OHI drives with highly gratifying results.

The nationwide increase in home improvement lending was about 25 percent. The overall increase in the home improvement industry's activity, spurred on by the OHI campaign, was also approximately 25 percent, making the industry's total volume about $15 billion for the year. This total was, for the first time in a decade, higher than the total dollar volume of new home building.

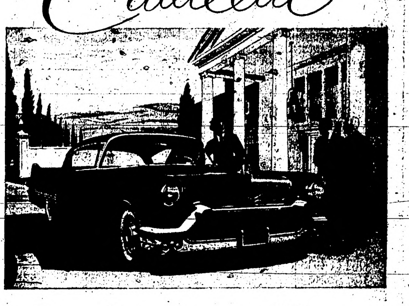
Cadillac



Third Generation at the Wheel!

"Like father, like son", the poets say.

And never was it truer than in the case of a great many fine Cadillac families.

For there are, in our land today, a number of families that currently boast as many as three generations at the wheel.

We mention this simply to underscore a great and dramatic truth about Cadillac—that, of course, is its unchanging goodness and quality.

For fifty-five years, the Cadillac name has signified one and the same thing to motorists everywhere—a motor car created at the highest level that automotive science would permit.

Over that time, Cadillac has attracted to the ranks of its owners the finest list of names to be found anywhere on the American motoring scene.

And, those who have followed the path to Cadillac in 1957 are enjoying the most abundant blessings of this ceaseless crusade for quality.

The new "car of cars", with coachcraft by Fleetwood, is beautiful and luxurious to an unprecedented degree. And its performance and handling ease are a revelation!

Certainly, the Cadillac car has now become an even wiser investment for an even wider circle of America's motorists.

If you have yet to acquaint yourself with these brilliant Cadillac virtues for 1957, your dealer will be delighted to tell you how easily you can make Cadillac a fine family custom of your own!

Improvement Program Can Lead, Step-by-Step, to the 'Dream Kitchen'

In the spring, when a women's fancy turns to thoughts of modernizing her home, the kitchen is quite apt to loom first and foremost in her mind's eye. Who, indeed, could expect it to be otherwise? For her kitchen is her home-making center where she spends so much of her time.

Quite often, a completely remodelled kitchen is the objective. Finances permitting, this is all to the good. On the other hand, even if the budget does not permit doing everything at once, you can still get started forthwith on the project of up-dating your kitchen.

There are so many things (each in itself relatively inexpensive) that can be done to improve a kitchen that there is really no reason for waiting. Step by step, you can achieve your ultimate aim of a "dream kitchen," and in the meanwhile enjoy the individual improvements as they are made.

For instance, you can do wonderful things for a kitchen with color. It can make a dark room light, a big one cozy, a small one important.

Darker shades bring walls "closer," pale tones "push" them out. White, grays, blues, and greens are cool and restful. Reds, yellows, pinks, and beige are warm and cheerful. Ceilings appear taller when painted light colors, lower when a darker shade then the wall color.

Colorful Surfaces

Work surface coverings add color and can be used in the same shades as walls or in contrasting shades, as desired. Most commonly used materials are linoleum, plastics, wood or stainless steel. Linoleum is excellent for countertops because its resiliency decreases breakage. Other surfaces include tile, heat-treated glass, acid-resistant porcelain enamel, tempered pressed wood and rubber composition plastics.

If you decide to start your kitchen improvements "from the ground up," you should choose a floor covering that is both dirt and grease-resistant. Linoleum, rubber tile, asphalt title and vinyl plastics are all good. Marbilized or Jaspe linoleum is easy to care for.

Wall coverings, too, come in a variety of materials. You can use tiling, thin gauge linoleum paint or wall paper.

Adequate cabinet space, designed and located to save time, steps and effort is basic to a modern kitchen. On the unit-by-unit replacement plan, even a modest budget will permit the improvement program to be launched at once.

Wall and base cabinet units can be arranged in scores of different ways to create a kitchen that is really "personalized."

New Gas Ranges

Appliance-wise, a new gas range may well rate top priority in your "Operation Kitchen Improvement." Today, homemakers look first of all for the top burner heat control, so that they may enjoy the luxury of automatic cooking on top-of-the-range, as well as in the oven. The minute a cooking operation is started, the top burner heat control takes over, turning every pot and pan into an automatic cooking vessel.

Also important are the extra-wide broilers that give the incomparable flavor of food cooked by direct flame. Ovens are correspondingly oversized and hold an incredible amount, even in 24-inch and 34-inch models, and practically every make is equipped with an automatic oven clock oven "absentee" cooking.

WHEN SAILING'S CLEAR A MISHAP'S NEAR

When it seems to be "clear sailing" is the time to "slow down and live", according to an analysis of 1956 highway accidents by Travelers Insurance Company. Nearly 97% of the drivers involved in accidents last year had a year or more of driving experience, 96% of the vehicles involved were apparently first class shape, and bad driving conditions in less than 15% of the mishaps. Men were driving in 89.7% of the fatal 1956 accidents, 28% of them were under 25, and 22% of the crashes occurred on Saturday. Passenger cars were involved in 80% of the highway fatalities, commercial vehicles 17%, motorcycles 1.4% busses 1%, taxicabs 2%.

New Look for Home a Face Lifting Job

In many a family circle, first thoughts of home improvement will turn, this year, to the matter of "face lifting," with a view to giving the home's exterior a completely new look via one or more of the many new (and old) siding materials now available.

The most common material for resurfacing is wood (Redwood, cedar, Douglas fir and white pine) which presents itself in a variety of siding types.

Most popular is bevel or lap siding, applied horizontally, with the lower edge thicker than the upper. Wide panels (8 and 10 inches) are favored today over the 4- and 6-inch widths seen in older houses. Drop siding, which has a groove cut along one edge is also applied horizontally and lapped.

For Sheltered Areas

Vertical applications include board and batten siding (wide boards with narrow battens covering the joints) and tongue and groove paneling, which is especially adaptable to sheltered areas.

Cedar shakes and shingles make an attractive exterior wall, high in insulation value. The cedar shingle single-course exterior has proven extremely popular. If a double-coursed wall is desired, economical cedar shingle undercoursing is laid first. The distinctive grooved or striated cedar shake is then laid directly over the undercoursing, with a resulting rich, deep shadow line, emphasizing the horizontal lines of the house.

Asbestos-cement siding shingles are obtainable in many colors, impregnated into the material, which is very hard and fireproof.

Hardboard, made of heat-and pressure-treated wood fibers, is available in wide panel horizontal lap siding, applied with aluminum strips, and vertically scored siding, which is applied in large sheets.

In Various Colors

Aluminum siding, in various colors, comes in long lengths for application as horizontal lap-siding.

Insulating siding consists of fiber panels and shingles with facing of asphalt and mineral granules, and affords a thrifty approach to house "face lifting."

Plywood siding provides a durable exterior surfacing. It comes in large panels; which facilitate application, and in a variety of patterns.

Thin, light, masonary veneers are entering the resurfacing market in a big way.

Installation of Tile Flooring Simplified for Home Owners

Here are seven suggestions for laying a new tile floor:

1. Needed materials: Notched trowel, tile knife, chalk and chalk string for measuring, awl and a tape measure or rule. For wood undercovering floors you need Pound asphalt felt paper, linoleum paste and clay emulsion cement.

2. Lift molding from around edge of floor so tile can be layed flush to the wall. Remove old floor covering, paint, wax and foreign matter.

3. If he wood underfloor is a bit warped, install over the floor ¼-inch plywood nailed every 6 inches throughout. Cracks and holes should be filled with filler or wood putty.

4. Lay felt paper at right angles to the wood boards. After fitting felt strips, pull one side back and spread linoleum paste on floor in thin, even coat, press felt paper down firmly and then do other half. Repeat this process until felt paper is down securely in all parts of room.

5. Get the exact center of the room by marking the middle of one wall and than the other, repeating the procedure with the other two walls. By connecting these points with chalk-covered string and then snapping the string, an accurate guide line is imprinted on the felt.

6. To get the border, start from the center and dry-lay on one line of tiles in each direction in order to see how much room is needed.

7. Actual tile laying is the next step. Starting at the midpoint of the guidline, spread clay emulsion cement over an area just large enough for comfortable reaching. Lay each tile firmly against those already layed and press down with a minimum of "sliding."

STATE FARM AID BELOW AVERAGE

Federal Reserve reports cash receipts from 1956 farm marketing, for the country as a whole, 247,500,000; nationally government payments amounted to 1.88% of the cash revenue, while in Minnesota the government proportion was down to .56%; home consumption nationally was 5.84% of cash sales, in Minnesota 4.50%. That Minnesota farmers may be a little better housed than in other states seems to be indicated by a rental proportion for the nation of 5.58%, in Minnesota 5.76%. Production expenses were somewhat less in Minnesota, proportionately: 71.40% of cash sales compared with 73.81% nationally. Net income ran pretty close: 34.10% of gross farm income nationally, 35.92% in Minnesota.

In 1956, mines on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway shipped 66,000,000 tons of coal, or 13.2 per cent of all coal mined in the United States.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Contouring Tip—Planting corn around the hill on the contour may mean several bushels more per acre at harvest—if rainfall is short this summer. Now's the time to ask your SCS farm planner to lay out a contour system for you. This suggestion comes from Harold E. Jones, Extension soils specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Shelterbelts Help—A Wright County vegetable grower, Daryl Johnston, reports tremendous benefits from shelterbelts on his sandy soils. He claims they increase his vegetable yields and improve their quality. The tree belts apparently prevent hot south winds from searing the tender plants and drawing their "drinking water" out of the soil. Buds and blossoms seem to develop better under such protection.

Winner's Statement—The winner of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune's conservation contest, Wilton Bunke, Winona County, is a member of the Whitewater Soil Conservation District. He recalls that when his father was operating the farm they once met difficulty in providing feed for 50 head of livestock. Today, however, after 10 years of conservation farming and the soil improvement that follows along, Bunke now has over 100 head of cattle and is feeding 300 sheep. Last year he sold 200 hogs. All this stock is fed home-grown feed. He figures his crop production increase about three times higher than the old way.

Flood Contol Value— Here's an interesting story of farm flood control. Last June, Arnold Putzier of Lewiston, Winona County, built three ponds above one of his corn fields. Their purpose—to prevent water cutting down through the corn fields in the bottomland and tearing out both crop and soil. In July and August, two heavy rains filled two of the three ponds. Putzier believes the flood control and crop-saving value of these ponds paid their cost that summer. Corn on the bottomland was not damaged in anyway and yielded very well.

The Bureau of Mines expects final 1956 statistics to show that 65 per cent of bituminous coal production for the year was cleaned mechanically before delivery to customers.

Well over 700 oil companies hold producing leases in the East Texas field.

Big jet planes will use some 12,000 gallons of jet fuel for a 6½ hour flight from New York to Paris while flying about 600 miles an hour.

Keystone Coal Buyers Manual anticipates a rise in coal requirements of the Tennessee Valley Authority to 24,000,00 tons a year, by 1960. In 1955, last year which statistics are available, TVA burned 15,215,513 tons of coal.

The annual Armed Forces Day open house will be held at the Bemidji Air Defense filter center on Saturday, May 18, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Visitors will be conducted on a tour of the various offices of the filter center and receive a detailed briefing in the operations room. They will be able to watch actual calls coming in from the ground observer posts and see how they are recorded, filtered and tracked on the large plexiglass plotting board, and if necessary, passed to the radar station at Finland, Minnesota.

A program is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the basement of the First Presbyterian Church at 5th and Minnesota Avenue. Al Crowser, secretary of the Civic and Commerce association, will be the master of ceremonies. Guest speaker will be Lt. Col. Robert L. Thompson, commander of the 4672nd Ground Observer Squadron at Snelling Air Force Station, Minneapolis, who will present awards to filter center volunteers. Bill Bender's German Band will play favorite selections.

On display for the open house will be booths of the Air Force, Army and Navy and a six foot model of the F-102 jet interceptor, which is a replica of the aircraft stationed at Duluth Air Force Base. Civil Defense rescue vehicles will be on display in the street in front of the building. In the lounge of the filter center will be free coffee and cookies for refreshment. Several military men and volunteer members of the Ground Observer Corps will be on hand to answer questions and give any assistance necessary.

Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. will receive 1,200,000 tons of coal annually by pipeline, beginning shortly. This is equal to 55 carloads of coal every day in the year. The coal will travel from Cadiz, O., to Eastlake, O.

Make Good Progress On New St. John's Church

Footings have been poured and laying the basement walls is the next step on the new St. John's Lutheran church here when this picture was taken. Blocks are stacked in the excavation, where they were stacked by members of the congregation, who voluntarily hauled them, and Stan Ranum's construction crew. This is, so far, the largest construction project gotten under way this spring. Members of the congregation are helping to build the new church at E. 1st and Pine av.

New Church Construction Crew Takes Coffee Break

Wives of men working on St. John's Lutheran church as volunteer laborers brought lunch and coffee to the construction when this picture was taken in the basement excavation a week ago. Left to right here are Mrs. Ferd Harbott, Mrs. Lloyd Spray, Carl Zinter, Chris Anton, Stan Ranum, contractor, Harry Ranum, Ferd Harbott and James Jarshaw.

Governor Objects to Centennial Bill

Signs Bill, But Says Too Much Money Was Voted

Gov. Freeman Thursday signed the 22 bills passed Thursday in a one-day extra session of the 1957 Minnesota legislature.

He commended the legislature for its generosity in the field of education as he signed a 236-million-dollar educational bill.

But he criticized a $1,100,000 appropriation in the education bill for celebration of the Minnesota centennial year in 1958.

He said he recognized that a "realistic and well-planned centennial celebration is absolutely necessary," but that more than one million dollars was excessive.

"If it were within my power to decrease this item," he said in a prepared statement, "I would do so."

Freeman said that because the legislature had gone home, and thus cannot adopt a smaller appropriation if he were to veto the one in the bill, "I am forced to affix my signature to what I consider an excessive amount."

4-H'ers to Have Exchange Program

Minnesota Club Members to Visit Manitoba Farms

A three-year exchange program between 4-H members in Minnesota and Manitoba, Canada, was announced today by Earl Bergerud, district 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Dates of the exchange have been set for June 28-July 12. One club member from each of 30 different Minnesota counties will be selected to take part in the new program.

The Minnesota 4-H'ers will spend a week living in farm homes of Canadian club members in central Manitoba. According to Bergerud, who will accompany the groups, the heart of the program will be in actual living and working with 4-H'ers from Manitoba and observing typical farming conditions there.

The groups will travel by chartered bus to Manitoba, where their first stop will be Brandon. There they will visit the agricultural school and attend the provincial exhibition. Before returning to Minnesota they will spend a day seeing Winnipeg.

On the return phase of the exchange, a group of 4-H club members from Manitoba will visit the Minnesota Fair.

The Minnesota and Manitoba Agricultural Extension Services are sponsoring the exchange program with financial support from the Minneapolis Tribune.

For six years Minnesota 4-H'ers participated in an exchange program with Mississippi.

County Board Defers Action on School Plea

To Consider Action on Movie Districts at Session May 21

Petitions of residents of School Districts 15 and 46 in Pennington county and 76 in Marshall county for consolidation with the Thief River Falls district, No. 18 were again discussed at the May meeting of the Pennington county board Tuesday.

Any action in the matter was deferred until a special meeting of the board Tuesday evening, May 21, at 9:30, following a welfare board meeting, due to the absence from this week's session of Glenn Tasa, board chairman, who was ill.

The Goodridge district, No. 8, is seeking to have the county board deny the petitions and, instead, make the three districts a part of the Goodridge district. The Thief River Falls district has taken a neutral stand in the matter.

The board at Tuesday's session voted its usual appropriation of $1,250 to aid in financing rural library service thru the local Carnegie public library. The Pennington county safety council also was allotted $100 to aid in its efforts to promote safety practices.

The board took action to approve a petition for the repair of County Ditch 33 in Smiley and Silverton townships. Petitions also were submitted for two small ditch projects in Hickory township, and Engineer Joseph Seidel was instructed to draw up preliminary plans for the work.

Seidel and County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr were authorized to advertise for bids on a new or used pneumatic-tired road roller, the bids to be opened June 4.

The district meeting will be conducted by H. R. Helle, chairman of the board and also secretary of the local aerie. Harry Hendrickson also is board member of District No. 2, which comprises Park Rapids, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Hallock and Thief River Falls.

Plummer Finishes School Financing

Residents of the Plummer school district, No. 16, in a special election Tuesday, approved by a decisive margin two proposals designed to complete the financing of a $225,000 school construction project.

On the first question of granting authority to the board of education to use $36,000 from the general fund to supplement a recently authorized $160,000 bond issue, the vote was 238 for and 137 against.

On the second question of whether or not to authorize the issuance of an additional $25,000 in bonds, the vote was 232 for and 142 against.

The building project calls for construction of a gymnasium-auditorium, an agriculture shop and three additional classrooms.

Duo-pianists in Concert Monday

One of the Midwest's most popular concert attractions, the brilliant two-piano team of Hansen and DeDell, will present the last concert of the Northwest Concert Association's series this season on Monday, May 13 at 8:00 p. m. at the high school auditorium.

This piano duo has been praised from Wisconsin to California, and from Montana to Texas by critics who have applauded their interpretative gifts, uncanny teamwork and perfection of coordination. The appreciation of their audiences is further attested by the fact that they are one of very few artists who have ever toured in the Midwest for seven consecutive seasons.

Such success is all the more impressive when one considers that Hansen and DeDell first began playing two piano music for their own amusement following their marriage in 1945. Both were solo artists and continued to pursue separate careers until the enthusiastic comments of friends and fellow musicians brought about their first two piano recital.

Hansen and DeDell have planned a widely varied program for listeners in Thief River Falls, ranging from one of the best known of the works originally written for two pianos and special arrangements of brilliant orchestral works such as "Polovtsian Dances" and the familiar Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," to Strauss Waltzes, "Chicken Reel" and "Jamaican Rumba."

Admission to the concert is by membership in the concert association.

Council Seeks Bids on Power Plant Project

Bids to Be Opened Tuesday, June 4, on $160,000 Project

The city council at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon voted to call for bids on a large project at the municipal power plant made necessary by the rapid increase in recent years in use of electrical current by local residents.

The work on which bids will be opened Tuesday, June 4, at 1 p.m., will include the furnishing and installation of switchgear equipment in a new addition to be built onto the present power plant structure.

Douglas Stewart, city engineer, estimated the cost of the project at approximately $160,000. Financing the work will involve a bond issue, and arrangements are being made for a conference with J. G. Evenson, Minneapolis bond consultant, on details of this phase of the project.

The call for bids, published elsewhere in this issue of the Times, asks for proposals for furnishing and installing new switchgear equipment for five generators; one Bureau power tie, four feeder circuits, one station auxiliary power, together with miscellaneous wiring and installations; and for construction of a switchgear building addition measuring 26 by 28 feet.

At Tuesday's session the council heard a request from a representative of the Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha, Nebraska, operating as the Peoples Natural Gas Co. for a franchise to supply this city with natural gas. Action in the matter was deferred.

A pre-school clinic will not be held this year. Each child was given an authorization slip which entitles him to receive a free check-up and free pre-school shots by appointment with his family doctor during the summer months.

Permits were given to the children which will entitle each child to a free examination at one of the local optometrists' in May and June. These permits must be presented to the optometrist at the time of examination.

Pink dental cards were issued to the children also. It is suggested that the child's teeth be examined by a dentist during the summer months. After examination, the dentist will sign the card and this should be brought to school when the child enters next fall.

If the child's birth certificate wasn't brought to the roundup, it must be presented at the time of his school entrance in the fall. This can be obtained at the clerk of court's office in the county where the child was born. A hospital birth certificate is not considered a legal certificate.

U. S. Potato Market Pact Is Topic May 20

A hearing on a proposed Federal potato marketing agreement for the Red River Valley will be held at the city hall in Grand Forks starting at 9:30 a.m., Monday, May 20, and continuing for as many days as are necessary. The proposed Marketing Agreement was developed by the Red River Valley Potato Growers association following meetings held with the potato growers in February, who unanimously favored development of a marketing agreement and giving the growers the opportunity to vote on the question at a referendum. A marketing agreement for the Red River Valley was also urged by a committee of some sixty Valley growers, shippers, and processors at a meeting in March.

Marketing agreements come under the Agriculture Marketing Act of 1937. It is primarily an enabling act permitting a commodity group, such as potatoes, to regulate itself to give a greater return to producers and at the same time improve on the product going to markets by establishing standards of quality, thus increasing demand and acceptance for the product.

The purpose of the hearing is to give the persons in the industry an opportunity to testify on the need for the program and the contents of the marketing agreement.

An industry committee, consisting of John P. Bushee, chairman of the Red River Valley Potato Control board; Obert Grover, president of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association, Art Nelson, Northwood; Cliff Moquist, Crystal; and Montelle Boone, Grafton, was set up by the Potato Growers Association to handle arrangements for the hearing and to conduct the educational meeting prior to the referendum.

Following the hearing, a referendum will be held by the Department of Agriculture to give all growers an opportunity to vote for, or against, the proposed marketing agreement. Two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum by number, or volume, must favor the referendum before it would go into effect. Operation of the marketing agreement by a committee of fourteen growers representing various sections of the Red River Valley, would be elected by the growers.

The federal marketing agreement, if approved, would be operated in conjunction with the program under which the Red River Valley has been operating for the past few years.

Industry leaders feel that a marketing agreement is an essential part of the improvement program which has been adopted by the Red River Valley. The Valley has made strides in recent years in putting a better quality on the market and has created much wider consumer acceptance of its product than in former years. Years of surplus production, such as 1956, result in ruinous prices to the grower. The marketing agreement will make it possible for the industry to more nearly adjust supplies going to market with market requirements, thus tending to lessen the extreme price declines in years of surplus.

16 Penalized in Municipal Court

Stiff Fines Meted out by Judge H. O. Chommie

Monday was a busy day in municipal court as 16 persons faced Judge H. O. Chommie on 17 charges brought against them by the sheriff and city police. Three others forfeited bonds.

The charges were about evenly divided between traffic violations and miscellaneous offenses involving drinking, fighting, etc.

The only patrol case listed this week was that of Carsten H. Dahl, Winger, who forfeited $15 bond for driving a vehicle over the legal width.

Sheriff Charles Richards had four cases before Chommie. These were:

Earl Woods, Oklee (case from April 18) pleaded guilty to fighting, was fined $10 plus $5.50 costs.

Harvey Ellason, 18, and Orlin Lerol, both of Goodridge, drew 30 day jail sentences and each paid $5.50 costs, of which the jail terms were suspended after both pleaded guilty to furnishing beer to minors.

Their cases grew out of city police arrests of Harvey Uglem, 18, Goodridge, and a minor who were drunk in a city cafe recently. Uglem and the minor drew 15-day suspended sentences on the drunkenness charge.

The other sheriff's case was that of Grant Adamson, Grand Forks, N. D., who pleaded guilty and was fined $50 plus $15 costs on a careless driving charge and also pleaded guilty to driving without a drivers license, which drew another $50 fine plus $5.50 costs.

City police cases were:

Archie L. Aubol, Crookston, driving under the influence, fined $100 plus $5 costs after guilty plea. (All cases noted here pleaded guilty unless otherwise specified.)

Vincent O. Kagg, city driving under the influence, fined $100 plus $5 costs and his license plates and registration card were impounded.

James C. Cutt, Hallock, forfeited $125 bond on a charge of driving under the influence.

Dedrick Knutson, city, failure to heed stop sign, fined $5 plus $4 costs.

John D. Winchester, Deer River, driving in violation of restrictions on his student permit (driving without licensed person in car) forfeited $30 bond.

Ruth Sauve, city, no drivers license, $25 and $4 costs suspended.

Robert LeRoy Thaland, city, no muffler, $5 fine and $4 costs.

Wayne C. Erickson, Plummer, careless driving, $10 plus $4, suspended.

William Geo. Gunder, address not given, vagrancy, 30 days in jail.

Gerald H. Sjolsvold, 18, St. Hilaire, liquor in possession, 15 days in jail, suspended and Ronald H. Ebbinghausen, city, same offense, same sentence and disposition.

Roy Runnestrand, city, charged with fighting, was fined $25.

Art Gullerud, city, drunk and disorderly, was given 10 days in jail.

Missouri Synod's State Centennial to Be Noted Here

In special festival services Sunday, in the outdoor theatre at 9:00 A. M. and in the church at 11:15, St. John's Lutheran congregation will observe the 100th anniversary of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's work in Minnesota. St. John's congregation postponed its observance from last year, actual year of the anniversary.

The first minister of this church body to work in Minnesota was the Rev. Ferdinand Sievers who came from Michigan in 1856 to make exploratory visits in the Twin City area and as far north as Brainerd. He established Trinity First Lutheran Church Minneapolis and other churches. Actual year of organization of Minnesota District, at that time including also Montana and the Dakotas, was 1882.

St. John's church in Thief River Falls was founded in 1895 by the Rev. G. Drews of Wylie, and today has a membership of 400.

The state-wide centennial project of the Minnesota District is the erection of new dormitory space at Concordia College in St. Paul which is to cost $300,000.

Lincoln Ball Club Edges Crookston

In a well played district conference high school baseball game played at Crookston on Monday evening, and which developed into a pitching duel between the Prowlers' Bob Hallameck and the Pirates' Bill Taylor, coach Ralph Skjod's club, scoring a run in the top of the 8th inning, defeated Crookston, 2 to 1.

This week's schedule will find the Prowlers "on the road" on Friday, meeting the Bagley Flyers at Bagley at 2:00 p.m., and then meeting Erskine at Erskine at 5:30 p.m. On Monday afternoon, May 13, the Crookston Pirates will play a return game against the Prowlers, with game time at the Fair Grounds being slated for 4:00 p.m. The year's first night game is billed for Tuesday night when, at 8:00 p.m., the Halstad Pirates will meet the Prowlers on the Fair Grounds diamond.

On Monday afternoon at Crookston, the Prowlers made their first scoring threat in the 2nd inning when, with two men out, Harlie Drees walked, Jerry Jorgenson was safe on an error, and Lee Johnson singled to fill the bases. Keith Johnson popped out to shortstop to end the scoring opportunity.

In the 5th, Dave Berg opened with a single, and scored when Fred Dablow poled a double. Dean Bergland flied out, Ross Sloan hit into a fielders choice, with Dablow being erased at third. Sloan was out stealing, catcher to second.

In the last half of the 5th, Crookston evened the score at 1-all. With one out, Jim McWaters singled. Bill Taylor was safe on a fielder's choice, with McWaters being out at second. Taylor stole second, and then scored on Bob Lyngholm's single.

In the game-winning 8th inning, Hallameck was out, pitcher to first; Berg, getting his second hit in three tries, singled; Dablow hit into a force play, second to short, retiring Berg; Bergland singled sending Dablow to third, and on an error by Lyngholm, Dablow scored what proved to be the game-winning run.

Crookston made a threat to get back into the game in their half of the 8th inning when, with one out, Roger McWaters was safe on an error. Jim McWaters sacrificed, catcher to first, moving Roger to second base. Clean-up batter Bill Taylor was out on a fly ball to left field, ending the game.

While both pitchers, Hallameck of the Prowlers and Taylor for the Pirates, gave up but five hits, Hallameck had a heavy edge in the strikeout department, whiffing 11 Pirates, while Taylor struck out but three Prowlers.

The line score:

Thief River Falls	000 100 01	2	5	2
Crookston	000 010 00	1	5	3

Batteries—Hallameck and Berg; Taylor and Tollefson.

Many Groups Apply for Camp Permits in State Parks

Most Campers on Record to Use Park Facilities This Year, Says Director

The applications for group camping in the state parks this summer by youth and adults groups indicates an increase of 10,000 camper days and nearly 5,000 individuals over last year, which will be the largest number of group campers ever to use the parks, U. W. Hella, director of the division of state parks, reported today.

Group camps, accommodating from 20 to 135 campers at one time, have been constructed in 8 state parks with a total of about 800 campers at any given time. The group camps are located in Camden, Flandrau, Itasca, Lake Carlos, Lake Shetek, St. Croix, Sibley and Whitewater. Each camp consists of bunk houses, mess hall and kitchen, latrine and wash houses, and in some parks, additional buildings.

In 1956 there were 34,712 camper days; this year it is estimated that there will be at least 44,067 rays under the supervision of 39 agencies. Such groups as Boy and Girl Scout troops, 4-H, FFA, the settlement house of the Twin Cities and Duluth, farm groups, Owatonna State School for mentally retarded children, and various adult groups.

The periods of camping vary from a weekend to week-long periods extending through the summer. Applications for periods longer than 15 days have been filed during the winter at the state park office, State Office Building and are reviewed and approved in March. All short period applications and those filed in the spring are filed with the park superintendents and acted upon after the long-period applications have been assigned.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Whole Truth

Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you? With that preamble we began our conversations this week with the city's trout fishermen.

First witness, and he proved very cooperative, was Dr. Jim Disse. He, Milo Gulbranson and Don Lawrence left town quite early on Sunday, enroute for the trout waters in Clearwater county. They didn't linger long at the Clearwater river, but moved on to the upper reaches of the Kebekona creek, south of Bemidji.

The trio didn't get a trout, and they gave as their excuse the fact that they were taken suddenly sick, their sickness being blamed to an ill-conceived and an ill-prepared outdoors over-the-fire meal that they had at noon. The chef is still alive.

Don and Milo did get a "fish", for they inveigled Jim into a pinochle game. And, too, they did meet a trout fisherman that had a creel-ful of trout. This fortunate angler was John Peterson, of this city, who made a limit catch of brookies on the Kabekona.

Another successful fisherman was Chuck Davis, who came back from a trip to the Straight river with nine trout, having a rainbow and eight browns. Al Berge and Martin Gulbranson also fished the Straight river on Saturday and Sunday, with fair results. On Saturday, Al, from one pool in the river, picked up eight fine brown trout. Martin was blanked on Sunday, but managed to pick up a few brookies on Sunday.

Leo Pahlen, and he apparently was telling the whole truth, stated that he caught but one trout, that being a 10-inch brook. And he fished the Clearwater river and Nesset creek, and fished these waters hard.

It was the consensus that the near-freezing temperatures that had prevailed on Friday and Saturday night, had sent the trout into a state of hibernation. A warm rain should bring an upturn to the brook trout fishing.

Should Open: It Is Open

Reliable authorities predict that huge Lake of the Woods and Crow lake will open this weekend. Father Emmett Shanahan of Warroad visited in town this past week, and he informed us that the ice sheet in the lake was shifting, and that a strong wind would just about break it up. The ice sheet in Crow, too, is on the move.

The first report, that is authentic and verified, of the ice "going out" of Crow lake, will bring a rush of lake trout fishermen to that area. There are quite a number of local fishermen who have their equipment in order, their parties on the alert, and just awaiting the ice break-up. It's a fact that the sooner an angler gets on Crow, after the break-up the easier it is to catch lake trout.

Since the above pair of paragraphs we've typed, we've received notice that Crow lake has opened. The strong shifting winds of Tuesday and Wednesday apparently did the trick.

Still Kegling

We had thought that, with the women's and men's bowling banquets being held last week, that the bowling season had been put away for another season. Not so, apparently.

On Friday night, on the Pla-Mor alleys, starting at 7:00 p.m., a pair of top flight women's teams from Crookston, the Crookston Farm Supply and the Ottertail Power, will bowl return matches against The Pharmacy and the Soo Line, of the local women's Nite Hawk league.

The two local teams travelled to Crookston last Friday, and they returned with a win and a loss. The Pharmacy team, bowling games of 711, 673, and 615, dropped all three games too the Crookston Farm Supply, who rolled games of 751, 710, and 645. The Soo Line won their match against the Ottertail Power, two games too one. The Soo Line bowled games of 789, 599, and 672; while the Ottertail Power team had games of 656, 670, and 582.

The Pharmacy team, carrying the prestige of being the city's champions, will be revenge-minded on Friday night. You can be sure that captain Bess Lang will have her squad "up" for tomorrow night's match.

Lions Club Hears Dr. Starekow Talk on His Profession

Discussing the supply of physicians in Thief River Falls, Dr. M. D. Starekow, head of the Starekow Clinic, told members of the Lions club at their luncheon meeting Wednesday noon that in his opinion there is no lack of medical care in this city.

He also voiced his view that the nine doctors now practicing in the city care for more patients than did the 14 doctors who were here in the early 1940s. He cited, too, the great improvement in the services and facilities available at the local hospital.

Dr. Starkow denied the charge that the American Medical association and the medical schools are setting up obstacles in the way of young men desiring to become doctors.

Lincoln Prowlers Winning Streak Ended by Climax

Visitors Defeat Locals 6 to 4 in Conference Ball Game Wednesday

Coach Bud Ellingson's Climax Vikings ended the baseball Prowlers winning streak at six games by scoring four runs in the 7th inning to defeat the locals, 6 to 4, in a district conference game played here Wednesday afternoon.

The game could prove extremely costly to the Prowlers for, in the 5th inning, in an attempt to catch a fly ball hit into short centerfield by Climax' Kent Peterson, shortstop Bob Hallameck and centerfielder Ross Sloan collided heavily. Hallameck suffered an injury to his left shoulder.

The Prowlers scored a run in the 1st inning when, with two men out, Dave Berg walked, moved to second on a single by Fred Dablow, and scored as the Viking pitcher, Myron Bratager, uncorked a pair of wild pitches.

In the 4th inning, with the bases loaded by Prowlers, Lee Johnson singled to right field, tallying Tony Wald and Hallameck. And when Ross Sloan scored on an infield out, the locals held a 4 to 0 lead, and appeared on the way to a victory.

Kent Peterson, the first Viking batter in the top half of the 5th inning, lifted a short fly into centerfield, and when Hallameck and Sloan collided, Peterson was safe at first. Grant Rogenes popped out to the pitcher; Peterson was out stealing, Berg to Lee Johnson; Gary Munson walked; George Taus walked; and when a bobble was committed on Ralph Peterson's ground ball, the bags were loaded. Southpaw swinging Brent Amundson singled to score Munson and Raus. Ray Thune grounded out to Fred Dablow to end the inning.

In the game-winning 7th inning, with Ross Sloan pitching for the Prowlers, Rogenes opened with a single, and then stole second; Munson was given a walk; and then coach Skjod called in Harlie Drees, who had hurled the first six innings for the Prowlers, from shortstop to resume the pitching duties.

George Tause hit into a force play; Ralph Peterson struck out; Amundson walked to fill the bases. Thune singled to centerfield, and when the ball was bobbled, three runs came across the plate, giving the Vikings a 5 to 4 lead. Bratager's hit plated Thune, and Climax held a 6 to 4 advantage.

The Prowlers made a strong effort to even the game in the last half of the 7th inning when three bases on balls, to Berg, Dablow, and Wick, filled the sacks with two men away. Sloan bounced to shortstop Bratager, who tossed to second to erase Wick for the game-ending out.

Pedestrian Deaths Rise Sharply in April

One out of seven traffic fatalities during the first four months of 1957 was a pedestrain. Of the 182 persons who died through April 29, 25 were pedestrains.

More than half of those deaths, 13, occured during April, with nine pedestrains killed in traffic accidents during the last week.

The sudden upsurge in pedestrain deaths brought a warning from the Minnesota Highway department for pedestrains to stop walking themselves to death. The department further warned adult drivers that they must share in the responsibility for the safety of pedestrains by being alert to danger at all times.

"Nine of these deaths were of youngsters under nine years of age," reported Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director. "Most often, they came to a sudden death by rushing across a street without regard for traffic.

"As adult drivers and as parents. We owe these children a chance to live by giving them a 'break' in traffic. We must realize that to be young in the springtime is a gay and irresponsible thing; it is up to the driver to avoid these tragedies."

While one-third of these deaths were of youngsters under nine, another third were of adults 64 years of age. These two age groups have always had at least two-thirds of the pedestrain deaths.

Reports of these accidents received by the Highway Department do not show unusual driver behavior which would indicate that the deaths resulted from moving violations. Rather, in most cases the mishap occurred at slow speeds when the pedestrain suddenly appeared before the vehicle and was hit before the driver could react to the emergency. Most of the children who died were dashing in front of cars in daylight on dry surfaces.

The adults contributed to their deaths by crossing between intersections, stepping from behind parked cars or walking on roadways at night. Thoughtlessly they take a "right of way" privilege which they do not have. Walking improperly, the pedestrain becomes a "jaywalker" who must give way at all times to motor vehicles.

Winnipeg High School Band Plays Street Concert

Director Fred Merritt is shown here as he put his band through its paces at the street concert Saturday afternoon on LaBree av. The band from Vocational-Technical high school of Winnipeg was playing an exchange concert here after Lincoln High School bandsmen had paid a similar visit to the Winnipeg school earlier this year. The Canadian musical aggregation also played a concert at the high school and over KTRF.

Seven-Step Plan Builds Good Lawn

Here is a tested 7-step method for building a new lawn:

(1) Soil preparation: Dig up or rototill the top soil to a depth of 4 to 6 inches. Then pulverize the soil with a sharp rake, removing all stones and debris. If soil is poor, apply 2 or 3 inches of humus or peat moss.

(2) Plant Food: Next, apply a complete lawn fertilizer, one which is specially formulated for this purpose. Apply 30 to 40 lbs. per 100 sq. ft., distributing evenly by hand or with spreader.

(3) Seed bed: With spade or rototiller, turn under the humus, lime and fertilizer. Rake thorougly to form a level, mellow seed bed, then roll.

(4) Seeding: Use only the best quality seed and be sure it is suited to your soil, climate and growing conditions. Apply 3 to 5 lbs. per 1000 sq. ft., sowing half in one direction, the other half at right angles.

(5) Compacting: After seeding, rake lightly so as to cover seed not more than one-eight inch. Then roll to bring the seed in contact with the soil.

(6) Watering: After rolling, water with a fine spray daily, or oftener, if lawns shows signs of drying out.

(7) Mowing: While the lawn is young, do not cut it shorter than 2 inches. Once established maintain grass at a height of 1½ inches.

To perk up a run-down lawn, take these simple steps:

(1) Rake off dead grass, weeds and leaves.

(2) Rake or dig up bore spots, apply lime, if needed; add some humus, and apply a complete plant food specially formulated for lawns, at the rate of 3 lbs. per 100 sq. ft. Fill in all depressions to make a level surface. Rake, then roll, to assure a good, firm seed bed.

(3) Use best quality seed and sow it evenly. Rake in gently, covering seed with thin layer of soil.

(4) Roll lightly to bring seed in close contact with soil and to level out humps and low spots.

How To Gear Workshop To Home Jobs

Having decided to join the growing fraternity of do-it-yourself OIII craftsmen, where do you start? The answer, of course, is start by selecting and equiping an adequate place to work, a shop area for your do-it-yourself activities.

In selecting the physical location for your shop, don't skimp on space. Take every inch you can spare. It will pay off later, and you'll be glad you allowed enough. As a bare minimum, six by twelve feet will suffice, but with stationary power tools, a ten by twenty area is closer to the ideal.

After choosing the spot, think next of floor, walls, ceiling, electrical outlets and lighting. Asphalt, rubber or cork tile are best for the floor. Walls can be finished pretty much to taste, but wood paneling or a sound-deadening insulation board are always good. Allow yourself plenty of electrical outlets—115 volts, properly grounded—particularly in the main work areas of your shop. Overhead lighting—preferably flourescent—is best, and again provide for plenty to prevent eye-strain on close work.

In selecting tools, make a good choice of the hand variety your first consideration. Buy them individually or as a "kit", several good ones of which are available by reputable manufacturers. Perforated hardboard panels provide a convenient way of storing hand tools right on the wall for easy reach.

Portable electric tools such as the quarter inch drill and six or eight inch saw may be your next step.

When you select a stationary type power tool you know you're really in the shop "business." A hint—to save both money and space, investigate the popular multi-purpose units, which will keep your investment to a minimum and leave more room for other shop activity.

Old Fashioned Ideas

If we do our best; if we do not magnify trifling troubles; if we look resolutely, I will not say at the bright side of things, but at things as they really are; if we avail ourselves of the manifold blessings which surround us, we cannot but feel that life is indeed a glorious inheritance.

—John Lubbock

Correction Please

Walter Barnes remembered last week in his Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch that it was 154 years ago, on April 30, when the United States acquired the land on which his good city is located. We have no objection to Sleepy Eye being included in the territory that became part of the United States with the Louisiana purchase, but we will take issue with the further statement that the purchase included all of Minnesota.

That would bring in the site of the city of Thief River Falls, which of course would be contrary to all local legends. The Louisiana purchase was limited to lands in the Mississippi river watershed, but much of the best in Minnesota is in the Hudson Bay and St. Lawrence watersheds. Our status in this corner of the state was not definitely established until 1842 when the north boundary was defined. Our government won the argument and Thief River Falls is in the United States—and Minnesota.

Let's Yield on This Point

Henry Cabot Lodge, our embassador to the United Nations, is asking for an additional $17,500 to have a 40-guest dining room added to his official apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. He needs this because the Russian delegate has a large dining room. We gather that compared to theirs our facilities for entertainment are pretty seedy.

We can appreciate Mr. Lodge's embarrassment, but what assurance have we that the foxy Russians will permit our fancy forty-place dining room to equal theirs? They may add an extra room and provide space for fifty guests, or maybe sixty, and then where would we be?

We will go along with the idea that we should not permit the Russ to surpass us in fighting power but we think that on the entertainment front we can afford to let them take first honors. We are inclined to discount the suggestion that our struggle for survivial is going to be settled in a banquet hall.

A Great Democrat

U. S. Senator Lausche of Ohio recently opposed a five million dollar federal appropriation to provide facilities for Pan American games to be held in Cleveland in 1959. "I cannot support for Ohio what I would oppose for another state" he said in explaining his position.

When we read this report our first thought was that Lausche is a Democrat who should be a Republican. On second thought we admitted our first thought was thoughtless.

There was a time when party names had meaning. Now they are meaningless. Some of the most conservative members of Congress are Democrats, and were it not for their influence our government would be a lot crazier than it is. And, incidentally, some of the the most irresponsible members are Republicans.

Now these good Democrats are giving leadership to the drive to cut government spending and reduce taxes. Wouldn't it be wonderful if we had more of this variety of Democrats here in Minnesota.

United Fund a Success

(Faribault Daily News)

One of the outstanding civic achievements of 1956 in Faribault was the successful establishment of a United Fund organization—an incorporated group of local citizens which proved this community could do what many skeptics said it couldn't do, form a truly United Fund contribution plan to eliminate fully a score of periodic bothersome "money drives" and raise more than $53,000 for the support of 23 worthwhile community agencies.

Monday, the United Fund held its annual meeting, heard committee reports, praised the success of the 1956 drive, pledged continuance of the same support and spirit to assure another successful drive in 1957 and elected new officers and board members.

One of the chief objectives of the United Fund drive was to raise sufficient money to make single agency drives unnecessary. The value of such an objective was obvious just this month of January when a local March of Dimes was not held because of previous United Fund budget allotments to the sponsoring organization.

Faribault has demonstrated convincingly—and in the opinion of many, surprisingly—that it can support adequately the United Fund idea. Let's continue the same spirit and support so that each succeeding drive will be just as successful as 1956. Take a bow, United Fund officials, board members, canvassers and contributors, you all came through with "flying colors" when many said "it couldn't be done."

Manitoba Problem Too

(McCreary, Manitoba, Times)

It is high time that rural people of Manitoba awakened to what is going on around them. A year ago they submitted silently (stupidly, might be a better word) to the setting up of a dictatorial redistribution scheme over which our own elected representatives have no authority or control. It now appears to be the confident belief of a large section of Manitoba's population that this redistribution will very soon place the control of Manitoba's public affairs in the hands of a small, densly populated area situated in the south-west corner of this vast province.

A Place of Accomodation

(Wall Street Journal)

A special Senate committee, after polling its fellow Senators and some 150 historical scholars, has now chosen the five outstanding men in the Senate's history.

Now let us see what the Senators have done here.

Henry Clay was the great peacemaker who for 30 years tried to compromise the differences between the North and the South.

John C. Calhoun was the architect of "nullification" and the champion of the right of secession.

Daniel Webster was the champion of the undivided union, "Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

Robert M. LaFollette—called anarchist and demagogue, reformer and crusader—opposed U. S. entry into World War I, worked incessantly for rights for labor and the individual and sponsored the Senate probe of Teapot Dome.

Robert A. Taft fought the New Deal, the Fair Deal and Big Government and provided leadership for the Republican Party during his time in the Senate. He was co-sponsor of the Taft-Hartley Act which placed restraints on unrestrained labor unions.

Thus the Senators chose to honor men known to history as a compromiser, a unionist, a secessionist, a liberal and a conservative. Yet all these men had some virtues in common. They were men of great intellect, they were men of great principle as they saw their principles and they were men who put their principles above their ambitions.

But a great many other men who served in the United States Senate possessed the same virtues; why then, one may ask, were men of such differing views chosen as the "outstanding five"? The choice, we think, tells a great deal about the Senate.

One great value of the Senate—and possibly its greatest—is that the Senate is a place of accommodation of views. Its jealously guarded right to unlimited debate is one example of that accommodation. The Senators place far less weight, and properly so, on whether they believe a man to be right or wrong in his view than they do on his right to express his view. And the Senators know that since they represent 48 states whose people may have differing views, a policy of accommodation wherever possible is the best policy.

So it is not strange that the Senators chose to accommodate such differing views in honoring these five men. And the choice, it seems to us, reflects honor upon the Senate. For a policy of accommodation is, indeed, a policy this Republic can safely follow.

Pennsylvania soft coal production in 1956 was 92,000,000 tons, or a little more than 18 per cent of the total national production of 500,000,000 tons for the year, according to Keystone Coal Buyers Manual.

U. S. Senator Ed Thye Reports

Nike Defenses Proposed

The Army's announcement concerning plans for Nike missile installations adjacent to St. Paul-Minneapolis has created a great deal of interest and curiosity. It is a clear indication of the importance attached by our defense planners to this Minnesota metropolitan area. The taconite plants, iron mines, the Duluth-Superior Harbor, the many defense contractors, the University of Minnesota, Mayo Clinic, and many other factors point up the key role oud state plays in any defense planning.

Congress Reconvenes

Congress has reconvened after an Easter recess and now heads into the last half of the current session. The first half did not produce any highly controversial issues. That fact has not produced an attitude of complacency. In the coming weeks such issues as Civil Rights, Foreign Aid, Federal aid for school construction, and the budget will all contribute to vigorous debate and discussion before the final chapter of this session of congress is written.

Natural Gas Hearing

The announcement by the Federal Power Commission which set May 14 as the beginning date for hearings on the Minnesota natural gas case has caused a flurry of mail from many communities in the state. I have been most active in this matter for many monhs. I have consistently stated that Minnesota communities should receive natural gas at a reasonable consumer price and from the company which has a supply sufficient to meet both present and future needs. The Federal Power Commission is charged with the responsibility of deciding these cases and I am confident that the decision in the Minnesota matter will be fair I have been old that this is the most complicated case ever to come before the commission.

Daytime Broadcasting

I attended hearings last week by the Senate Small Business Committee on the subject of broadcast hours for daytime radio stations. This has become an important issue before the Federal Communications Commission. The small local radio stations are asking for additional hours of broadcast time. A final decision should be made within the present calendar year according to testimony from commission witnesses.

Pamphlet for Farmers

The Treasury Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has issued a paphlet entitled "Farm Rental Income Soil Bank Payments—How do they Affect my Social Security?" This pamphlet contains pertinent information for farmers who are participating in the soil bank. Copies are available at the Internal Revenue Offices. I have a limited supply in my office which will be made available to those who write in on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Thye Receives Support

I had the honor of addressing a meeting of the National Small Business Men's Association in Cleveland, Ohio on May 1. I found strong support for proposals I have made to eliminate competition with private enterprise, to provide pre merger notice to the Department of Justice, a strengthening of the anti-trust laws and other programs to strengthen the small business community and nation.

RANDEN . .

By Mrs. Ezra Davy

The Luther league program held Sunday evening, May 5, climaxed a week of special services at the Bethesda church during which Rev. Eggen of Shevlin was the guest speaker. Lois Bird, L. L. president opened the services with the audience singing "What A Friend", Rev. Ostby led in devotion basing his scripture reading on Hebrew 2:1-4; Ruth and Audrey had a duet, "He Hideth My Soul". Mrs. Andrew Skime read a letter from Margaret Lofthus on her travels through Norway and the Holy Land, in which she stated she may be in the states by next year; another duet by Ruth and Audry Jacobson "Cleanse Me." Rev. Eggen gave his message on the theme "Take Heed Lest Ye Fall."

Mrs. Carl Foss gave her secretary report on the last meeting and there was no business to attend to. Rev. Ostby then offered thanks to Rev. Eggen in behalf of the congregation for his ministry. The announcements were as follows: Confirmation class to be held at the Bethesda church Sunday, May 12, Mothers Day, at 10:30 a.m. There will be 12 young folks taking their confirmation vows that day.

The young folks were all invited to a young people social at the Wannaska lunch room after the banquet in Roseau Saturday evening, May 11.

The program closed with the audience singing "God Be With You" and the Dovology.

Sunday visitors at the Elmer Anderson home were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Norberg, Christine Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. George Mark and Keith, Shirleen, Muriel and Clayton Erickson, Arnold Selhstrom, Bob Osse, Dale Davy, Donnie and Joyce Jesme and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Davy and Bob.

Mrs. V. F. Kruta left for Mora, Minn. on Thurs. to see her sister, Mrs. Harold Knutson. The Knutsons lost their home in March, when the chimney exploded, due to an overgrown apple grove around the house. There had been no smoke or other warning before the explosion and the fire seemed to spread every where at once. The family managed to escape with their children, luckily no one was sleeping in the room where the chimney was located.

Visitors at the Elmer Anderson during the week were Henry Osse and Bob on Saturday evening, Mrs. Clarence Hoy and Leo on Friday, Levi and Alvin Osse on Thursday evening and Mr. and Mrs. Buster LaPlante of International Falls.

Mrs. V. F. Kruta attended a wedding of her niece, Violet Brottem and Peter Cassman on Saturday at Cambridge. When she returned home on Tuesday she was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Safranski of Mora.

Taking Applications for Patrol Officers

The Minnesota civil service department announced today that applications are now being received for examination for highway patrol officer positions, following approval by the state legislature for an increase of 75 men in the patrol.

Closing date for receipt of applications has been set for May 27, with written tests to be given in June. Previous candidates for the patrol who were not accepted for training and who believe they could do better in a second examination may submit new applications, if they wish.

Under recent enacted legislation, applicants accepted for appointment to the Highway Patrol Training school beginning in August will receive $200 per month while attending the school. Patrol officers will start at the newly increased salary of $335 per month with five annual increases of $10. In addition, officers will receive the increased subsistence allowance of $3 per day while on duty.

Of the 75 additional authorized officers, 34 were appointed on May 1 after completing a 10 week training school. Five of the increases will be supervisors, so 41 officer vacancies exist which will be filled after the school is concluded.

In order to qualify, applicants must be Minnesota residents, male, between the ages of 21 and 35, at least 5 feet, 10 inches and not more than 6 feet, 4 inches in height, weigh 150 pounds or over, and should be high school graduates or the equivalent.

Application blanks may be obtained at any Minnesota State Employment service office, various Highway department offices, or from the Minnesota Civil Service department, 122 State Office building, St. Paul.

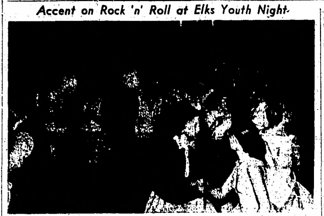
Accent on Rock 'n' Roll at Elks Youth Night



Youthful dancers predominated the ballroom scene at the Elks club last Friday evening as the lodge staged its annual youth night here. The huge crowd of teen-agers in attendance went for dancing to rock'n'roll from the juke box in a big way, in addition to gobbling large quantities of sandwiches and drinking pop by the case. A good time was had by all, even though it kept the Elks hustling to keep up with their youthful guests.

Disabled May Qualify for Social Security

The year 1957 is an important one for those who are disabled says W. Kistler of the Grand Forks social security office. If you are so severely disabled that you are unable to work, he said, you or your family may have rights under one or more of these parts of the social security law:

(1) If you are disabled and are 50 years of age and older, you may be eligible for cash disability insurance payments beginning with a payment for the month of July 1957.

(2) If you are disabled and your disability began while you were under 18 years of age, you may be eligible as of January 1957 to receive child's insurance benefits even after reaching age 18 if either your father or your mother is receiving old-age insurance payments or if you have lost the support through death of a parent who was insured for benefits.

(3) If you are disabled and have not yet reached 50 years of age, you may be eligible to have your social security earnings record "frozen" to protect your own or your family's rights to future benefit payments because of old-age, disability or death.

If you, or someone in your family believe you may qualify under one of these provisions, said Kistler, see your social security office for further information about these new disability provisions of the social security law. It is important for those already disabled that applications for disability payments be filed no lated than December 1957.

For some persons now disabled, moreover, it is important that application be made sooner. A disabled person who has not worked after September 1954 will not be able to meet the work requirements if he delays filing a claim until after June 29 of this year.

As a result, he would not be eligible to have his social security record frozen, nor to receive disability insurance benefits at age 50. He would have to wait until regular retirement age to receive any benefits, and those benefits would be reduced because of the time when he was unable to work and keep up his social security record. For many a younger disabled worker, it may also mean the complete loss of all benefit rights.
